Residents Call Road Congestion Biggest Headache

by STEVE BROWN

Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg residents name rush-hour congestion and road construction as their greatest transportation aggravations, according to a recently released study. The study was conducted by the University of Illinois for the Northwest Municipal Conference. The survey, which polled about 1,000 residents in 18 northwest Cook County communities, was released late last month, more than 14 months after the scheduled completion date. The study cost $27,500. Forty-eight Hoffman Estates residents and 40 Schaumburg residents were among the sample group.

In addition to queries regarding transportation, the survey also questioned residents' general attitudes towards the quality of services offered by their municipalities.

In both villages, residents cited police and fire protection as being either good or very good. They also praised educational services.

RECREATIONAL facilities and parks were termed either good or very good by about 46 per cent of the persons polled.

The survey, which was approved in September, 1970, concentrated heavily on residents' opinions of transportation services and facilities. Harper College in Palatine also cooperated in the study.

Only 15.6 per cent of the Schaumburg residents and less than seven per cent of those in Hoffman Estates cited public transportation as being either good or very good.

In addition to rush hour traffic tie-ups and construction bottlenecks as major causes of aggravation, more than 60 per cent of residents in both villages cited bus service as being very poor.

Conversely, 60 per cent of the residents polled recommended more funds be allocated for public transportation.

Improvement of road maintenance programs, widening existing roads, additional parking at commuter rail stations and improved driver testing were all listed as priorities for residents of both communities.

IN HOFFMAN Estates, more than 27 per cent of those polled urged much more money be allocated for street lights, while about one-third of the Schaumburg residents questioned saw additional parking at Chicago and North Western Ry. commuter stations as an area where more funds could be spent.

Residents of both villages attached much importance to many reasons traditionally given for driving to work, such as convenience of travel schedules, privacy, comfort.

In both communities, the importance of having a radio was also cited by more than 50 per cent of those polled. In Hoffman Estates 55 per cent listed the radio as being one of the important or very important reasons why they drove, while in Schaumburg, 60 per cent of those polled cited the radio as being an important or very important reason.

Several more volunteers including reports on employees' travel patterns will be released by the study group, according to Edwin Thomas, project director of the study.

Woman Killed In Car-Truck Crash

A Rolling Meadows woman was killed yesterday morning when the car she was driving collided with a truck at the intersection of W. Frontage Road and Woodfield Drive, near Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg.

A spokesman from Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, said that Gayle Bryant, 32, of 2403 Cedar Dr., Rolling Meadows, was transported to the hospital shortly after noon and died there a few minutes later.

Schaumburg police said Mrs. Bryant's car collided with a large moving van driven by Gene Beckstrom, 46, of Cottage Grove, Minn. He was not seriously injured in the accident and refused medical treatment, police said.

Police said the Bryant car was eastbound on Woodfield Drive and the truck was southbound on West Frontage Road.

Police said they have not been able to determine which driver had the right of way. No tickets were issued.

Elect Donahue Head Of Dems Organization

Ed Donahue, 1807 Jamestown Circle, Hoffman Estates, was elected president of the Schaumburg Township Regular Democratic Organization at a recent meeting in the Living Room Restaurant, Roselle.

Irene Petko, 101 Alpine Lane, Hoffman Estates, was chosen for the first vice presidency, while Jack Sullivan, 153 Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates, is second vice president. Selected third vice president was Andy Quella, 110 Newton St., Hoffman Estates. Dorothy Quella, of the Newton Street address, is treasurer; Veronica Budzisz, 1590 Ramblinwood Ln., Hanover Park, is secretary, and Ed Frank, 109 Illinois Blvd., Hoffman Estates, is parliamentarian.

Presiding at the election and installation was John Morrissey, committeeman.

Want To Wait Until State Study Completed

4 Groups Seek Delay Of Hospital OK

Representatives from four groups have asked the state to delay approval of an operating permit for the proposed Schaumburg branch of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center. They want the licensing authority to wait until after a state-funded health planning study can be finalized.

The proposed hospital is to be located on the north side of Schaumburg Road west of Roselle Road.

The Illinois Licensing Board, which will hear the application request Wednesday in Springfield, has received requests for delays from the villages of Hoffman Estates and Hanover Park, the North Suburban Association for Health Resources (NSAHR) and a Schaumburg citizens' group composed of residents of the Timbercrest subdivision.

Both Hoffman Estates and the Timbercrest group have confirmed they will send representatives to the meeting to emphasize their requests for a delay.

THE INITIAL OPERATING permit would allow Presbyterian-St. Luke's to proceed with engineering and design work.

In most cases, the groups arguing against granting the permit say it should be withheld until a study commissioned by the Northwest Cook County Health Needs Study Committee is finalized.

The preliminary draft of the study, which is scheduled to be approved on Thursday, recommends that a hospital be constructed in the vicinity of Schaumburg and Barrington roads. Presbyterian-St. Luke's has already indicated it plans to build on the 20-acre site on the north side of Schaumburg Road, about one-half mile west of Roselle Road.

Dr. Sheldon Waldstein, executive director of the NSAHR, said yesterday that he has asked Dr. Franklin Yoder, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, to delay granting the request until after the report is finalized.

"It would be very unfortunate for future planning efforts if the state were to preempt the study recommendations and grant the permit without examining the recommendations," Waldstein said.

YODER HAS FINAL authority for granting the permits. The licensing board acts as an advisory board hearing application requests.

The health planning study, paid for by the villages of Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Roselle and Alexian Brothers Medical Center and Northwest Community Hospital, in addition to the state grant, was described by Waldstein as an important effort in coordinating plans for health care needs.

Representatives of two other health planning groups said yesterday they are reviewing information and will reach a decision early next week on whether or not they will take a public stand on the Presbyterian-St. Luke's request.

Leo Hickman of Comprehensive Health Planning (CHP), the agency which coordinated the efforts to obtain the state grant for the feasibility study, said the CHP will reach a decision on its position Monday.

JOHN ZACHARIAS of the Chicago Hospital Council, another regional planning agency, said his group has tentatively decided not to take a public stand on the issue. He added the decision is still under review.

The Timbercrest group, headed by Carol Johnson, has opposed the Presbyterian-St. Luke's plans, claiming the facility would create flooding problems for nearby residential areas and add to traffic congestion.

Schaumburg officials, including Mayor Robert O. Atcher, have said that while a portion of the hospital site is on a flood plain, a building constructed there will not create any flooding problems.

The initial operating permit is the first step in a series of procedures hospital planners must undertake to gain a license. The state does not grant a license until the facility is completed, staffed and ready for operation. Presbyterian-St. Luke's officials have indicated they could be ready for operation in 1975.

If It's Wild, These Gals Are Willing

by STEVE NOVICK
If NOW, the National Organization of Women, is looking for three female counterparts to the Three Musketeers, they are here in the Northwest suburbs. They are Cheryl Youmen, Pat Moody and Roberta Reisenbuchler, three blithe spirits who were cavorting through their last day of Christmas vacation at Woodfield Mall and looking for something a little zany to do.

Nothing really malicious, mind you. Nothing to get them in trouble but something... well, different.

They thought of holding a splash party in the Woodfield fountain or roller skating down the ramps and they called a Herald reporter in as witness and recorder. He talked them out of it.

"Get you in trouble for sure," he said. "They'll take you to an office and call your parents to come and get you."

The trio, all juniors at Fremd High School in Palatine, weren't looking for trouble. "We wanted to do something wild at Woodfield," said Pat, with Cheryl adding, "Yes, something insane."

AND IT wouldn't have been the first time the girls have pulled something a little odd.

They once tried to walk into the Playboy Mansion in Chicago. They got as far as the foyer where they were spotted by close circuit television cameras and a security man.

They also tried to get to the top floor of the Hancock building and avoiding the sightseer's fee by riding freight elevators. They got as far as the 92nd floor before getting caught.

"We probably would have been allowed to stay, said Pat, but it was soon after the fire atop the building and security was 'pretty tight.' But on their way out they found the WGN transmitter room and got a brief tour of the facilities.

Closer to home, the girls regularly use the swimming pool and sauna facilities of a nearby hotel without ever being questioned.

This week they were talked out of jumping into the Woodfield pool. But that wasn't their goal anyway. Their goal this week was to get their names and picture in the newspaper.

Plan Second Workshop With FAA, IDA

Airport Study Meetings Continue

Efforts toward finalizing a workable contract for the study investigating the advisability of establishing a municipally owned general aviation airport in Schaumburg are being continued.

Members of the village airport committee are planning a second "workshop" meeting with representatives of the Federal Aviation Administration and the Illinois Department of Aeronautics.

Tentatively set for Jan. 18 with time and place to be arranged, the session also will include Walter Mann and George Cross of Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, consulting engineers chosen for the study.

The purpose of the meeting is to further discuss and negotiate details of the study which will be two-thirds funded by the FAA.

When the contract was awarded by the village to the firm last year, contingent upon FAA funding approval, costs were estimated at between $25,000 and $35,000 with an additional 25 to 40 per cent for specific environmental studies prior to site selection.

SUBSEQUENTLY, the FAA recommended a comprehensive environmental impact study be included in the feasibility study rather than immediately prior to construction.

Reworking of the proposal to include an impact study, as opposed to the usual 6- to 10-page simple environmental study has, according to the firm, added $25,380 to the original estimate of cost.

Airport committee members are seeking to revise the study to a two-phase operation which would initially examine need, feasibility and attempt to pinpoint a site.

Phase II would then include the impact study and tentative site selection if results of phase I show need for a village-owned airport. The additional expenditure then would not be needed unless results of the study are positive.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS had anticipated an additional one-sixth funding for the study from IDA. However, late in November IDA representatives advised that they had recently discovered funding from state transportation bonds cannot be used to offset costs of planning studies. State officials are awaiting an opinion from the Illinois attorney general in the matter.

With state assistance for the study apparently impossible, the village portion of Phase I study cost would be about $10,800.

In fiscal 1973, the village has budgeted $20,000 for the study. The 1972 village appropriation has carried provisions for a $59,000 expenditure for the feasibility investigation due because it was expected that all payouts to the consulting firm would come through Schaumburg with reimbursement from the federal and state agencies.

Committee members believe that a "cost plus" arrangement with the consulting firm would be the preferable arrangement. "Cost plus" has been defined by Ray LeBeau, airport chairman, as "simply a progressive payment arrangement" which would allow for orderly completion of each task required in the study.

THE COMMITTEE also has been advised by the FAA that municipal ownership of just the landing strip, aprons and taxiways at an airport is not preferred. The federal agency recommends total village ownership of an airport with leaseback arrangements to fixed base operators at the field.

The one-third of study funding that must now be borne by the village is expected to be recaptured through a revenue bond program in order to avoid taxpayer burden.

A portion of construction costs, however, is available from both the FAA and IDA should the study determine need for the village owned airport.

Litter Control Debated At ECC Meeting

The Hoffman Estates Environmental Concerns Committee focused on litter control problems at its meeting Wednesday, questioning Police Chief John O'Connell about existing laws and means of enforcement.

Village ordinances, under the nuisance section, do provide a penalty for depositing paper and cans along public roadways, said O'Connell. But somebody must see a litterbug in action, and sign a complaint, to permit police department enforcement of the ordinance, he said.

O'Connell also noted existing nuisance ordinances in the village are not clear. They have been rewritten, and the new drafts are under review by the village board judiciary committee, said O'Connell.

VILLAGE SANITARIAN Rudy Hafner reported on his efforts to work cooperatively with residents and the managers of multiple-family housing developments to cut down litter problems around garbage deposit areas.

When he observes unsightly conditions around garbage receptacles, said Hafner, he discusses the problem with the homeowner or complex manager, explaining the potential of attracting vermin. Generally, people are cooperative, he said.

The committee also discussed plans for an environmental etiquette newsletter, which may be distributed to children in Dist. 54 schools. The newsletter would be aimed at children, to illustrate what individuals can do to preserve the environment and the consequences of littering, said Trustee Diane Jensen, committee chairman. The newsletter would be written by Mrs. Sharon Hoffman, a committee member who teaches elementary school.

A special committee meeting will be held Jan. 23, in which subcommittees will report their goals for the coming year. Also to be considered is a change in the regular meeting night for the committee.

THE COMMITTEE IS investigating possible presentation of slide programs in Dist. 54 schools during Earth Week, the third week in April. The slides would indicate environmental problems in the village and also show how people can solve them, said Mrs. Jensen.

A joint meeting with Schaumburg's environmental committee will be held in the Hoffman Estates Municipal Building at 8 p.m. Jan. 30. Guest speaker will be James Reid, noise surveillance manager of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

The Hoffman Estates committee also will meet next week, tentatively on Thursday, with the village manager and attorney and Trustee Edward Hennessy, chairman of the board's judiciary committee, to discuss a proposed tree island ordinance.

IT'S THE REAL THING. BOAC's Concorde super-sonic jet is now flying out of Bristol, England, in air trials. The plane was conceived and built in com- bination by the British and French governments. Plans to use the Concorde may bring the craft to New York on the BOAC trans-Atlantic run in 1975. Criticism of the supersonic's high noise levels is largely directed at the plane's prototype engines, according to spokesman for the airline.

Tough Law May Quiet Airplanes

by WESLEY G. PIPPERT
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation may quiet down soon. Literally.
The 92nd Congress in its waning moments passed the 1972 Environmental Noise Control Act. It was far tougher than almost anyone thought possible.
The law covers just about every form of noise stemming from man's mechanical ingenuity. The most controversial part of the act gives the Environmental Protection Agency the initiative in regulating aircraft noise, with the Federal Aviation Administration possessing subsequent authority to set standards.
The EPA has reported that 80 million Americans are adversely affected by noise with 40 million facing a potential hearing loss. It said 44 million American dwellings are adversely affected by aircraft or traffic noise and 21 million other Americans are adversely affected by construction noise.

YET, GETTING a handle on how to deal with noise is difficult.
"While only recently recognized as a major environmental pollutant, noise may be one of the most perplexing," Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said. "Unlike the common air and water pollutants, noise does not accumulate in the environment. Noise is not subject to collective treatment and reduction processes. And noise is not subject to easy regulation."
The EPA said there is "some evidence" that workers exposed to high levels of noise have a higher incidence of cardiovascular disease, ear, nose and throat disorders, and equilibrium disorders. It said animal research has indicated that high sound levels can interfere with sex.

The EPA said that compensation claims for hearing loss have increased tenfold in recent years and judgments soon may reach into hundreds of millions of dollars.
During the months of drafting the legislation, the EPA and the FAA feuded over which should set noise standards for aircraft. The environmentalists wanted the EPA because they feared the FAA was too sympathetic to the aircraft industry. The FAA countered that it was more concerned than EPA about the effect of noise standards on aircraft safety.

A COMPROMISE was reached only hours before Congress adjourned. The EPA was given "lead authority" to study aircraft noise and recommend standards within six months. The FAA will have veto power but must hold hearings and justify its decisions.
Regardless of the legislation, the success of noise abatement will depend largely on engineering advances. Aviation is a prime example.
One method of cutting down jet noise is to acoustically line the pod that encloses the engine. But this cuts down performance by adding weight to the payload.

Commission Recommends Aviation Reforms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential commission has claimed the nation's aviation system is "in serious trouble" and recommended a multi-billion program to cure it, including direct government aid to airplane manufacturers.
The commission also proposed:
—Sharp decreases in allowable aircraft noise.
—Creation of an undersecretary of transportation for civil aviation.
—Establishment of a national land bank for new airport construction.
—Allowing supersonic transports to land in the United States as soon as noise and pollution standards are met.
THE TWO-YEAR study was conducted by the President's Aviation Advisory Commission whose nine members represented the public, government and industry. The commission placed the cost of its recommendations at up to $103 billion over the next 12 years.
According to the study, aircraft problem facing aviation today." Attempts so far by the aviation industry to cut aircraft noise "are insufficient to win public acceptance," the report said.

It urged the airlines to set up immediately "steeper takeoff and approach" procedures for aircraft, to speed engine retrofit programs, and to "retire from service" by 1980 any airliners unable to meet federal aircraft noise standards.
The commission recommended that supersonic transports be permitted to use U.S. air space "as soon as it is clear" that they do not cause serious environmental problems, that they do meet noise standards, and do not produce sonic booms over "U.S. land areas."
Potentially the most controversial recommendation by the commission was one urging the government to give financial help to the airplane manufacturers.
"Direct financial participation by the federal government is recommended if the risk to private industry is considered too great for it to support," a statement accompanying the report said.

IT ALSO URGED the government to appoint an undersecretary for civil aviation to "handle the selection of civil transport aircraft" and to deal with federal aid to manufacturers.
Under the present system, aircraft manufacturers compete for airline business with individually designed airliners. But airline industry observers claim the cost of the super airliners of the future will be too great a risk for the manufacturers, who could face bankruptcy if an airliner is economically unsuccessful.
The commission said it would much prefer to leave the development of large transport aircraft up to the private sector.

Six days before he is to be sworn in as a state senator, State Rep. David J. Regner, R-Arlington Heights, was named yesterday to a Republican leadership post in the Senate.

Regner was appointed secretary of the Republican Senate Caucus, the group which sets party policy on questions before the Senate.

As secretary, Regner joins Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, — who was appointed the previous day as assistant majority leader in the Senate — in the inner circle of Republican senators.

While the post of assistant majority leader carries with it certain prerogatives in matters of office quarters and staff assistance, Regner's post is a party position with no special legislative prerogatives, but it is an indication of his standing in the party.

THE POST of secretary of the caucus ordinarily is given largely on the basis of seniority. Appointment of Regner, a freshman in the Senate, constitutes recognition of his effectiveness both to the party and as a legislator.

After only two terms as a representative, he was named chairman of the key Appropriations Committee in the current term.

His appointment would seem to guarantee him a seat on the Senate Appropriations Committee and probably a vice-chairmanship on another committee of his choosing. Regner said he also will remain on the Economic and Fiscal Commission, a joint House-Senate commission to determine budgetary needs and priorities.

As assistant floor leader, Graham, who has served 14 years in the General Assembly, will have positions on a number of key committees, including the Rules and Executive committees. Though he is the ranking majority member of the Labor and Commerce Committee, he said he would not have a chairmanship.

SEN. WILLIAM C. Harris, R-Pontiac, has indicated he will ask Graham to take the major role in assignment of bills to various committees. "Any given package of bills might logically be assigned to as many as three committees," Graham explained, "so it is important to examine each of the thousands of bills to see what they go to the proper committee and to assure that the workload is spread around."

That and other duties as assistant leader will preclude taking on duties of a committee chairman, he said. Regner said Harris had indicated that the Republican caucus will meet daily when the Senate is in session to discuss policy matters and to keep party members informed.

GRAHAM reported yesterday that the Senate had approved a bill granting pay increases to state officers and establishing $32-per-day expense allowances for legislators.

He also issued a warning to legislators that unless they can prove expenses claimed under the $32 limit, they could face action by the Internal Revenue Service. He said that the allowance is not a grant, but a ceiling and unless expenses are carefully recorded, the IRS might well count it as taxable income.

An amendment to the pay-raise bill supported by Graham — which would have reduced the amount of increases for state officers — was defeated yesterday. The Senate then approved increases from $30,000 per year for the secretary of state and attorney general to $42,500 and raised the salary of the lieutenant governor from $35,000 to $37,500. The amendment would have reduced those amounts to $40,000 and $35,000.

Sanitary District Buys Land For Area Sewer

The Metropolitan Sanitary District Board yesterday voted to pay $15,000 for four parcels of land needed for an interceptor sewer in Schaumburg.

The board approved a settlement on a condemnation suit regarding the property which lies in the path of Interceptor sewer No. 11 for the new Salt Creek Water Reclamation Plant.

The Interceptor will run from Higgins Road south to a point directly west of the new plant. It will be east of Plum Grove Road and West of Meacham Road.

The property was owned in trust through the Parkway Bank and Trust Co. The condemnation suit was filed in February, 1972. The settlement offer reportedly was made to the MSD by the property owners.

AN EXPLOSION in the oil heating system of a trailer at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caused $5,000 damage and left one family homeless Wednesday. The Elk Grove Village Fire Department responded to the fire just 2 1/2 hours before fire protection services to the trailer park from the village were scheduled to be terminated because of the owners' failure to sign a contract with the village.

21 1/2 Hours Didn't Matter: Fire Destroys Trailer

Two persons escaped injury Wednesday when their trailer, at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caught fire after an explosion in the trailer's oil heating system. The fire occurred just 2 1/2 hours before fire protection services from Elk Grove Village were to be terminated to the park.

Damage to the trailer of Zell Clark, 39 Charles, was estimated at $2,500 with another $2,500 in contents lost. Mrs. Clark and her baby were home at the time of the fire, and both escaped uninjured.

Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the fire started in a leaking fuel oil line in the trailer's heating system. He said firemen had a difficult job extinguishing the blaze because oil had saturated the floor of the trailer and had leaked underneath.

Firefighter George Rezny, 37, suffered minor injuries while fighting the blaze.

FIREMEN SAID Mrs. Clark said she heard an explosion and saw fire coming from her furnace, and then she grabbed her baby and ran to a neighbor's trailer to report the fire.

Mrs. Clark said a maintenance man had looked at the leaking furnace earlier that afternoon but had not fixed it, according to firemen.

Hulett said three engines from Elk Grove Village and one from Schaumburg responded to the fire. There are no fire hydrants in the park, and water had to be brought in. An engine from Hoffman Estates stood by at the village headquarters station on Blesterfield Road. The fire was out within 20 minutes, he said.

The fire occurred at 9:29 p.m., 2 1/2 hours before the trailer park lost the fire protection services of Elk Grove Village at midnight. The trailer park, located in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, had been receiving fire protection through an oral contract the late owner, Lewis Gauger, had with the village.

Since Gauger's death two years ago, the heirs and owners of the trailer park have not recognized the content or existence of any oral agreement.

VILLAGE MGR. Charles Willis said the current owners were sent registered letters last week saying that because the owners failed to meet the terms of any agreement, fire and ambulance services to the trailer park would be terminated as of Jan. 1.

Willis said Tuesday the fire department had been authorized to provide protection through part of Wednesday to avoid any confusion because of the holidays.

Hulett said yesterday he met with Willis at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, and at that time he was told the deadline for fire service to the trailer park would be extended unofficially to midnight as a "final grace period for the owners to work out some arrangement."

A REPORT TO OUR SAVERS:

As 1973 begins, we are grateful that our progress has been due in great measure to our customers' efforts along the line of thrift and home ownership.

The year 1972 saw the savings and loan business achieve its largest growth both on the savings and the mortgage side of the operations. We are proud to report that this growth pattern was also reflected here at Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Assets of your local association have grown over the 17 million mark, we are happy to report. Loyalty of our savers has been unwavering and will continue our friendly and personal service as an institution large enough to help and small enough to know its customers.

In our opinion 1973 should be another year of growth for the community we serve. Our local housing and real estate markets should remain active. Savings flows should continue strong and assure an ample supply of mortgage money to finance home and apartment purchases.

Library Sees A Break-Even Fiscal Year

The Schaumburg Township Public Library should end its fiscal year with a depleted bank account but a balanced budget, said Michael Madden, librarian.

At Wednesday's board meeting, Madden said the library has spent approximately $243,000 for the fiscal year ending Feb. 28, and had estimated a $235,000 operating budget for the year. Madden said that the year's income was estimated at $307,000 and could be slightly higher. However, even with the increase in income, the library will just break even this year, he said.

Madden expects taxes to come in by May.

"If they don't, we might have to go to anticipation warrants to meet fixed expenses," he said.

The trustees set an 8 p.m. budget committee meeting Jan. 12 to prepare the budget.

THE PERSONNEL committee will meet Jan. 12 at 8 p.m. Both meetings will be held at the library, 32 Library Ln., Schaumburg. Disability insurance for library employees will be discussed.

Library Board Pres. Ruth Tresselt said the library has requested Schaumburg Township officials give the library a share of the federal revenue funds the township recently received.

Township officials are considering how the money can be spent, she said, adding they will be in contact with the library.

The library plans to buy books with any funds it might receive from the township.

The Doctor Says

Most Diabetes Can Be Controlled

by LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Why can't diabetes be cured? I am 62 and have just found out I have it. It did not show in the urine originally. I kept a constant check on my kidneys, and over a year ago diabetes was even ruled out.

Then all at once my urine showed 4+ and I was given a tolerance test and the blood sugar was 598. I was placed in a hospital, and they put me on insulin and an 800-calorie diet to reduce.

The insulin injection made my legs sore, and it keeps getting worse. From the treatment I am getting, my blood is staying down around 110 or close to that. I also have diverticulosis and my diet calls for lots of vegetables.

I've had some discomfort in the bowels and back, and yet I have to eat to balance the calorie intake with my medicine, as I understand it. We know of no one in our family who had diabetes, or at least we never heard of it. Is it true one cannot undergo surgery?

Dear reader — Most cases of diabetes cannot be cured, but they can be controlled. Although there are several complex mechanisms which can cause the blood sugar to be markedly elevated, the common one associated with diabetes is related to inadequate production or utilization of insulin, a hormone from the pancreas.

Insulin or similar medicines are given to enable the body to utilize the blood sugar, glucose. Without normal insulin action the inability to use blood glucose causes the sugar to accumulate in the blood to very high levels.

Once the level exceeds about 170, sugar spills out in the urine, since the kidney's filtering mechanism is set to eliminate accumulations of sugar above this level. If you lose too much sugar in the urine, you begin to lose weight, because the calories in the food converted to blood glucose are lost through the kidneys. The kidneys need water to wash the sugar out in the urine, causing the person to pass lots of urine frequently.

To replace the water that's lost, one must drink lots of water. Therefore, the symptoms of diabetes are thirst, frequent urination, and weight loss with a large appetite. The individual eats a lot of food but still loses weight because the food energy is lost in the urine. I am surprised you hadn't already lost some weight with the high blood sugar level that you report in your letter.

THE DIET IS very important in the treatment of diabetes, and you're correct in saying that it must be balanced against the medicines you're taking. In individuals with milder forms of diabetes than you apparently have, weight reduction alone by proper diet oftentimes lowers the blood sugar to acceptable levels.

Diabetes does seem to have a tendency to be inherited, although many individuals do have it without any known previous family history. The fact that there is no one in your family that you know of who had diabetes is no reason that you couldn't have it, as your case has demonstrated.

There is no reason to perform surgery in real diabetes. If the elevated blood sugar is associated with inflammation of the pancreas where insulin is performed in association with gall bladder disease or some other problem, sometimes surgery is indicated. These are not true cases of persistent diabetes. Surgery for other proper reasons, such as appendicitis, can be and is done in diabetics.

Electronic Beep Replaces Cane For Blind In Vienna

VIENNA (UPI) — The tapping of the blind person's cane is being replaced in Vienna by an electronic beeping noise.

Instead of feeling and asking their way across busy Vienna streets, the blind can hear whether the stop lights are on green or red. A loud, low-frequency "beep" tells the blind to cross. No sound means wait.

Vienna's first sound-light system was set up in June opposite a school for the blind. It is the only one, but city authorities promise more.

Friedrich Benesch, principal of the school, said, "we've been lucky that there haven't been any accidents involving blind children outside our school. But with more cars and trucks on the road, it was only a matter of time. We were living in fear."

IN 1970 BENESCH asked the city for special measures to protect his pupils. It took an Austrian electronics company almost two years to come up with the sight-and-sound system, at a cost to the city of $22,000.

The beeping noise lasts five seconds and tells the blind to go and that they have 12 seconds to cross the street.

Pupils at the school say the system is a good idea, but complain they don't get enough time.

"There should be longer go-phases for us," Willi Kollmann, a 16-year-old blind student said. "Twelve seconds is too short," Walter Lindner, also 16, agreed. "You hear the beep noise starting and know you have twelve seconds to get across. But who can count exactly twelve seconds? It forces us to hurry too much," he said.

Young Lindner said one advantage of the system was that drivers respected it more than conventional stop lights.

"When we had normal lights," Walter said, "the drivers used to roar away on green as if it was a racetrack — regardless of whether a pedestrian, blind or not, was in the way. Now we have more protection and the drivers have more respect."

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The day is fast approaching when store clerks cashing your checks will ask for one more piece of identification — your thumbprint.

They're already doing it at many big retail outlets in suburban Redwood City and at a handful of Sears, Penneys, and other department and discount stores as well as Howard Johnson motels around San Francisco Bay.

The thumbprints are placed on the back of the cashed checks by an inkless process utilizing a "little black box" manufactured by Identicator Corp., a small San Francisco firm.

The company has placed 500 of them around the Bay area, mostly on a try-out basis, following a successful six-month "pilot project" in Redwood City, a town of 35,000 about 25 miles south of San Francisco.

THE PURPOSE of the thumbprint is to deter the bad checkwriter, who won't want to leave incontrovertible evidence behind.

"We're trying to stop the robbery by pen rather than the robbery by gun," said Oscar Pieper, the young president of Identicator.

"Bad check artists cost every man, woman and child in the United States $50 a year in higher prices. The only way to stop them is to make sure the person who writes a check is who he says he is."

Police Chief John R. McDonald of Redwood City said a six-month test of the process in his town resulted in a 31.2 per cent decline in criminal check complaints and a saving of "several thousand dollars" by retailers.

"One chain store reported that checks returned for insufficient funds dropped from $4,000 a quarter to less than $1,400 a quarter," he said.

McDONALD PREDICTED that thumbprints on the back of returned checks eventually will be used to trace the writers — after federal and state fingerprint records are fully computerized.

The device, which sells for $200 and needs a $15 recharge every 50,000 prints, was invented by Hugh McDonald, chief of detectives with the Los Angeles County sheriff's office before his retirement. He also developed the Identikit, which police witnesses use to create a picture of a suspect.

With Identicator, the customer merely presses his thumb against the back of the check — usually inside a square stamped on it by the clerk. The clerk then puts one end of the check into a slot in the "little black box" and pushes a lever.

When the check is removed, a black thumbprint "developed" by a dry chemical spray is visible where the customer pressed down.

The device leaves no mess or ink on the customer's thumb because it relies on the natural oils in a person's finger to make the photostat.

Other uses of the little black box are in the office — on credit card sales slips, credit applications, entrance to restricted areas, savings account withdrawals, receipts for goods, and gun registration. He said one pilot's group has suggested requiring thumbprints for airline ticket purchases as an antijacking device.

Bargain hunters are finding a lot of "best buys" among the enormous quantities of material declared surplus by the Department of Defense.

It's by no means limited to used howitzers and tanks. The surplus of the military includes everything from saucers to saxophones, and such larger items as air conditioners, trailers and cycles.

While much of the surplus is sold, by bid or at auction, in commercial lots, there are little-publicized retail sales for the general public, at many military installations scattered around the country.

A RECENT listing of surplus for sale includes photographic equipment, lamps and light fixtures, hardware and hand tools, paints and brushes, furniture, office machines, musical instruments, phonographs and "home-type radios" (as distinguished from "communication equipment" — also for sale), and "motor vehicles."

THE MUCH-sought-after Jeep isn't included in the general-public sales. Jeeps are "limited in quantity and are sold at location by competitive bid," says the DoD.

There are two ways for the average citizen to buy Defense Department surplus.

Spread geographically around the country are 10 Defense Surplus Sales Offices. Each serves an area of from two to 10 states. Sales are held at these major locations whenever enough surplus has accumulated. It's sold, generally, either by sealed bid or at auction.

All sales are open to the public, and it's policy that "property is offered in such reasonable quantities as to encourage participation by business concerns of all sizes, as well as individuals." Sealed bid sales, however, generally involve large quantities of items having a commercial or technical application. Auctions, too, usually require bidding on substantial lots.

Individual buyers will generally find the "spot bid" sales more to their taste. They can inspect ahead of time the items for sale, and then either mail in a bid or attend the sale and make a spot bid. High bidders are awarded their selections, item by item, as the sale progresses.

IN ADDITION to these sales at the 10 regional offices, local auctions and spot bid sales are held, with some frequency, at a variety of military activities. They involve smaller quantities of surplus, and the sales are publicized only locally.

Finally — and the best bet for most individual bargain hunters — there are the retail sales where surplus items carry fixed prices, as on bargain counters everywhere. The prices are "based on current market value." How good a bargain you'll find depends on who's doing the pricing. The retail sales occur "at certain military installations that generate property having appeal to the general public."

To find out where you can go bargain hunting, begin by writing to "DoD Surplus Sales," P.O. Box 1370, Battle Creek, Mich. 49016. Ask which of the Defense Surplus Sales Offices serves the area in which you live.

Once you have the address of the regional office, you write or call there to find out when and where retail sales are held, or the locations of local auctions and spot bid sales.

Hallcrafters Gets Police Radio Pact

The Hallcrafters Co., Rolling Meadows, received a $297,000 contract to provide the City of San Francisco's Police Department with a quantity of HC-400 UHF portable two-way radios for its personal instantaneous communications program.

The system was conceived and designed by the City and County of San Francisco, Department of Electricity in conjunction with the police department.

Gas Industry Sets New Sales Highs

The natural gas utility and pipeline industry posted new records in sales, revenues, and numbers of customers during 1972, the American Gas Association reports. Sales to residential, commercial, and industrial customers all increased. But continued restrictions on gas sup-

PR Consultant

To Address Council

"Never treat humans like relations" will be the theme of guest speaker Richard Jackman at the Jan. 17 meeting of the Northwest Industrial Council. The meeting will be at the Lancer Steak House in Schaumburg.

Jackman, a consultant in public and human relations, is a graduate of the Iowa School of Journalism. He served as a correspondent for the Chicago Tribune and United Press while in the Army and was an instructor in public information, newswriting and photography for enlisted men of all services. He has worked for the past 15 years as a communications and public relations consultant in industry.

The dinner meeting will begin with a social hour at 5:30 p.m. Dinner will be served at 6:30.

plies, coupled with abnormally warm weather in the early part of the year, held the rate of increase for overall sales to less than half the average annual increases of the 1960s.

Sales climbed 2.3 per cent, and revenues were up 8.1 per cent based on preliminary year-end estimates. During the 1960s the average increase in sales was 5.6 per cent.

THE RISE in revenues was attributed to increased costs of gas purchased by utilities which are reflected in higher rates approved by many state regulatory commissions.

The smallest percentage increase was in residential sales — up .7 per cent compared with 2.4 per cent in 1971. The restrictions on new customers in some areas played a part in this further sharp decline, but the main cause was the warm weather during months when most home heating gas is sold.

The effect of shortage was seen most clearly in industrial sales growth — down to .9 per cent from 2.4 per cent. This decline reflected curtailment in new sales to industrial customers, and increasing cutbacks to existing industrial customers who purchased gas with the understanding that the supply can be interrupted if gas is needed to fulfill other demands.

Commercial sales showed the highest growth rate in 1972 due largely to an increasing trend toward apartment living. Even so, the rate of growth was down to 4.7 per cent against 7.4 per cent in 1971.

The industry ended the year with a new record of 43.5 million customers. Plant investment also rose to a peak of $42.2 billion.

"For the second year running a shortage has prevented customers from getting all the gas they want," says William P. Woods, chairman of the American Gas Association. "Scarcity is already holding back our rate of economic growth."

WOODS WHO is chairman of the Washington Natural Gas Co., Seattle, said the industry is growing and will continue to grow as it searches for new sources.

The AGA report showed the following details about the gas industry in 1972: approximately 750,000 customers were added during 1972, bringing the year-end total to nearly 43.5 million. This included 39.9 million residential customers, more than 3.3 million commercial users, and about 250,000 industrial and other customers.

Revenues from gas sales climbed to $12.3 billion, an increase of 8.1 per cent over revenues of $11.4 billion in 1971. The growth in revenues followed the same pattern as sales, with commercial sales accounting for 10.1 per cent increase to $2 billion, industrial up 8.0 per cent to $3.9 billion, and residential up 6.3 per cent to $6 billion.

The volume of sales in 1972 added up to a record 17,056 trillion British thermal units (Btu's). Commercial sales accounted for 2,257 trillion Btu's, industrial 8,721 trillion, and residential 5,076 trillion.

PROJECTIONS BY the AGA Department of Statistics indicate that about 25 million new gas customers will be added by 1995. During that same period, total sales are expected to increase by 177 per cent to 45,100 trillion Btu's.

More than 9 million new customers are expected during the decade of the seventies, and projections show a 4.6 per cent average annual sales growth for the 10-year period.

Gas industry construction expenditures during 1972 totaled $3.0 billion. About 25,000 miles of pipeline and mains were added during 1972 to the nation's underground pipeline system. The total now stands at 959,000 miles.

The gas industry has grown from a $5 billion industry in 1945 to more than $50 billion at the end of 1972.

MSD To Study Tunnel, Reservoir Plan

by ANNE SLAVICK
Preliminary engineering designs for the O'Hare Tunnel and Reservoir Plan, the Northwest suburban portion of the Metropolitan Sanitary District's Chicago Underflow Plan, will be studied by the MSD board in a special meeting next week.

Board members will meet Jan. 12 to consider the proposed plans for the local system of tunnels, connecting structures, detention basins, and storage basins.

More than $90 million will be spent on 11 separate construction contracts in the Northwest suburbs, according to the plan.

The project is expected to be completed slightly more than five years after the engineering contracts are awarded.

MSD officials say the O'Hare Tunnel and Reservoir system will benefit Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Des Plaines, Wheeling and Rolling Meadows. "Seven local sanitary districts in unincorporated areas in Elk Grove, Maine, Northfield, Palatine and Wheeling townships also will benefit," a district report indicates.

THE LOCAL PLANS are included in a proposed agreement the district is considering through which it would hire the firm of DeLeuw, Cather and Co., to prepare detailed engineering specifications for the project. The MSD board Dec. 21 delayed action on approving the agreement with the engineering firm.

Although the board met in regular session yesterday, no final approval for the agreement with the firm is expected until after the scheduled Jan. 12 study session.

The MSD already has approved the start of City of Chicago engineering designs on the underflow plan for the McCook-Summit area and for the branch of the tunnel system that will parallel Lake Michigan from Chicago to Wilmette.

Under the proposed agreement, DeLeuw, Cather and Co., would receive up to $2,376,000 for the engineering on the Northwest suburban portion of the project.

SPECIFICALLY, the system will collect all overflows from combined sanitary and storm sewer systems in Upper Des Plaines (O'Hare) Drainage Basin and in the Upper Salt Creek Drainage Basin.

The tunnels will then convey the combined sewage to detention basins and storage reservoirs where it will be aerated.

When a storm has subsided the combined sewage will be pumped to the proposed O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant to be treated before it is released into streams.

In addition to the combined sewer overflow collection and treatment, the tunnel and reservoir plan will collect all sanitary sewage from separate sewered areas within the O'Hare Drainage Basin and divert it to the O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant for treatment.

The MSD plans to seek state and federal grant funds to help finance the local project. THE BASIC LAYOUT of the plan calls for a rock tunnel to extend from O'Hare reclamation plant and a storage reservoir in Des Plaines north along Elmhurst Road to a point south of Lincoln Street in Mount Prospect.

From there the tunnel follows a curved route through Mount Prospect until it reaches a dropshaft on the south side of Central Road just east of Busse Road. North of Central Road an earth tunnel would extend from a detention basin there to the Northwest Highway.

The earth tunnel would then run northwest, paralleling the Northwest Highway to Rohlfing Road in Rolling Meadows, turn west and extend to a detention basin on the east side of Hicks Road in Palatine.

Under the proposal presented to the sanitary district by the engineering firm, work would begin during the first year on subsurface exploration, design of the rock tunnels and dropshafts and design of the downstream reservoir located near the O'Hare plant.

Construction will not begin on any of the projects until 18 months after the design work begins. In addition to designing the rock tunnels and seven dropshafts for the main portion of the plan, the company would study the best way to intercept and store combined sewage overflows within the Village of Palatine.

The engineers will study the size of detention basins and pumping stations for handling Palatine as a part of the O'Hare Tunnel and Reservoir Plan. In addition, an alternative method of holding Palatine's combined sewage within the Palatine area and diverting the flow to the Salt Creek Water Reclamation Plant instead of the O'Hare plant will be studied by the engineers.

John Egan Reelected President Of MSD

John E. Egan was elected to a fourth term as president of the Metropolitan Sanitary District Board of Trustees (MSD) yesterday by unanimous vote of the district trustees.

Egan, who was first elected an MSD trustee in November 1962, was first chosen as president of the MSD board in 1968.

The trustees also elected Nicholas Melas to a second term as vice president of the district. Melas also was first elected as trustee in November 1962. Both Egan and Melas praised the cooperation of sanitary district employees in their acceptance speeches.

In action at the MSD board meeting yesterday Trustee Valentine Janicki criticized a proposal to give tax breaks for new construction or remodeling. The proposal for the new state legislation, suggested by Cecil A. Partee, president pro tem of the state senate, would tax new construction at 20 per cent of assessed value for the first year with the percentage increasing each year until a 100 per cent figure was reached five years after the building was occupied.

The plan is designed to give builders a break on taxes and to double construction under way in the state.

JANICKI, CHAIRMAN of the MSD finance committee, said he was concerned the proposal would financially strap the sanitary district.

The board voted to have the finance department and law department check the proposal's potential effect on district revenue. JANICKI SAID the district already is having problems getting funds to meet pollution control deadlines.

The board also voted to give consideration to a proposal made by new Trustee Joanne Alter, who suggested the district hold its meetings in outlying areas of Cook County on several occasions each year.

Restating a proposal she made during her campaign, Mrs. Alter said holding meetings in the suburbs would encourage citizen participation in the MSD. She said the district should not only go to suburban areas when a crisis exists.

'73 May Be Year Of Change In Schools

by WANDALYN RICE

Local school officials are approaching the new year with "cautious optimism" about their budgets, one eye on the legislature and increasing concern about the formation of unit districts.

Generally, business managers in the 10 Northwest suburban school districts do not see 1973 as a year of impending crisis, but all are careful to hedge their predictions.

"I don't feel like I'm going to have an ulcer over finances this year," James Hendren, business manager of Prospect Heights Dist. 23, said, "but there are so many ifs — a new governor, changes in the state aid formula and the talk of a tax freeze — that it's difficult to predict."

Hendren's sentiments were echoed by other school officials as they viewed the new year. In general, they agreed enrollment growth is slowing and financial projections are stabilizing.

EVEN ROBERT WEBER, business manager of High School Dist. 214, who only a few months ago was talking about the possibility of a tax rate referendum, is more optimistic. "Right now," he said, "we're looking at about a $2 million deficit for 1973-74, but that would be only if we were unable to cut and if there is no increase in state aid."

Every year, however, the Illinois General Assembly has raised the level of state school aid and, Weber said, "it wouldn't take a dramatic increase this year to make up that deficit. That's my optimistic hope."

The one major exception to the generally bright financial picture is in Mount Prospect Dist. 57. The district has had declining enrollment since the mid-1960's and last year lost a tax rate referendum. Recently a report was given the board showing that the district will nearly run out of operating funds by 1976, even if some state aid increases occur.

However, some observers believe that 1973 may be a bigger year for changes in the state school aid formula than many business managers are counting on.

THE FOCUS of these beliefs is a series of court cases, including several now pending before the U.S. Supreme Court, challenging conventional methods of school financing.

In several cases, courts have already ruled that local property taxes cannot be used to finance schools because that results in inequality between rich and poor districts. The supreme court has been asked to uphold those rulings.

Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Superintendent Donald Strong, a member of a state task force on school finance, said he expects to see several proposals to revise the Illinois financing system, but added he is unsure of their prospects for success.

"With court direction I think things will move reasonably and equitably in Illinois," Strong said. "If we don't get court decisions, changes will be much more difficult."

CURRENTLY the task force Strong is on, commissioned by Illinois School Supt. Michael Bakalis, and another group assigned by outgoing Gov. Richard Ogilvie are studying ways to "equalize resources" and eliminate financial inequities among school districts.

Once serious moves occur in the direction of equalization, Strong predicts controversy. "When Robin Hood takes from the rich and gives to the poor, half the people will be better off and half will be worse off," he said. "That's what will happen with equalization formulas."

The other, more immediate change that may affect Northwest suburban school districts in 1973 is the prospect of reorganization and the formation of unit school districts.

Local schools are now organized as "dual" districts, with separate districts for elementary and high schools. A unit district would combine all grades under a single school board and administration.

THE MOVE toward a unit school district began early last year in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59. Dist. 59 Supt. James Ervill, told the board he believes that unit school districts provide better education than dual districts.

The board hired a consulting service to investigate the possibility of forming a unit district, always keeping in mind that the present state aid formulas reward unit districts and penalize dual districts. The report is due March 1 and Dist. 59 officials have indicated that it may be possible to have a new dual district formed by July 1, 1974.

High School Dist. 214, which could lose two high schools and a substantial amount of taxing power if Dist. 59 becomes a unit district, has been slow to react to the unit district move.

However, in November, Dist. 214 called a summit conference with the school boards of its elementary school districts to discuss the question. At that time opposition to the Dist. 59 move surfaced, but at a later meeting elementary board members agreed that Dist. 214 should take the lead in any action on the issue.

SCHAUMBURG Mayor Robert Atcher has also proposed that his village form a unit district, thus cutting up the existing elementary Dist. 54 and High School Dist. 211.

Atcher's proposal, referred to as "economic gerrymandering" by Dist. 211 Board Pres. Robert Creek, is given little chance by observers for success, but in another indication of interest in the unit district issue in the area.

Dist. 214 officials and others who have doubts about unit districts have pointed out that changes in the state aid formula may eliminate the financial advantage to forming a unit district.

The two uncertainties facing school districts in the coming year — legislative action and unit districting — are thus tied together. In addition, it seems unlikely that either of the issues will be finally resolved this year.

CHANGES in the state aid formula, even if forced by the courts, are unlikely to take effect in a single year, particularly if they involve reallocation of funds — what Strong calls the "Robin Hood" approach.

At the same time, the unit district move by Dist. 59 seems certain to expand into 1974.

The coming year, then, could possibly be the beginning of major changes in Northwest suburban schools. School officials are going to be watching for that.

Courts Give Decisions On American Shenanigans

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Mississippi Supreme Court ruled Dec. 11 that it is a criminal act for a man to be a "Peeping Tom" but the law does not apply to women peepers. If you think that's an oddball ruling, read on.

by DICK HYMAN

Ever since the Pilgrims established a permanent settlement on our shores in 1620, judges and justices from the lowest to the highest courts in the land have been handing down decisions on American shenanigans. And some of them are very dizzy indeed . . .

A Georgia Superior Court ruled: Those who shoot their friends for amusement ought to warn them first that it is mere sport.

A New Jersey court ruled that a man who breaks his leg in a three-legged race during a company picnic is not entitled to Workmen's Compensation.

A DETROIT municipal judge ruled that a "friendly kiss" from the boss is assault and battery.

The New Jersey State Supreme Court ruled that a woman who does housework for her fiancé cannot collect for it if the man backs out of the marriage.

A Texas judge decreed in 1911: It is extremely difficult to draw the line on a drunk. There are various stages such as quarter drunk, half drunk and dead drunk. There are stages of being vivacious, foxy, tipsy, and on a "high lonesome." It is about as difficult to determine when a young lady gets to be an old maid as to tell when a man has taken enough alcoholic stimulant to become "jolly sober" or "gentlemanly drunk."

A NEW YORK court ruled: There is no such thing as a secret when known by a woman.

Ruled a judge in Los Angeles: No man nor any ordinance promulgated by man can inhibit the habits of rabbits.

A California court decided a drunken man has as much right to a good sidewalk as a sober man, and he needs one a good deal more.

An attorney general in Connecticut ruled that if you are a beaver you have a legal right to build dams.

A MUNICIPAL court in Pontiac, Mich., ruled that it is unconstitutional, discriminatory and unreasonable for police to ticket ice cream vendors for ringing bells.

An Iowa court ruled that a man has a right to keep his mother-in-law out of his house.

A Michigan judge ruled that a woman's hair belongs to her husband.

The Oklahoma State Supreme Court ruled that gin is intoxicating.

Sport Heroes Cash In On The Tube

by NICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Few segments of American life have benefited financially from television as much as sports — and its star athletes.
Sports that once scrambled for a living — pro football, for instance — have grown wealthy thanks in great part to fat video contracts.
And athletes who at one time earned more earthbound salaries pull down big wages made possible in good measure by the large sums of money going to sports from television.
It's not just a matter of business significance; it can affect the life directions of, say, youngsters looking to break out of poverty.
AND ALTHOUGH there has always been a strong connection between star athletes and show business, video has made the opportunities for sports heroes in the theatrical world greater than ever.
Through home screens all over the land, the athletes have already become well-known stars and constantly familiar figures in households.
So we have a Joe Namath as guest host of NBC-TV's "Tonight" show, or a Bill Russell as guest host of ABC-TV's Dick Cavett program or perhaps doing a comedy turn on NBC-TV's Flip Wilson series.
We have Joe Kapp, who used to throw footballs for the Minnesota Vikings, starring with Fess Parker in a two-hour NBC-TV teleplay. And we have Alex Karras, who formerly made his living knocking down people as a lineman for the Detroit Lions, starring in a 90-minute CBS-TV teleplay.
IT'S NO SECRET that NBC-TV just about willed the American Football League into prominence. The National Football League had virtually all the chips at one time.
But NBC-TV, anxious to capitalize on the pro gridiron market, hung on with the younger league until it finally gained enough stature to merge with the older one.

Over at ABC-TV, as another example, the considerable exposure given games of the National Basketball Association have certainly made the sport more prominent and lined quite a few pockets with greenbacks.
Television commercials have become another financial bonanza for athletes, although there is a feeling in some quarters that black stars are still not getting the countless chances available to whites.

SPORTSCASTERS ARE cashing in on the television market too.
Examples:
—Howard Cosell, in addition to his other assignments and guest shots on various shows, will have a new 15-minute series on ABC-TV starting Sunday. Title: "Howard Cosell Sports Magazine."
—Vin Scully, the voice of baseball's Los Angeles Dodgers — and one of the most admired craftsmen in his field — will have a new Monday through Friday half-hour daytime celebrity interview series on CBS-TV beginning Jan. 15. His guest on the debut of "The Vin Scully Show" will be Walter Matthau.

—Joe Garagiola, an ex-baseball catcher, has done very well for himself on NBC-TV, ranging from a regular on the morning "Today" series to host of a game show. He's leaving "Today," though, this month, after a decade, and the series Jan. 12 outing is scheduled to devote all of its two hours to him.

Swedish Movie Wins 4 Awards From NY Critics

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Film Critics this week selected the Swedish drama "Cries and Whispers" as the winner in four categories in its 36th annual film awards for 1972.
The movie was chosen as the Best Film of the Year; its director, Ingmar Bergman won Best Director and Best Screenplay awards and Liv Ullmann, one of the stars of "Cries and Whispers" was picked as Best Actress. Miss Ullmann's award also was based partly on her role in "The Emigrants," another Swedish production.
Sir Laurence Olivier was named Best Actor for his portrayal of a popular mystery writer in "Slough," a Martin Goltlib-Joseph L. Mankiewicz production released by 20th Century-Fox.

Today's TV Highlights

"In Search of Ancient Astronauts," Hour documentary exploring the theory that astronauts from other planets visited earth in the remote past, influencing the inhabitants. 9 p.m., Channel 5.
"Circle of Fear," New title for the series that formerly was called "Ghost Story" but plans to expand its range of subject material. The first episode with the new title, however, still has a supernatural slant, dealing with a dead moth that begins to form the face of a murdered husband on its wings. With Janet Leigh, Rory Calhoun, Gene Nelson. One hour, 8 p.m., Channel 5.
"This Is the Year That Will Be," Comedy revue. 90 minutes. 10:30 p.m. Channel 7.
Sanford and Son. To pay their bills, the Sanfords decide to have a neighborhood party and charge admission, and all goes well until two gangsters show up and want to use the junk yard as a "front." 7 p.m., Channel 5.
CBS Friday Movie, "The Sand Pebbles." Second half of a rerun of a film about the days when post-World War I China was fought over by war lords and foreign "treaty powers," and a U.S. gunboat caught in the middle of the turmoil. Steve McQueen stars. 8 p.m., Channel 2.
Room 222. The booking of a Communist speaker at the high school sets off problems. 8 p.m., Channel 7.

Ice Storms Help Nature's Pruning

For most of us, the recent ice storms throughout the state were — at best — a pain in the neck.

Despite the beauty occasionally created, what else can you call iced-up autos, slippery roads and walkways, treacherous steps, caked vegetation and the veritable rain of fallen tree limbs that cluttered lawns, blocked streets, knocked down power power and telephone lines and, often, damaged cars or roofs on which they tumbled?

But for Mother Nature, this generally miserable experience had a worthwhile purpose, according to Illinois Department of Conservation foresters. The storms, in fact, were merely one of her methods of pruning.

As in the animal kingdom, where the sick, weak and old members of a species are eliminated — usually quickly and violently — so, too, does 'survival of the fittest' work in the plant world, state forester Fred Siemert notes. With rare exceptions, those branches that broke under the pressure of wind and icy coats were weak, rotted and dying, whose continued attachment to the tree could only harm it, he said.

IN THE case at hand, a little 'first aid' by the leafy patient's owner can prevent such icy surgery from doing more harm than good and, perhaps, eventually becoming terminal, he pointed out.

The foresters say there are a number of things that should be done as soon as weather permits in order to preserve the tree's health after it loses a limb to wind or ice. But they also point out that while such doctoring can be done by the layman, it is best left to the professional nurseryman or tree surgeon, for safety's sake. Clambering about in the branches of a tree is for professional tree trimmers and other arborists, not for the average homeowner, even if he is in the good physical condition required for it — and most are not.

First, remove all loose material or hanging branches so they won't later fall on you, your house, car, wire or on passersby.

Next, cut the broken limb back to the nearest live fork or bud, whether it be back to another branch or all the way to the trunk. The cut must be even, clean, smooth and flush with the branch or trunk in order for proper 'callous' formation to occur.

ABOVE ALL, don't create stubs by cutting immediately behind the break in a mistaken effort to save as much of the injured limb as possible. Whether the break is six inches, a foot or 10 feet from the nearest bud or fork, cut back to that point, since the stub will die anyway and will begin to rot the healthy branch in much the same manner as a bad tooth often abscesses and destroys gum tissue.

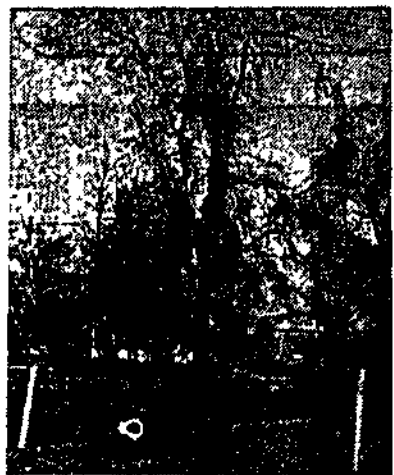

The third step is to paint the wound — but not with house paint, roofing compound or any other substances containing paint thinner or turpentine, substances that kill the cambium cells upon which healing depends.

Shellac always is good as a sort of vegetative 'mercurchrome,' but it is not durable enough and would have to be reapplied periodically. However, there are a number of tree paints available in aerosol form at most nurseries, garden centers and hardware stores, he added.

Wounds smaller than an inch in diameter need not be painted. They'll heal without help, in most cases.

Siemert's final recommendations are these:

1. Try to maintain the tree's general shape. Don't hack indiscriminately. For every cut there should be a reason.
2. If the tree 'first aid' requires climbing, let the professionals do it. They have the specialized equipment and knowledge. Don't chance breaking your own limbs to repair the tree's.

PROPER PRUNING is illustrated (note arrows). Broken branches should be cut back to a point about one-quarter inch above nearest live growth — a bud, another limb or the trunk. Cuts should be smooth. If larger than two inches in diameter, cuts should be covered with tree paint.

ICE SHEATH may have esthetic qualities, but it is tough on its tree host, often breaking branches and forcing pruning which can be a shock and dangerous to the health of large trees, if not done properly. Damaging effects of ice can be seen in this photo, taken after recent statewide freezing rainstorm.

Accused Of Talking With Prospective Jurors

Charge By Defense Angers Kerner

Former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner made an angry outburst in federal court when the government accused him of trying to influence prospective jurors by chatting with them about a lunchroom.

Kerner, a U.S. Appeals Court judge on leave of absence, is on trial on charges of bribery, conspiracy, perjury, income tax evasion and mail fraud.

He and former state Revenue Director Theodore J. Isaacs, a codefendant, are accused of buying racketeer stock at bargain prices in secret deals and giving track owners favored treatment in return.

YESTERDAY was the second day of trial proceedings and the government opened it with asking that Kerner be chastised if he had talked to prospective jurors.

The government cited a newspaper story that said Kerner on Wednesday told several hundred prospective jurors they could get "a cheap lunch in the building cafeteria real fast and without having to leave a tip."

U.S. Atty. James R. Thompson also charged that Kerner had given an interview to a radio reporter in violation of court orders and had predicted the trial would end in acquittal.

U.S. DISTRICT Court Judge Robert L. Taylor, who is presiding at the trial, began admonishing Kerner's lawyer, Paul Connolly.

"I think as an experienced counsel, Mr. Connolly, you would instruct your client not to conduct interviews. I think you will concede that is wrong."

Connolly replied, "I don't, your honor. My client doesn't lose his First Amendment rights because he's on trial."

Taylor started to argue with Connolly. Kerner hit his fist on the table and arose. He moved to the bench and said he had only told jurors where they could lunch in response to a question, and had said only a few words to a reporter in response to a query.

"I know the rules," he said. "I'm a lawyer, I'm a judge."

Taylor said quietly, "Well, judge, the court accepts what you said."

KERNER APPEARED still angry. "I should hope it would," he said. "I resent being accused of improper conduct."

Taylor said he had not accused Kerner but Kerner replied, "I did not misinterpret what you said, your honor."

Taylor apologized if he had been misunderstood to have made an accusation, and Kerner then apologized for his outburst. Kerner's lawyer had the last word.

"To take the time of a girl and a lawyer to write up those piddling motions is an exercise in futility," he said.

During morning proceedings, eight more tentative jurors were selected, bringing to 12 the members on the panel. The court will choose 31 jurors tentatively, but the government and defense attorneys may challenge and remove up to 19 of those, leaving the final panel of 12.

Tax Break On New Buildings?

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — A five-year real estate tax break on newly constructed buildings has been proposed by state lawmakers, who say it will stimulate community growth in Illinois.

Senate Democratic leader Cecil Partee of Chicago, and State Rep. Ralph Capparelli, D-Chicago, said they would prefile the plan in bill form for the next legislative session.

Under the bill, authored by Harold Semrow of the Cook County Board of Appeals, real estate taxes on new buildings and on some improved buildings would be levied at only 20 per cent of the full amount in the first year. The tax would increase by 20 per cent each year until the fifth year, when full taxes would become due.

Partee, Capparelli and Semrow unveiled the plan to newsmen and said it would stimulate community growth by providing tax incentives to commercial and industrial developers and to home builders.

Under questioning, Partee said large real estate concerns and land developers would stand to gain the most from the plan at the outset, but that benefits from the tax break would eventually filter down to the individual taxpayer.

"Our proposal encourages development, not stagnation or abandonment," Partee said. "This in turn would lighten the tax load for everyone. Property that brings in tax dollars is more valuable than empty lots or vacant office space."

Photographers Slate Seminar Wednesday

Registration for the event, to be held in the Paramount Ballroom, begins at 10 a.m.

Polish-Language Classes Still Open

Polonica School, which offers Polish-language courses for children, still is accepting registrations for its Saturday school classes.

The school uses classroom facilities at the Sacred Heart of Mary High School, 2800 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Although the school year is approaching its halfway point, the school will accept students now rather than having them wait until September.

Late-registered children will be given not only a Polish Elementary Reader, but also an English translation of the text. A cassette with a recorded reading of the Polish text also will be at the student's disposal.

Children from Des Plaines, Roselle, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Crystal Lake, Hoffman Estates, Wheeling, Arlington Heights, Hanover Park, Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows and Bensenville presently are enrolled in the school.

For further information or to enroll, residents are asked to write to the director of the school, Stanley Wielgos, 241 East Crest Ct., Bloomingdale, 60108, or telephone 520-5038.

Enter our slogan contest and become a notorious WWMM-FM personality throughout the world.

Your world.

We're WWMM, your new local stereo FM station—92.7 on your FM dial. Right now, we call ourselves the UN-station. We're UNKNOWN and UNLIKE any FM or AM station you've ever heard.

We confine our news, programming and happenings strictly to your world, and let the rest of the world go by. But there's no way in the world that we are going to go through life with an UNinspired slogan like the UN-station.

So UNleash your pen and enter our contest. If you win, you'll become world famous (your world, of course) for 30 minutes as a notorious personality on WWMM-FM.

You will also receive as first prize an FM radio which happens to be in the same cabinet with a 21" color television set. And your slogan will echo from Chicago to Crystal Lake, Wheaton to Waukegan.

We can't tell you what kind of slogan will win, but we can tell you what won't.

Slogans that will not win our contest:

WWMM-FM... the beautiful sound of Dr. Freda Kehm

WWMM-FM... the poignant new sound of the Voices of Love

WWMM-FM... the sultry sound of Jonathan Kingsley

WWMM-FM... the tender sound of Jack Stockton

WWMM-FM... the soothing sound of Bob Brynteson

In other words, as you may have guessed, we are not an ordinary FM station. So it would be a good idea to listen to all of our programming to absorb the total vibes of our station before you put your pencil to paper. Make it a world-beater.

Here are our un-believable prizes!

First Prize

Co-host program with Dr. Freda Kehm, our child psychologist. Your chance to give advice instead of taking it. Plus a console model stereo FM radio which happens to have a built-in color TV and AM radio.

Second Prize

Co-host program with Jonathan Kingsley, our self-appointed sexologist. Who knows, you might teach him something. Plus a stereo FM radio that shares a console with an AM radio and a cassette player.

Third Prize

Co-host program with Jack Stockton or Bob Brynteson. Be a cool dude or dudess. Tell the news. Play the music. Rap a little. Plus an FM stereo table top radio that plays AM for those who will listen to it.

Special Prize

Write a beautiful, touching script for delivery by the incredible Voices of Love. Plus an FM stereo portable radio that plays on AM if you really have rotten taste.

And as consolation prizes for you born losers, we'll send out 92.7 (count 'em, 92.7!) stereo L.P.'s to the 93 runners up.

Here's where you get your slogan contest entry blanks!

The Payroll Savings Plan makes the end of the rainbow more than just a dream.

There really is an end of the rainbow. It's not the gold-filled-pot variety, and it's not something-for-nothing. But join the Payroll Savings Plan and see what we mean. Automatically, an amount you specify is withheld from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

You'll be surprised how much you can save. It's like the end of the rainbow because when the Bonds mature you have all that you've saved, plus interest.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. It's a practical way to put hard cash at the end of the rainbow.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds mature in less than six years.

The Lighter Side

The Dilemma Of Coattail Candidates

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new session of Congress got under way this week with both houses still under the control of Democrats, if "control" is the word I'm groping for.

And despite two months of incessant, one might even say relentless, analyzing of the 1972 election returns, we do not yet have a clean picture of how the Democrats managed to retain their majorities.

Nobody has satisfactorily explained how a Republican victory of the magnitude enjoyed by President Nixon could have missed so many GOP congressional candidates.

But if one more swing at this enigma can be tolerated I will offer in evidence four new stories that should have been published on election day but somehow were overlooked.

DETROIT — The Political Conveyance Corp. announced today it was recalling all of its 1972 model Presidential Coattails for repair of minor defects.

A spokesman said the company acted after a coattail-load of Republican congressional candidates en route to Washington to regain control of Congress found they were only spinning their wheels.

Dick West

CAMDEN, N.J. — A group of GOP congressional candidates bound for Washington on election day never made it past Camden.

State troopers said the Presidential Coattails on which they were riding got caught in a traffic jam on the New Jersey Turnpike.

The tie-up, which created a 47-mile backup of traffic, was caused by a routine 21-car collision in the southbound lanes.

ATLANTA — The Coattail Limited that left here 10 days ago carrying GOP congressional candidates to Washington was discovered today on a siding about 13 miles north of here.

Embarrassed officials said the Coattail apparently was sidetracked for a brief whistle stop and then someone forgot to switch them back to the main line.

CHICAGO — A pair of Presidential Coattails flying to Washington with a large group of GOP congressional candidates aboard was hijacked today shortly after taking off from O'Hare Airport. The Coattails had been chartered by GOP office-seekers who were hopeful of riding them to majorities in the House and Senate.

But almost as soon as the Coattails were airborne, they were commandeered by two third-party candidates who ordered the flight diverted to Cuba.

Although the Republicans were released during a refueling stop at Jacksonville, Fla., they could not obtain alternate transportation. Both the Hertz and Avis Rent-A-Coattail agencies were closed.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

South wasn't happy with his bidding. He had bid and rebid a four-card suit headed by the Jack. He was less sure when he saw that the dummy held just three trumps for him.

A lot of players would have given up in disgust but South proceeded to make his contract with an overtrick. Actually it wasn't too hard. The cards just had to help him.

He won the second diamond in dummy and played out the three top clubs. Everyone followed and business was looking up.

Now he led a diamond from dummy. East could do nothing better than to discard a heart and South made a small trump.

Now he led a low heart; flossed dummy's queen; cashed the ace and led a fourth diamond. Again the best East could do was to discard a heart and South made his eighth trick with a small trump.

Now he was sure of his contract since dummy still held all its trumps, but South did even better.

He led his Jack of hearts. West had to ruff; otherwise the Jack would have held the trick and now West was end-played and had to give South the last three tricks.

There is an interesting sidelight. The game was team-of-four. At the other table North played and made three no-trump. Can you work out his line of play?

San Francisco Has Big Jump On Transit Needs Of Future

by JAMES VESELY

Of all the mass transportation schemes in the country, the one creating the most interest is BART — Bay Area Rapid Transit — the modern system which services the San Francisco Bay area.

It is an achievement of modern rapid transit which represents $1.4 billion in taxes and bonded indebtedness on Bay area residents and some 21 years of planning and replanning.

It is unique in many ways, but it is also testimony to the fact that modern transit systems may cost $1 billion or more, and absorb the professional lifetimes of the men who plan and build them.

BART was originally conceived as a trans-bay underwater tube linking the shores of San Francisco Bay. That concept came from a 1947 joint study by the Army and Navy, whose planners foresaw rapidly growing congestion of the Bay bridges.

In the two decades of planning and building the system, BART has overcome suits and counterattacks, financial crises galore, diffident residents and antagonistic local governments.

IT IS PERHAPS the greatest lesson of all of BART that rapid transit lines which link the city to the suburbs and surrounding cities is not just an engineering feat but a political drama which takes years to unfold.

On Sept. 11 of this year BART opened its first 28 miles of service and 12 of its projected total 34 stations. The system will eventually total 75 miles and a tunnel under San Francisco Bay to the city itself.

The need for BART was evident, engineers claim, by the demands of the commuting public. By 1975, 53,000 residents will be going to downtown Oakland San Francisco. Sometime before then, the Bay area would have to meet the commuter crush or face the problem of every metropolitan area with overwhelmed highways and inadequate surface transportation.

The plight San Francisco-Oakland faced was the same one facing each metropolitan core. The Bay area responded with a comprehensive plan in 1956 which included a wide area in excess of BART's current service area.

Originally intended to offer commuter service to five counties, BART now services three — two were dropped because of legal barriers or because political accommodations could not be made.

FOLLOWING AN extensive public relations campaign and the building of an engineering and managerial staff, BART went to the voters in three California counties for a bond issue of $792 million, the largest ever placed before the voter. The bond referendum passed by the slim margin of 1.2 per cent over the required 60 per cent average between all three counties.

Other funds — $180 million for the three-mile under the Bay tunnel, $71 million from anticipation warrants — were

By 1968, bond monies were down to a level where it would be impossible to complete the system and buy the trains. Finally, the California State Legislature allowed BART to levy further taxes on the residents of the three counties and a ½-cent sales tax was imposed.

BART spent $68 million on rolling stock, a train which was designed from scratch.

AFTER ANOTHER series of strikes and labor difficulties, the district opened for its first passengers — and became the envy of transportation experts and planners the world over.

But then, after the hoopla and after President Nixon had drawn nationwide attention to the system again by riding one of its trains, serious criticism arose.

On Oct. 2 a braking system apparently failed on a BART train coming into the Fremont station, injuring five passengers.

The ominous message of the accident was the failure of the automatic systems which, in this case, caused the train to speed up as it neared the station instead of slowing down. Immediately threatened was the key to BART's worldwide acclaim, its automatic systems which were the hope of the transportation community.

IN THESE SYSTEMS, solid-state logic circuits on trains take care of the train's maneuvers, thus opening possibilities of new, space-age transit systems which act quickly and accurately.

To date, BART officials stand by their equipment. Some modifications have been suggested, but the automated trains are still running and some 13,905 riders board them each day.

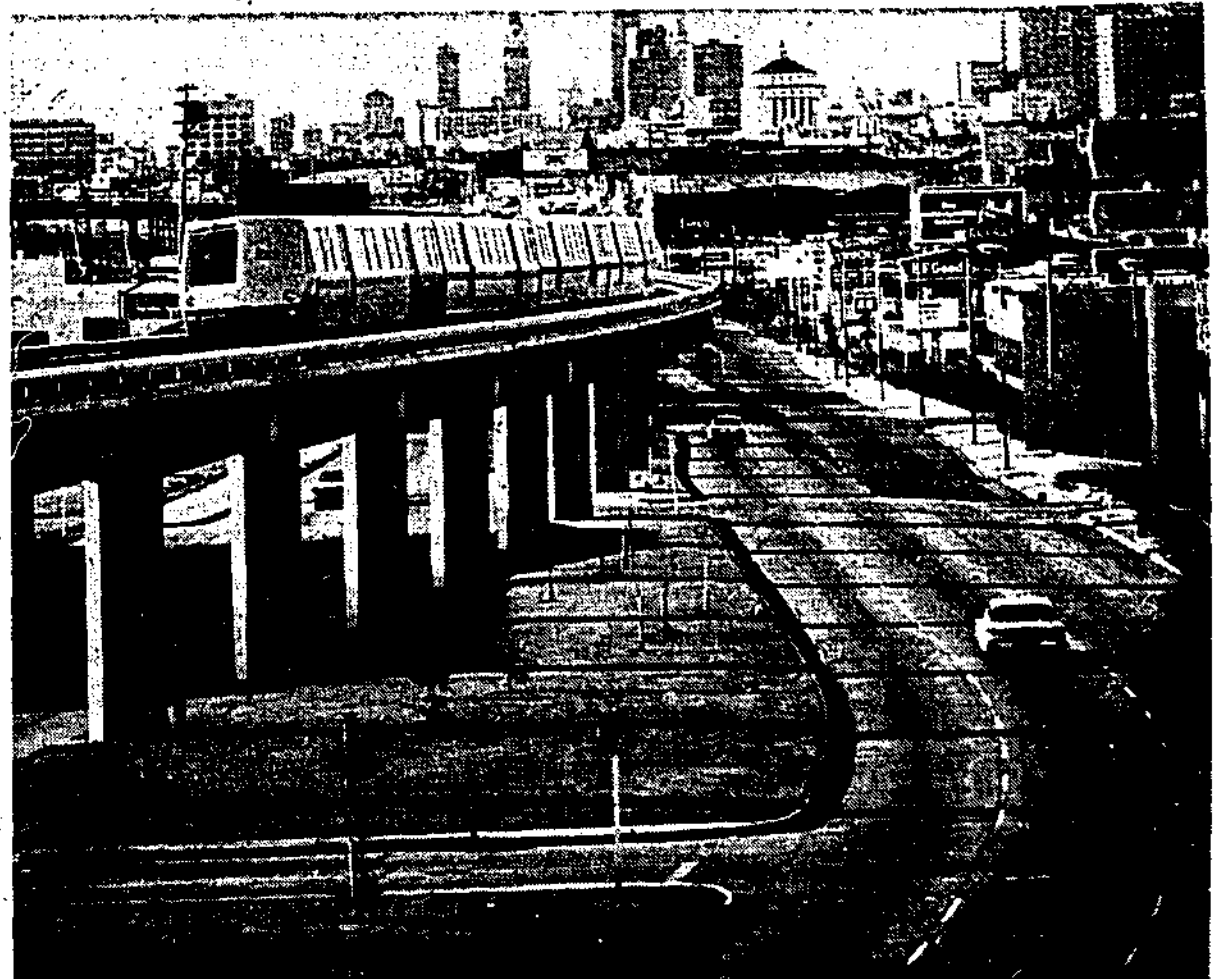

Why the fuss over a new train? Probably the best answer comes from an industry expert who said, "the exciting thing about BART is that it proves the problem of mass transportation can be licked. It takes decades and maybe a billion dollars, but it can be accomplished. The cities and the suburbs can cooperate or be forced to cooperate. That's the real lesson here."

Third In A Series

added to the sum approved by voters. Subsequent taxpayers' suits delayed the project for another seven months. Land acquisition, and a complete change from an overhead to a subway system in downtown areas, added to further delays.

In 1964, construction began on the first four miles of track and in 1965, 1966, and 1967 further construction projects were begun.

BART was also struck from behind by spiraling inflation. Following the actual construction of the track, inflation was the largest item in the total estimate.

CRUISING TOWARD downtown Oakland, Calif., and capable of reaching track speeds of 80 mph, the BART commuter train coasts on soft tires while the passengers ride in comfort.

Brave New Age For Commuters

Riding A Clockwork Train

by JAMES VESELY

OAKLAND, Calif.—It's like riding an extension of a computer, a linear, electrical extremity of a transistorized mind which thinks faster than you do, more accurately and with remote anonymity.

The train to Fremont, Calif. is coming through the tube. The Merritt Lake Station — the showcase and central offices of BART — is fairly crowded with passengers. They stand like commuters do everywhere. The Underground concrete station is not unlike a lot of other train platforms. Newer, brighter, cleaner than any other; but still not unlike them on the surface.

A computer-controlled electronic sign announces the train's arrival and tells passengers where on the platform the train will stop.

It is not even a train in the conventional sense. It will make no one weep for steam cars and cantankerous conductors. It is not a train which blows lonely in the night; it is instead a people-mover, an electric gizmo which moves in patterns eternally watched by men in a central control room far away.

The BART cars slide out of the platform and out of the underground on the long run to Fremont. Outside the train's picture windows, Oakland's industrial area stretches to San Francisco Bay. The train can accelerate to 80-miles per hour in 60 seconds. They normally run somewhere around 45 to 50 MPH between stations.

THE INTERIOR of the car is unusual for a commuter train. Either the designers are uniquely trustworthy of the passengers or they are naive in their understanding of the abuse given a mass carrier system.

the system is so new, because it is a nice ride and because the next passenger on this remarkable device can be the guy next door or a mass transportation analyst for Tokyo come to see the wonder of his particular world.

The attraction of BART is the newness of it. It is part of the era of electronic gadgetry which seems out of place on a mass transportation system.

COMMUTER LINES — even the best of them — seem to be vestiges of some earlier railroad line or creaky remnants of an age since taken over by the automobile.

Not BART. BART is here as an illustration of what can be. It is as slick as today's technology, can make it, it is a repudiation of every cliché about the lack of imagination and popular support for mass transportation.

And with all that, it has some flaws. It will not be a full 24-hour system even at its peak. Its geographic limits are smaller than originally envisioned. Moreover, it is not intended to be a substitute for the automobile, and connecting transit systems are often old and outdated.

Yet to ride it is to ride someone's dream. The founders of BART anticipated mass transportation needs for the San Francisco Bay area decades ahead of their time.

On the ride back to Oakland from Fremont station, the train zips along between factories and highways. The train's human monitor, a lone individual in the front of the lead car picks up a telephone to talk to the main control room, a black, space age panelled room at Merritt Station. He is talking to another man, but it is the computer which is listening, too.

The people who ride BART seem pleased with it. For 60 cents a passenger may purchase an excursion fare which allows the traveler to ride the system from end to end all day. The fare presupposes people will ride this train just for the fun of it.

Many of them do, probably because NERVE CENTER and space-age computerized heart of the BART system is this central control room. The panels in front of the operators show the location of each train on the tracks and whether the train is moving or still.

Lake Merritt, the main BART station, is well-lighted and easy to pass through for passengers, BART utilizes an electronic ticket system.

Six Games In Mid-Suburban Basketball

Holiday Ends; Conference Chases Resume

WHEN CHICAGO CUBS' Manager Whitely Lockman was asked on a radio talk show what he planned to do to shore up his catching department for 1973, he replied, "We feel we have one of the best catching staffs in baseball."

That may come as quite a shock to anyone who watched the Cubs play last summer. Randy Hundley, Ken Rudolph and J. C. Martin combined for only 115 hits and didn't cut down many would-be base stealers. Singles became doubles.

No matter what Lockman says in public it is obvious to most observers that catching does present a serious problem for the Chicago organization at the major league level. Words alone can't cover up the apparent deficiencies.

Hundley once was a superb catcher. He underwent operations on both knees in the past three years, batted only .218 last summer and had trouble throwing out anybody on the base paths. He's 31 years old and the aches and pains don't go away as fast now.

Behind Hundley are the 26-year-old Rudolph, who has shown flashes of ability but has been losing valuable playing time on the bench, and Martin, a 30-year-old veteran.

If Hundley bounces back, and the positive-thinking Lockman insists he will, a problem area will be solved, at least it, the Lundstedts left Monday for their home in Tempe, Ariz. Tom planned to get started immediately in "my own spring training program" so he would be ready for the regular camp. "When you're not sure where you're going," he said, "you have to have your own spring training before the regular one. You can't take any chances by not being ready."

The 6-foot-4, 195-pound Lundstedt, who signed with the Cubs after his junior year at the University of Michigan, feels confident that with the proper preparation he'll be ready for a productive summer in any classification.

"My arm feels great for the first time in a long time," he emphasized. "This has been a big concern. Two years ago in Quincy (Class A Midwest) was a bad one for my arm. It bothered me quite a bit. They finally flew me back to Chicago and I had an operation where they took out calcium deposits from my elbow. My arm would get tired real fast, but I'm encouraged now, very encouraged."

Lundstedt started his personal workouts Tuesday morning in Arizona. He knows what he has to work on. He won't stop until he reports to the Cubs' camp in late February.

"I have to work on my technique of getting rid of the ball," he said. "I have always been a little slow in the release. Bill Slayton (his high school coach) and Lloyd Meyer (American Legion coach) helped me tremendously in techniques and the thinking aspect of the game. I just have to keep at it now, keep working."

Lundstedt, who started switch hitting in the fall of 1970 and dropped a single in his first try as a lefty, has been around the .270 mark for the past two summers, very satisfactory for a catcher, but he also is intent on improving his skills in this direction.

"Lou Klein, who is the traveling coach for the Cubs, has really helped my hitting," he said. "He'll come back two or three times a season, for about a week or 10 days, and really be able to pick out a flaw in your style. Ernie Banks has been great. Everything they say about him is true. He's just fantastic, a super guy. In spring training he'll come out early to run the pitching machine or work with you in whatever way possible."

Lundstedt is only 23 and has not set any definite timetable on a climb to the major leagues. It took other area products Paul Splittorff (Kansas City), Fritz Peterson (Yankees), and Greg Luzinski (Philadelphia) about three years to reach the top. Dave Kingman of San Francisco made the jump after only 165 minor league games but that didn't surprise his former Prospect High teammate.

"Dave's just a great athlete," Tom said. "He can run, throw, hit, do it all. There is a different set of skills involved and they do say it takes longer for a catcher. I haven't set any real timetable on my progress."

Lundstedt has no reason to think he can't make it to the top some day. He's young. He has seen progress in his development as a hitter and catcher and his arm "feels great again." He also is not standing still in his minor league classification.

"I love the game and would like to play a few more years and see what happens. If it comes to the point where I definitely feel I can't make it, then I'll look elsewhere. I majored in real estate and have a few land investments."

The Chicago Cubs have many investments. They are riding with the veterans again this year, but their future belongs to the Tom Lundstedts in the farm system.

Cubs fans, among the most patient anywhere in baseball, are very restless. They're ready for some changes. They're ready for some new faces, young faces.

10 Years Ago...

Prospect beat Arlington 41-35 in a non-league basketball game before 3,000 fans in the Knight fieldhouse... Ron Moehling scored 22 points for the Knights... Chuck Close had 14 for the Cardinals... Palatine ripped Dundee, 66-53, with its finest performance of the season... Ron Kozicki scored 32 points.

For five-sixths of the South Division in Mid-Suburban League basketball competition, the name of the game now is, Knock Off Prospect.

Forest View gets the first of two cracks at the 4-0 division-leading Knights, who already have a game lead on Conant and at least two on every other team in the South.

If the Falcons are to pull an upset and hand Prospect its first conference loss in the headliner among three South Division games tonight, this may be as good a time as any. They'll be trying out a brand new floor for the first time (see below).

In other tests, Conant (3-1) will try to stay near the top against winless Glenbard North and Elk Grove (2-3) needs a victory over Schaumburg (1-3) to stay in challenging position.

PROSPECT AT FOREST VIEW

Both the new and the old will unfold tonight when these two rivals meet.

The old part is the rivalry between these teams, who have been in the 10-year-old Mid-Suburban League longer than any other schools. Their conflict was an interesting one last season, when Forest View avenged a regular-season loss to Prospect by surprisingly and resoundingly eliminating the Knights from regional competition.

The new? Well, to usher in a fresh year, the Falcons will stage their long-awaited home opener tonight on a brand new Tartan floor, finally installed long after tornado damage last summer. It'll be a welcome change for Forest View, which has played 11 games on foreign surfaces and lost seven of them.

The timing is good, since the Falcons showed improvement at the Kankakee holiday tournament, winning two of four games. Adding to the brightening picture is that top scorer, 6-5 forward Don Woodsmall, should return to action soon. It is not certain whether or how much Woodsmall — who has missed six games with an ankle ligament injury — can play tonight.

Coach Ted Wissen has been juggling the lineup in his absence. Just recently earning starting spots have been 6-3 forwards Kurt Haaland and Larry Monroe and 5-10 guard Lou Leuzzi. Other starters continue to be 6-4 Rick Haarding and 6-0 Tom Mueller.

Haarding has been in double figures in six of his last seven games after a show star, averaging 14 a game in that span. Mueller has averaged 12 points for his last seven outings.

Monroe, a junior, was a pleasant surprise in the second tourney game, coming off the bench to explode for 31 points.

Wissen allows that his team "is improving but still spotty. We need to settle down and be more consistent. We looked good at times in the tournament."

"We'll just try to play our normal game (a deliberate offense) against Prospect. (Tom) Bergen (6-8 center) will be tough, of course."

The next question is how will the new Tartan surface affect Prospect?

"We saw one up in Wisconsin last year," head coach Bill Slayton said. "I doubt if our kids will even know the difference. It looks like any other floor."

Slayton is sure the new floor will greatly help to inspire the Falcons who he admits can't afford to lose too many more games and still contend for the South Division title.

"With no place to practice, no home court advantage and the injury to Woodsmall, they should be really high for us if they get everything back at the same time."

Prospect will be looking to pad its unblemished 4-0 conference record, but as Slayton admitted, "We'll have to show much more than we did at Mattoon." The Knights were 1-2 downstate and finished sixth in the eight-team field.

"We didn't play well," Slayton admitted. "We turned the ball over way too much." One of the highlights of the trip was Bergen's nomination to the all-tourney team after the agile center averaged 25 points.

Slayton tabbed Bob Bostrom and Will Freeman (both 6-5) as his forwards and 5-9 Jim Anderson and 6-1 Mark Blasco to handle the backcourt chores.

GLENBARD NORTH AT CONANT

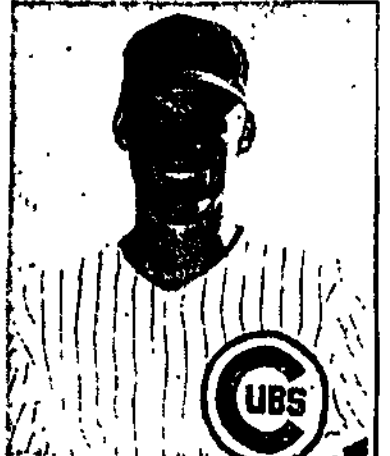

The current campaign is beginning to bear resemblance to last season for Conant, and that couldn't be better for the Cougars.

Last year too, Conant jelled in the Grant round-robin holiday tournament and swept three straight games for the title. That started a red-hot string of 10 victories in 11 games, a tie for the South Division title, a 19-7 final record and the first sectional championship ever for a Herald area team.

Now, once again, Conant is coming off three wins and a title at Grant where the Cougars played some of their best basketball. They shook off a three-game losing streak in mid-December, are 8-3 overall, 3-1 in the division, and hoping to stay on Prospect's heels.

If the New Year is to get off to the temporarily. But that still remains a big question-mark and is one of the reasons the Cubs will have to give their young prospects a long look when training camp unfolds in Scottsdale, Ariz.

The Cubs have shown a penchant for ignoring the youngsters (or trading them away) in their desperate attempt to capture at least one division flag. It is the feeling among baseball people that if they fall again to win with a veteran lineup, there will have to be a king-sized shakeup.

When anyone from this area talks about the future of the Chicago Cubs, the name of Prospect High School graduate Tom Lundstedt invariably comes up. He's one of those youngsters down on the farm who could help pump some life into the Wrigley organization. He's big (6-4) and strong. He's intelligent. He has a tremendous attitude. He's a switch hitter and a catcher — a CATCHER.

"This could be a very important year for me in baseball," said the 23-year-old Lundstedt after he returned home to Arlington Heights with his wife Charlotte for the holidays. "I can't wait to get started again."

Lundstedt has a contract with Wichita of the American Association, the Cubs' Triple A team, but that doesn't mean he will be assigned there. He could go back to Midland, Tex., of the AA Texas League, where he batted .260 last summer as one of the few switch-hitting catchers in baseball.

"This is the first time I've been classified with a Triple A team," Tom said. "I'll be with the Cubs in spring training and then find out exactly where I'll be assigned. Wichita trains in the same general place. It makes quite a difference where you are. I've been with the Cubs at the beginning for the past two spring trainings and both times have stayed about five out of the eight weeks. This year... I just don't know. But I want to be ready."

After a brief but enjoyable holiday vis-

Lundstedt Cage Marks Hold Up

Baseball hasn't been the only game in town for Tom Lundstedt. Although he's been losing some of his records to the talented youngsters coming up, Lundstedt still owns two very coveted marks in the prestigious Pontiac Holiday Basketball Tournament.

The former Prospect High School basketball All-Stater scored 47 points with 20 baskets and 7 free throws against Taylorville in the 1968 Pontiac Tourney. Those marks of 47 points and 20 baskets still stand in the 42-year-old Pontiac meet.

"I still play a lot of basketball," Tom says. "I had a chance to play some at Prospect over the holidays and there are some great basketball games at night down in Arizona."

'Cats Host Hersey In North Test

A little bit of everything will be on tap as the Mid-Suburban League's North Division resumes action tonight.

The six teams, combining for a dismal 6-13 record against holiday tourney foes, will be trying to regain their winning ways. One (Hersey) will have a lineup shakeup with its opponent (Wheeling) trying to decide how to handle a player a half foot taller than them.

Two others (Palatine and Fremd) will be settling their sights on the first leg of the traditional two-game series to find out which team is the best in town.

Finally, the league leader (Arlington) will begin a testing series of games, the first of which against an opponent (Rolling Meadows) that has only won one game. This always smacks of upset.

Hosting these matchups will be Wheeling, Fremd and Rolling Meadows. All contests will begin around 8 p.m.

Only Wheeling will be in action Saturday night with Maine West providing the opposition at Des Plaines.

Cards Favored As MSL Season Begins For 6 Swimming Teams

Swimming Editor

An 11-month-old prediction will receive its test during the next six weeks.

The Mid-Suburban League swim coaches tabbed Arlington to replace 1972 conference champion Forest View back in February. This afternoon the favored Cardinals and five other league teams will open up the dual meet part of the schedule.

Rolling Meadows, the newest member of the MSL and one of only two undefeated teams in duels, will play host to Arlington. Forest View will be at Hersey and Elk Grove at Prospect. Only the latter meet will begin at 4:30 p.m. The two others will get underway at 4:00.

Since there's an odd number (7) of schools in the league involved with swim programs, Wheeling — also undefeated — will not open up until the following Friday.

ARLINGTON

Arlington and Forest View have taken turns in the first-place spot or shared it since the league began. The Cardinals' last outright title was in the 1970-71 campaign. It's their turn again.

Coach Don Anderson's team is the unanimous choice because of the outstanding depth it enjoys.

"That's probably our one advantage over everybody else," said Anderson. "We have depth in nearly every event we're in. We probably hurt the most in diving."

Ray Hollenbach, a second-place finisher in the conference meet last year, could move up to the top spot this season. However, Arlington's sophomore champion decided not to come out.

Another fine sophomore sprinter, winner of the 50 and the breaststroke, also dropped out of swimming. So, Anderson said his sprinters won't be as tough as they could be.

Despite these losses, few teams will be able to challenge the Cardinals.

"I think Prospect is the leading contender in there," said Anderson. "I think Elk Grove is a coming team, but I'm afraid they might not have enough depth."

Leading Arlington will be Charlie Dunn, the only MSL champion who didn't graduate. A seasoned veteran although only a junior, Dunn figures to again be the man to beat in the backstroke. He also should be plenty tough in the individual medley — an event that has him on top so far this season among Herald area performers with a 2:06.3.

Other top swimmers for Anderson figure to be Dave Hartman (100, 200, 400 freestyles), Joe Nitch (200 and 400), Rex Hansen (50 free), Chris Tennant (diving), Mike Nitch (100 free) and Pete Wroblewski (breaststroke).

Joe Nitch and Wroblewski will be the only sophomores used extensively on the varsity. "That's the thing that helps us so much," said Anderson. We have enough depth with juniors and seniors that we don't have to dip down into the sophomores and freshmen."

PROSPECT

"I'd have to say that we're in the picture," admitted Prospect head coach Jerry Lovejoy. "But I'd also have to say that right now Arlington is the class of the conference. They have more people in more positions."

"Wheeling's coming on and Forest View's a comer. On a given night they could be real tough. I think, by and large, the whole conference, from top to bottom, is much stronger than in the past as far as times and caliber of competition."

"We've got some good swimmers," continued Lovejoy of his "darkhorse" team. "We were weak in a couple of spots, but we've been coming along."

Rick Fox, termed "probably the most consistent swimmer" at Prospect by Lovejoy, is currently undefeated in the 50 and 100 freestyles. His 22.5 was the fastest time posted in the state heading into the holiday break. He also is tops on the Herald honor roll in the 100 with 50.5. Fox is second behind Dunn in the individual medley.

In Jeff Young and John Todd, Prospect has possibly the best 1-2 punch in the breaststroke.

ELK GROVE

The Grenadiers could surprise the Knights this afternoon as Coach John Harrington unveils his youthful group. Only one senior — Lou Clarizio — is on the Grove varsity.

Scott Bolin, a junior, is the team's big gun.

"He'll swim in anything," said Arlington's Anderson of this most versatile of MSL performers. "Outside of any events Rick Fox is in, he's capable of swimming and winning every event, with the exception of the breaststrokes (Prospect)."

Bolin is among the top five area performers in four different events — third in the butterfly and backstroke, fourth in the 50 free and fifth in the 200 free. Anderson considers him the tops in the but-

"We're getting up for the big games ... for the other games we're not."

Those are the words of Roger Bechtold, Harper's basketball coach. Here are some more:

"We're capable of beating any team and also capable of losing to any team."

The Hawks did the latter Wednesday night at Kankakee, falling 86-78 despite the superlative job by sophomore guard Scott Feige. The heady six-footer poured in his collegiate high of 35 points, but it wasn't enough as his team dropped to 4-0.

Just as surprising as Feige's performance was the fact that Terry Rohan, Harper's usually torrid shooting 6-4 forward, was shut out. He had been averaging nearly 20 points a game and had 42 just the week before in a holiday tourney game.

"You can have bad nights from the floor, but someone that's that good a scorer shouldn't get shut out," continued Bechtold. "He (Rohan) did get in foul trouble early in the ball game which, of course, hurt. We had to take him out. But he did play enough so he should have scored."

HARPER (78)	KANKAKEE (86)
Feige 16 24 35	Fanroy 2 22 8

Halftime Score: Kankakee 48, Harper 43.

"He just didn't look like the same person."

The Harper coach is hoping that Rohan regains his shooting eye quickly for Triton College, the pre-season favorite in the Skyway Conference, comes to town. Game time is 7:30 p.m. at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates on Saturday.

Triton, 3-1 in the SC compared Harper's 2-2 mark, has three of the top 10 scorers in the league in Sam Smith (16.5), Leamon Allen (16.5) and Steve Heinzelman (15.0).

Harper seemed like it was playing a team of the caliber of Triton when it jumped off to a 10-point lead early in the game. Then Kankakee, 11-3, took over and led at halftime, 49-43.

"It wasn't a real well-played game that you could be proud of," said Bechtold. "I think they (the Cavaliers) played a poor ball game and, to me, we weren't playing the way we are capable of playing."

One player, besides Feige, was Dave Schmitt with 14 points, all field goals, in a reserve role. The former Conant center "is deserving of a starting chance against Triton," said Bechtold of his 6-3 pivot.

Other starters will be Miller and Feige at guards and Rohan and Don Lewan at the forward spots.

same start as in 1972, the first order of business is a duplicate of last season's victories over Glenbard North.

The Panthers are still looking for win No. 1 after 10 games, but Redlinger isn't relaxing and hopes his troops aren't either. "We have to stay up to beat Glenbard North," cautions Dick. "Our big guys have to keep scoring and rebounding."

They've been doing just that. Steve Irion, 6-7 center, and Roger Sander, 6-3 forward, both made the all-tourney team at Grant along with 5-10 guard Mike Atkocaitis. Irion, after a mild slump, has averaged 16 points for his last four games and Sander has been the next-most productive lately.

Atkocaitis is a solid floor man who can shoot and the other forward, 6-4 Dave Sutherland, rebounds and plays good defense, as do the others in a stingy zone. The other guard spot is open with several boys equally capable of filling it. "I have about eight guys I can play a lot," says Redlinger.

"We played real well against Rolling Meadows," he added about the final tourney game. "They only outscored us in the fourth quarter after I took the regulars out (with a huge 35-point lead)."

"In the other games, we just played one good half. We may have been a little tired, though. We play better when we're rested. We didn't have a practice before the Rolling Meadows game."

Glenbard North coach Terry True has made a couple of lineup changes for this one. "When you're 6-10, you keep searching," he pointed out. The Panthers will still give up some size to Conant at every front-line position.

Glenbard lost three holiday tourney games. "In the first two," says True, "we had a poor shooting percentage. We're still having trouble finding the right five people to go together."

"We lost the last game to Dundee 79-69, but for the most part we played our best complete game so far."

For Conant, forewarned is forearmed — though True admits, "We know Conant will be one very tough opponent."

SCHAUMBURG AT ELK GROVE
"We've got to start putting more points up on the board."

This was the way Bill Parmenier summarized Elk Grove's plight as he and his team returned from tournament travels and prepared for a double weekend of action leading off with a visit by Schaumburg tonight.

By most standards the Grenadiers have not been playing bad ball this season. They have won five out of eight contests and have lived out of foes to a miserly 58.1 tempo. They have been playing an exciting brand of basketball this winter and they are very much in the running for division honors still in their Mid-Suburban League South race.

But Parmenier is only half-pleased with his club's showing of late and he's wondering if and when that satisfaction will begin approaching the 100 per cent mark.

"I'd have to say we're in a definite shooting slump right now, and that's a bad time to go against a team like Schaumburg. Their brand of ball is similar to ours and if they're hot and we aren't, we could have even more problems on our hands."

Elk Grove played only a pair of games at Edwardsville last week, beating Litchfield and then losing to a fine Bloomington squad. This in itself was disappointing to Parmenier, who had hoped to get more exposure to the downstate brand of basketball.

"It all boils down to beefing up our scoring punch. We came within a point of Bloomington late in the game and played well enough defensively to beat them. We're not getting the consistent scoring from our starters though. Everyone's got to contribute just so much every time out if we want to be really effective."

After entertaining the Saxons tonight, Elk Grove will remain at home tomorrow to host Crown.

Elk Grove gets no sympathy from Schaumburg for its scoring shortage, because the Saxons have been in an even deeper slump when it comes to putting the ball in the basket.

Schaumburg suffered through a pair of frigid games in the Naperville holiday tournament with totals of just 25 and 35. The Saxons have scored as many as 69 points twice in nine games, losing six of them. (They're 1-3 in the South Division).

"We couldn't hit a doggone thing (at the tourney)," coach Joe Brouil admitted. "We ran into two aggressive teams and weren't aggressive ourselves. Our defense wasn't too hot either."

However, Brouil does not discourage easily and apparently, neither do his players. "Our practices since the tournament have been our best of the season," he brightens. "Maybe those games woke up the kids because they're working harder now."

"You can tell how you'll play in a game from practices the week before and we should be a different team."

He knows Elk Grove poses a stiff test. "They're quick, strong, play tough defense and are aggressive. They're better than last year."

"We've got to try and set the tempo and be careful because we know they'll be pressing. Their quickness is the outstanding thing about them."

Schaumburg's front line will be the same as it has been all along — Trent Tucker and Charley Lindberg at forwards and Ray Kralick at center (the only Saxon over six feet). Guards will be Art Abraham and Dan Gallagher. Gallagher, a 5-11 junior, was just elevated to the varsity and is making his debut.

At Rolling Meadows

Linda Horney hit 534, Lois Graham 556 and Carol Harrison 520 for the Thor's Thunderbusts Women's League at Rolling Meadows. Dorothy Stephens added a 181, Bobbie Thomas and Helen Bakas 173's, Marvette Ballou 180, Greta Miles 178 and 175 and Janet Andrich 182. Beth Schab converted the 5-6-7, Marge Richter the 5-10, Donna Rudin the 3-6-7 and Diane Fouch the 3-7 split. Nancy Andren bowled a triplicate.

A NEW YEAR BEGINS. Weekly broadcasts of Mid-Suburban League basketball will resume tonight at eight o'clock as WMM-FM (92.7) of Arlington Heights covers the battle between Prospect and Forest View. Station Sports Director Dick Thomas, left, and Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk will be at the microphone again as the series spotlights the South Division headliner. Thomas and Frisk will work 13 games overall in the 1972-73 Mid-Suburban season, including the championship game on Tuesday, Feb. 27.

FORMER RAILBIRD DISGUSTED

Dear Sirs:

I used to be an avid race track goer and considered Arlington Park both the most beautiful and most respected flats in the Midwest. Since I retired over 13 years ago, I would frequent the track two or three times a week — but not any more. These open hearings in Springfield really make you wonder how long enthusiasts like myself were being taken. (Bob) Elson, (Ed) Long, (Walt) Rhodes and (Bernard) Carey ought to be indicted for perjury and making a joke of what many people, including myself, thought was legitimate entertainment. They (the new commissioners) can make all the changes they want now — new allocation of racing dates, less tax dollars to the state, better stables, even improved parking. They won't find me among their patrons. I've lost all faith in Illinois racing.

BUCKEYES NEED CLASS COACH

Dear Sirs:

It's about time the alumni at Ohio State get a class coach and get rid of Woody Hayes. Last year there was the incident with Michigan when he threw the down markers. Now he supposedly pushed a camera in the face of a Los Angeles photographer. Of course, he denies it but why would the photographer make up such a story? It's a crime when the Big Ten forces a real class person like Pete Elliott (former coach at Illinois) out of coaching for awhile and then lets guys like Hayes hang around. If this guy can't control his emotions, perhaps he should get out before he seriously hurts somebody.

Ted Lange

OUT OF THEIR LEAGUE

Dear Herald:

It's time the Big Ten gets out of the Rose Bowl while the getting's good. They can't play in the same league with the Pacific-Eight and it's time the people on the West Coast put some pressure on and get a more worthy opponent. Frankly, I'm tired of seeing those boring Ohio State and Michigan teams every year anyway. Can you imagine what little interest there will be if Ohio State wins the Big Ten again next year — as they probably will? The Rose Bowl ratings may hit rock bottom.

Robert Costa
Wheeling

Dear Sirs:

Bowl games should NEVER match schools that do redshirt their athletes with schools that don't. In other words, the Big Ten has no business playing the Pacific-Eight schools in any post-season play. If the Big Ten has to play somebody, maybe they can play Army or Navy. That's more on their level.

Harry Demington
Mount Prospect

Dear Sirs:

Why over 100,000 people pay to see Rose Bowl every year is beyond me. This should go on strike for a better game and get rid of the Big Ten. It was a disgrace to college football the way Ohio State, when they got behind, just ran through the line over and over. It's one thing to lose but it's another thing to at least go down fighting. Ohio State throw in the towel too early and wasted so much time with running plays that Hayes should be hung in effigy in Columbus.

HOLIDAY HEADACHES

Dear Sirs:

What kind of basketball do we play around here? Everywhere I looked over the holidays teams from around here were losing and playing in consolation tournaments. It was a disgrace when schools of 300 and 400 students beat our suburban schools of 2,000. It's time for people around here to wake up, and that includes the grade schools. These basketball programs don't have to be world-beaters but they certainly should produce on a more consistent level than they are now. These good high school basketball teams bring communities together. Around here nobody seems to care.

FAN BLASTS NIXON

Dear Fans Forum:

I realize that your paper doesn't make it as far as Washington D.C., but I just had to write to someone about how ridiculous President Nixon looked when NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle shut him down.

What right does Nixon have in challenging a long-established NFL ruling that dictates the blackout of home football games in those cities? Just because he's a big Redskins fan, he thinks that all previous rules can be thrown out.

First he calls George Allen and Don Shula and suggests plays and now he all of a sudden wants the blackout lifted so Washington fans will be able to see the playoff games without leaving the city. Doesn't he realize that although Washington may be playing to a full house week after week some other team may be drawing half-capacity? To start airing the games in those cities would be seriously jeopardizing those franchises, if they're not already.

If this somehow does make it to your desk, Mr. Nixon, please play with your rubber stamp and not the future of professional football.

CAN'T WIN WITHOUT THROWING

Dear Sirs:

The Bears are in for even more criticism than usual now that the season is over, but they deserve it. Daryle Lamina, Oakland's quarterback, said it best when he said, "You can't win in the NFL without some passing game."

This is very true no matter how many yards your quarterback gains running — which Bobby Douglass, of course, did very well. But not only was his passing percentage (37.8) the lowest in NFL history — the LEADING receiver on the team, Earl Thomas, had only 19 catches in 14 games! And George Farmer, one of the most talented receivers in the league, caught 14 all season.

When this happens, the rest of the offense besides the quarterback gets discouraged because they aren't contributing. Then morale is bad. The Bears' offense was a one-man show (Douglass, of course) and you have to use all 11 men to win.

For the trillionth time: Please, Bears, draft or trade for a quarterback!

—5 Teams Try To Catch Arlington

Huskies, after a disappointing holiday tournament at Pontiac, are seeking a combination that will accentuate the presence of 6-11 center Dave Corzine.

"We're still looking for people who can get the ball to Dave," Hersey head coach Roger Steingraber said. "Our team's shooting percentage from the floor has been weak and our turnovers have persisted."

Flanking Corzine at the forwards tonight will be 6-4 sophomore Rich Madison and 6-0 Mark Krause. "We think Madison deserves a shot because he was the most-improved ballplayer with the jayvees and he gives us a good outside threat," Steingraber said.

Flasty John Kanellis still anchors the backcourt, but his new runningmate will be Tim Conard, a 5-foot-11 sharpshooting sophomore who may be important against Wheeling's anticipated zone defense.

Both clubs will enter the clash with identical 3-1 MSL records — one step behind pace-setting Arlington. "We expect Wheeling to show us some younger kids, too," Steingraber said.

The veteran Huskie coach is particularly worried about the Wildcats' strong rebounding game headed by Scott Keenan, Tom Marzec and George Kaago whom Steingraber called, "their big gun inside."

Kaago will be the only one of the three starting tonight. Joining him will be Pat Smith, Paul Groot, Bill Kenny, Bill Pickler or Steve Schmitt.

Although there are plenty of games left in the MSL, Ecker termed tonight's contest "an important ball game." Both opponents cannot afford to fall more than one game behind Arlington.

Some conference coaches have said that you can share the North title with two losses. "I'll agree with that," said Ecker. "In fact, two might be too many."

Ecker's frontline averages about 6-4 across with Kaago being the most muscular at 194 pounds. They'll be trying to hold down 225-pound Corzine.

"He's certainly bigger," said Ecker of Corzine in relation to the other big boys the Wildcats have faced so far. "Hersey certainly uses him more than any team has used his big man."

Wheeling presently boasts the best overall record in the division at 7-3. Only Conant, which played in a round robin tourney and won all three games, is better with an 8-2 mark.

PALATINE AT FREMID

The first battle of the two-game series for the Palatine Village mythical title takes place tonight on the Vikings' home court, scene of last year's romp by the hosts.

terfly and also the 200 and 400 freestyle events.

Before the year is out, the name "Blin" might appear double in different events for Brent, a freshman, has been turning in some outstanding times on the varsity.

ROLLING MEADOWS

The Mustangs, competing for the first time in the MSL last season, failed to score any points in the conference meet. That won't happen this time around.

Gary Grunwald figures to be one of the top sprinters in the conference for Coach Phil Pardon.

go anyplace this season. After losing to Niles North, then beating Niles East and finally falling to Maine West in tournament action at Notre Dame last week his club is now 3-7 on the season with an uphill battle ahead in their divisional race.

"Against Maine West we shot 23 per cent and probably shouldn't have even been in the ball game with them. But we outrebounced them too, kept our turnovers to a minimum and hustled enough to nearly beat them even though we couldn't hit a thing."

"We shot horribly against Hersey before the tournament too and came close to beating them. It makes me firmly believe we are capable of beating anyone if we can ever find the range."

The Vike coach is aware of the fact that his charges will have to find the range quick with the Pirates coming to town. "Palatine always plays us a scrappy game, even when they're down. This year they've been playing good ball so our work is really cut out for us."

ARLINGTON AT ROLLING MEADOWS

The crucial month is about to begin for George Zigman and his Arlington team.

The Card coach will be leading his charges into battle at Rolling Meadows this evening. Zigman finds his team on top of the North Division heap with an important stretch about to unfold.

"I said before the season that I felt we could develop into a decent ball club by January. Our young team has had an opportunity to gain some exposure now and we didn't get hurt a lot in the process. If we're going to start jelling, this is the time for it to begin."

After falling out of Centralia tourney competition 300 miles away by losing a heartbreaker to a school located less than five miles from home, the Cardinals are 6-3 on the season overall. Considering the fact that Zigman has gone with a lineup containing virtually no varsity experience prior to this season, the results thus far have been anything but unpleasant.

"Surprisingly, our free throw shooting got us into trouble in Centralia," Zigman noted. "Usually we do pretty well at the line but for some reason we missed 11 one-and-ones between the Mt. Vernon and Wheeling games and wound up losing both of them even though we outscored both teams from the floor."

The Arlington mentor was especially pleased with the showing of his 6-9 junior center Dan Donahue through the tournament. "He's maturing and we're getting better as a team because of it."

As for the Mustangs, which are on the exact opposite end of the standings, Zigman isn't ready to take them lightly yet. "We're still learning and still making mistakes. We can't take anyone for granted and especially not a team like Meadows with the biggest incentive to beat us of any team in the league."

While the Mustangs' appetite for a victory stretches unfulfilled across nine games, head coach Ken Arneson sadly reports that his players are still as small physically as they were in 1972.

"The quicker we accept the fact that every team we play is going to be bigger than we are, the better off we'll be," he said. "I've seen smaller teams win because they get position under the basket and block out the bigger boys and that's what we're going to have to start doing."

Meadows will finally be playing before a home crowd — something they haven't done in seven games that span over a month. "We've been on the road so much, I've forgotten what our place looks like," Arneson chuckled.

Another thing that the Meadows coach is concerned about is his team's ball-handling — especially against a press. "There is no use worrying about getting taller because we won't," Arneson leveled. "but we can improve our ballhandling. We've had our problems against the exceptionally quick teams and Arlington looks like one of those teams."

Besides quickness and a height advantage, Arneson also noted Arlington's balanced scoring attack that won't allow his Mustangs to key on any one player. "We've been watching their box scores and it seems like they have three or four players in double figures every game."

In anticipation of a zone defense by the Cards, Arneson will unleash Grant Holiday All-Tournament guard John Hogan, a soph who gained the berth with some deadly outside shooting. "If he gets hot, we may be able to force them to come out and get us," Arneson said.

ST. THERESA EXPRESS 15-0

The St. Theresa 7th grade has moved to a 15-0 record this season. The Trulans picked up wins 11 and 13 over St. Joseph of Wilmette, 40-21, and St. Adalbert of South Milwaukee, 45-37.

Dave McKinney paced St. Theresa to its 11th win at Wilmette. He suited in 14 points and grabbed 15 rebounds. Theresa never trailed in the game, leading by 15-9 at halftime and as much as 13 in the third quarter. Forward Chris Plazak and guard Mike Sammons played outstanding defensive games.

The Trulans traveled to Wisconsin Saturday and beat a scrappy St. Adalbert's entry, John Martin paced all scorers with 21 points, his best performance of the year. McKinney added 10 points and Plazak 8.

Theresa jumped out to a 17-1 lead midway in the second quarter and was never headed. Theresa substituted freely in the game and was guilty of 21 team fouls, far above their 18.3 game average.

On Saturday the Trulans will be involved in a courtesy play and on Sunday will be in Mount Prospect to meet St. Raymond's.

ST. MARY'S BUFFALO GROVE

The holidays were productive for St. Mary's as all three teams played in holiday tournaments.

The 6th grade played 2nd and 3rd in the St. John Brebeuf tournament. After initial victories over Holy Cross of Deerfield 27-13 and a thrilling double overtime victory over St. John Vianney 29-24, St. Mary's met St. Isaac Jogues in the semi-finals. The Bison appeared headed for an easy victory but St. Isaac's come back and St. Mary's held on for a 23-20 victory.

Jack Quinn and Donni Henson were outstanding. In the final, St. John Brebeuf had too much height and overall offense for St. Mary's and won 39-23. Steve Taporek led St. Mary's with nine points, Fred Machin and Henson were named to the all-tournament team.

The 7th grade report will appear next week.

The 8th grade varsity garnered 4th in the St. Victor Holiday Tournament. St. Mary's defeated St. Anne's of Barrington and St. Theresa's in their first two games. In the semi-final, St. Raymond's held off St. Mary's 26-23. Tom Lindholm with 10 and Bob Mason with 8 led St. Mary's.

In the 3rd place game poor ball-handling hurt the Bison more than anything else and they lost to St. Joseph the Worker of Wheeling 40-52. Bob Mason had 8 and Dave Brooks with 5 played well for St. Mary's.

St. Mary's resumes league play Sunday, Jan. 7, with St. Peter's of Antioch in Antioch.

The Herald will be happy to print grades and basketball results each Friday. Scores and highlights must be received by noon the Wednesday preceding publication. They should be typed and triple-spaced. Thank you.

Midwest Boat Show Coming In March

Plans for the Fourth Annual Midwest Boat Show, to be held March 9-18, 1973 at the Arlington Park Exposition Center in Arlington Heights, have been announced by Edward P. Hansen, president, Midwest Boat Show, Inc.

Hansen reported that the show will feature 100 exhibitors displaying every kind of pleasure boat, including outboards, inboards, houseboats, sailboats, ATVs, and boating accessories. The show will occupy a 125,000-square-foot area in the Exhibition Hall at the Arlington Race Track. With 10 exhibitors already signed up, Hansen said he expects the show to be fully booked. In excess of 100,000 persons are expected to attend the ten-day boat show which draws visitors from the north, northwest and western Chicago suburbs and boaters from throughout northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin, eastern Iowa and northern Indiana.

Midwest Boat Show, Inc. is owned by a group of leading marine retailers in the Chicago metropolitan area, and stated Hansen, "is traditionally a boat buyers market place where people come to shop for and buy their boats."

While the average ceiling height in the exhibition area is 14 feet, heights in many places up to 35 feet are available and certain areas have 57 foot clearance, ideal for sailboats. The floor plan of the show is designed to set off small displays in colorful, spacious areas. There will be a special area for snowmobiles and ATVs.

As in past years, Midwest Boat Show will conduct an extensive promotional program that includes television, radio and newspaper advertising, and a publicity campaign.

"Promotions are designed to attract attention to each of our exhibitors as well as to the show itself," Hansen said. Special promotions, such as the annual nautical fashion show, and other activities to be announced, will add glamour and appeal to the event.

Location of the Arlington Park Exhibition Center near the Northwest Tollway (U.S. 90) and Routes 53 and 14, makes the site easily accessible to all sections of Chicago and its suburbs. Hundreds of acres of surface parking area assure convenience and protection for all motorists.

Show hours of the Fourth Annual Midwest Boat Show are Friday, March 9, 6 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday, March 10 and 11, 12 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.; Monday through Friday, March 12-16, 4 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.; Saturday, March 16, 12 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.; and Sunday, March 18, 12 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Demanding Road Show Ahead For Lions' Five

by LARRY EVERHART

To hear St. Viator coach Ed Wasielewski tell it, the so-far rough going for his basketball team won't get any easier this weekend.

Wasielewski — though feeling his boys are trying hard and though not at all down on them — had nothing but praise for the Lions' two back-to-back opponents this weekend, St. Joseph (tonight) and Marist (Saturday).

To make the challenge even more difficult, both games will be on the road — a long way from the Lions' Arlington Heights quarters. And St. Viator has managed only two wins in 10 games thus far.

Despite that dismal record, the coach is not pessimistic. "We had a decent workout after two days off," he commented, "and I think we'll be ready. We have good, hard-working kids."

"We may stick with the same lineup from now on. I think we've found the best combination."

He said this in spite of a pair of

ST. VIATOR		ST. JOSEPH

6-10 Chapman	G	6-3 Morris	G
6-3 Cook	C	6-3 Holland	C
6-0 Dwyer	F	6-0 OFEN	F
6-0 Hutcheson	F	6-0 OFEN	F

TIME: Preliminary at 6:30; varsity at approximately 8:00, Friday, Jan. 5.

PLACE: St. Joseph High School, 1810 S. Mayfair, Westchester.

COACHES: Ed Wasielewski, St. Viator; Gene Pingatore, St. Joseph.

day tournament losses at Notre Dame. It was the earliest in years that St. Viator has been eliminated from a holiday meet, where they usually are at their best.

The list of starters appears to be set with Terry Keenan and Tom Chapman teaming up at guards, Mike Cook at center and Mike Dwyer and Dave Hutcheson at forwards. All but Cook (6-3) are only six feet tall or less.

The Lions' main problem has been a lack of scoring punch. They have been held under 50 points in half of their 10 games and have a high of only 56. Opponents have been under 50 only twice and above 60 three times.

Thus, while Viator has played good defense and a deliberate game limiting foes to an average of just 56 points a game, the Lions themselves are averaging only 48. No individual is averaging more than 11 a game.

As usual, both of the weekend's opponents will be bigger than the Lions. St. Joseph is 4-6 overall and 1-3 in the Suburban Catholic Conference East Division and Marist is 3-1 in division play.

At Beverly Lanes

Hanel took a giant step to lead the Parkway Men's league with a 7-0 sweep over Meyer. Fred Turcotte paced Hanel with 356-206. Gutwein moved into second place but lost its match with Bic Bananas 4-3. Glenn Quade rolled 350 for Bic. NIMS, winner of the first half is tied for third with opponent Quade, winning the match 5-2. George Quade scored 546 for NIMS while teammates Dick La-Nasa had a 205 game and Bill Larson 201.

At Elk Grove

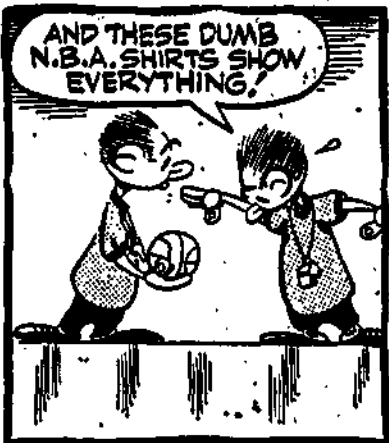

The Didders won the first half in the Friday Nite Mixed Nuts League at Elk Grove Bowl as Fred Zielinski hit 561, Gary Thoma 560, Wally Wagner, 525, Ted Takeda 525, Jim Nelson 511 and Frank Colombo 502.

Dolores De Bartoli hit 481, Linda Metcalf 467, Barb Nelson 442, Jean Davis 433 and Nina Cassano and Bob Rhain converted the 6-7 and 5-7 splits, respectively.

Point-Happy Wolves

There have been many teams scoring more than 100 points in Big Ten games, but only five have scored 130 or more in conference action. The all-time record is Michigan's 128 against Purdue in 1966.

Elk Grove Hockey Facts

(Ed. Note: Please triple-space the releases each week so they will be easier to edit. Thank you.)

The Elk Grove Village Amateur Hockey Association Midweekers split two games last week, defeating Tri-Cities 13-0 in the only Polar Dome action, then losing to Park Ridge 4-3 to break their string of 17 games without a loss.

In the Polar Dome game against Tri-Cities, Elk Grove completely dominated the game from the opening face-off. Larry Mitsch and Jim Samuels scored the three goal hat tricks and goalies Steve Cimino and Larry McDermott combined for the third straight Polar Dome action shutout.

Bill Hailpenny scored the first goal for Elk Grove unassisted in the first minute of play. Bill ended up with two goals for the night. Jim Samuels, three goals one assist; Larry Mitsch three goals; Mark Gustafson one goal; Ron Ciesler two goals 2 two assists; Mark Christensen one goal one assist; Mark Rodseth one goal one assist; Bob Brunn two assists; Bob Morita three assists; Joe Donca three assists; Bob Gieske one assist; and Bob Lamentin two assists.

In the following game against Park Ridge, Elk Grove paid the price. Their winners were constantly out of defensive position, many times when Park Ridge was on the attack. It seemed like Elk Grove had two men constantly in the penalty box but great play by Elk Grove's goalie Steve Cimino, defensemen Bill Hailpenny, Bob Gieske, Mike Tucker, and center Larry Mitsch ad Mark Rodseth kept the game close.

Park Ridge scored the first two goals to take a two goal lead. Mark Christensen scored the first goal for Elk Grove assisted by Mark Rodseth and Bill Hailpenny to make the score 2-1. Bob Lamentin then tied the score on assists from Larry Mitsch and Joe Donca.

Park Ridge scored the third goal to take a 3-2 lead. Then Mark Rodseth tied the game on assists from Bob Morita and Jim Samuels. Park Ridge scored the final goal to end the game with a 4-3 victory.

Elk Grove put pressure on the Park Ridge goalie with four shots in less than a minute.

Elk Grove ended the first half of the season with a 16-4 record. In Polar Dome play Elk Grove's record stands at 8 wins 2 losses and 2 ties which puts them in a tie for first place with Dundee.

Next game at the Polar Dome Monday, Jan. 8 at 8:30 vs. Dundee in a battle for 1st place.

Mid-Suburban, St. Viator, Harper Wrestlers Set For Active Weekend

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

Back to work.
This is what Mid-Suburban League wrestling coaches have been telling their charges this week as most clubs face an active weekend of competition following the holiday layoff.

A full slate of MSL mat activity is on tap for this evening and all but three of the loop's dozen members will turn right around tomorrow and compete some more. They'll be joined Saturday by St. Viator and Harper to make this weekend one of the busiest of the season for area grapplers.

Probably tonight's most crucial test will occur at Wheeling where the Wildcats are to entertain the defending State Champs from neighboring Hersey. After placing two notches above the Huskies at Glenbrook South's holiday tourney just prior to Christmas, the 'Cats are hopeful of dumping their nearby rivals from the league undefeated ranks.

Other arenas this evening will pit Conant against hosting Glenbard North, Forest View against Prospect, Rolling Meadows against Arlington, Elk Grove against Schaumburg and Fremd against Palatine.

Tomorrow a long line of non-conference affairs has Lake Park and York visiting the Pirates, New Trier West dropping in on the Vikings, Schaumburg participating in a quadrangular at Sycamore, DeKalb playing host to Hersey, the Knights running over to Lockport Central, Wheeling joining with Carmel and McHenry at Niles North and the Mustangs rolling out the red carpet for Conant, Holy Cross and Grayslake.

Also on the agenda Saturday will be a meet at Forest View including St. Viator, Maine West and Luther North and a quad at West Chicago that Glenbard North will participate in. Harper's unbeaten Hawks, meanwhile, will hook up with Cuyahoga at School Craft.

Going into Friday's combat no less than two thirds of the members of the MSL are still in the running for dual meet honors in the two divisions. Up North the Huskies are only half a game ahead of Arlington while the Wildcats wro suffered their only defeat of the campaign against the Cards) and the Vikes remain in contention.

In the South the Cougars and Grenadiers are still unbeaten in loop competition while the Saxons and Falcons must also be considered possibilities for regular season honors. Surprisingly Forest View sports the best overall mark at 6-1 but their one setback was at the hands of Elk Grove so they'll need help from someone else if they wish to come out on top.

Individually most of the names emerging as top contenders are as expected. Forest View's undefeated Steve Dolphin was named top wrestler at Prospect's holiday meet and Fremd's John Lynch gained similar attention at the Palatine gathering.

Schaumburg's Guy Bedow and Gary Evans were individual champions at the Lake Park tournament just after Christmas and also have retained unblemished marks. Wheeling's Ken Smith and Hersey's Pat Hart and Kevin Pancratz took titles at the celebrated Glenbrook South holiday gathering while Wildcat Steve Jorgenson and Arlington's Steve Frankovic also reached the finals.

Prospect's Randy Cherwin, another champ at the Knight-hosted meet, lost his opener this season and has not been beaten since, standing now at 7-1-3. Conant's John Beck was upset at the Palatine meet but still boasts a fine overall mark and Gary Ahr heads up Rolling Meadows hopes with an excellent 9-4 record.

Elk Grove has a pair of potential downstaters in Craig Mann and Rick Morris. Mann won MVP and fastest pin laurels at the Ridgewood tourney earlier last month and both he and Morris won individual titles.

Palatine, after dropping four straight conference meets, dempnstrated a resurgence by claiming third place in their own 16-team holiday gathering. John Tuttle and John Loneragan were both finalists there. Glenbard's chief threat meanwhile appears to be Bill Poczeka) who captured seven of his first eight bouts by pin and had been only stopped once as the holidays approached.

St. Viator is 3-4-1 overall this season and looking strong at both ends via 98-pound Tim Marwitz and heavyweight Ralph Bosch. After ten straight dual meet wins without a loss, Harper's only setback was a third place finish at the Lake County gathering. The Hawks have a number of standouts but probably their top grappler is veteran John Majors.

Mattoon Honors To Prospect's Bergen

Talented 6-9 Prospect center Tom Bergen was named to the Mattoon Holiday All-Tournament Team after the Knights finished sixth in the eight-squad field.

Bergen poured through 18 points in Prospect's opening-round 64-56 loss to eventual champion Rantoul and pumped in 31 points and hauled down 19 rebounds as the Knights outgunned Mt. Zion, 79-70.

In Prospect's heart-breaking 60-58 overtime loss to Sullivan, Bergen again enjoyed a hot hand with 26 points and anchored the defense with a dozen rebounds.

NEW YORK UPI — Roberto Clemente kept saying he never wanted to manage, yet there were certain signs, little unmistakable ones, which clearly said otherwise.

Babe Ruth used to say he didn't want to manage either. That was while he still was playing. Then when they didn't give him the chance after he was all through, he never forgave them.

"What kind of manager would you be?" I asked Roberto Clemente not that long ago.

"Tough," he said. "I wouldn't stand for any foolhardiness, but I don't think a manager can treat a player rough."

Roberto Clemente, possibly the greatest player the Pittsburgh Pirates have ever had, possibly even the greatest all-around player since Ty Cobb, did manage a ball club twice.

He handled San Juan of the Puerto Rican Winter League both times, and as Earl Weaver and Bill Virdon will tell you, everybody who manages in Puerto Rico can manage up in the Big Time.

Invariably, as a player with Pittsburgh 18 years, Roberto Clemente managed far better on the ball field than off it.

He spoke the other ballplayers' language, so communication with them was easy. He did not always speak other people's language, so sometimes communication with them came harder. Sometimes people misunderstood Roberto Clemente, his goals, his motives and the things he said.

There was the time, for example, some of his admirers presented him with an expensive new car here in New York.

"I didn't want it," Clemente said later. "And I didn't ask for it. I have my own car at home."

Some people took that to mean Clemente was ungrateful, but that really wasn't it at all. Actually Clemente was selfconscious about all the fuss being made over him, and the words simply came out the hard sounding way they did.

Another time, a Puerto Rican group decided to hold a dinner for Clemente, and he expressed a wish that some of his Pittsburgh teammates attend. Few did, and he was upset about it.

"How could we possibly show up?" one Pittsburgh player said. "We were never told when or where the dinner was to be held." That wasn't Clemente's fault.

The fact is he was easily the most popular member of the Pittsburgh ball club, not only with Pittsburgh fans but also with his fellow players.

The fact also is he asked for fewer favors or concessions from the Pirates' front office than any of his teammates.

Yet, it is also a fact that many misunderstood the talented, wasp-waisted rightfielder whose life and career came to an abrupt end on New Year's Eve at the age of 38 while he was attempting a mission of mercy to those left hungry and homeless in Managua, Nicaragua, by the recent earthquake there.

"Misunderstood is the best way I can explain him," says Joe Brown, the Pirates' general manager, who had a deep personal affection for Clemente.

"He was such a warm, fine, human being and yet I don't think he came across that way because I think he was shut off in his relationship by a good many people very early in his career."

"I think Bobby lacked confidence, certainly social confidence early, and a lot of people didn't understand him. I think the thing that . . . that . . . well, I guess killed him, was his desire to do things for people. What he was trying to do for the people in Nicaragua was one of the few public things he did. He generally did things, kind things, few people knew about."

Steve Blass and Dave Giusti, two of the Pirates' pitchers, were attending the same New Year's Eve party in Pittsburgh when they learned of Clemente's tragic death.

They heard about it around four in the morning and they were numbed by the news.

Two hours later, not really knowing what to do or where to go, both went to Joe Brown's house.

"I think they just wanted to go to share their grief with somebody they knew cared as much as they did," said Brown, who left for Clemente's home in Rio Piedras, Puerto Rico, Tuesday to see what he can do to help the family.

"We just sat around, had coffee and talked," Brown went on. "I remember one of the things Steve said. He said, 'The bad part is that Pittsburgh had him this long and never really understood him.'"

Roberto Clemente appeared in 12 All-Star games, won four batting titles and collected more than 3,000 hits, but didn't really "make it" until the 1971 World Series in which he batted .414 and ruined Baltimore almost single-handedly.

"It finally took a World Series for people to say, 'Hey, this guy is one of the greatest players ever to put on a uniform,'" laments Giusti.

Once you saw Clemente play it was hard to forget him. It was hard to forget how he so easily could take that little step in the batter's box and lash the ball to right field; how gracefully he could glide toward the wall and pick off the ball, and how incredibly fast and straight he could throw it to any of the bases.

I remember Roberto Clemente doing all those things, and doing them better than anyone I've seen in the past 10 years.

I can also remember his wife, Vera, saying:

"When he plays, he does it from his heart. He does everything that way."

Only one thing could ever really stop Roberto Clemente, and it did.

'Sweet Sixteen Cougars' Rip Faculty By 60 Points

It was like old times at Conant High School last Saturday night.

Last year's varsity basketball team, all now-graduated seniors, returned to their alma mater to play an exhibition game against a faculty team in what was billed as the "return of the Sweet Sixteen Cougars." The 1971-72 Conant team was the first in Herald area history to qualify for the coveted final 16 teams in the state tournament.

Those boys, most of whom are now playing at colleges in scattered places, showed that they have not lost their touch or teamwork. They routed the faculty, 86-38, even though the coaches team included head basketball mentor Dick Redlinger, who was a star himself in his college days at Western Illinois U.

"They could have beaten us by even more," chuckled Redlinger, "but we played seven-minute quarters in the second half."

"Late in the game I was kidding them that they weren't going to make 90 points. That got them made and they scored 20 points in a minute and 20 seconds."

A good crowd of about 400 fans were present, raising about $300 for the school's Booster Club, which needed the money to help pay a debt on lights for the football field and other expenses.

All members of last year's team were there and all played except Gary Pemberton and Dave Schmitt, present members of the Harper College team who could not risk injury.

Other players participating were Bill Arkus, Chet Pudlosky, John Whiteford, Vern Buzek, Rick Pearson, Dave Valerio, and George Pattee.

On the coaches roster in addition to Redlinger, were Roger McCoy, Barry Carlson, Charles Mastek, Dan Fox, Jerry Cunningham, Jerry Segebrecht, Ralph Loease, Bill Severino, Dennis Ferguson and Jack Frost.

"We played straight basketball, but everybody had a good time," said Redlinger.

Lockport Central, Quincy Hold Top Spots In Ratings

by United Press International

Dolton Thornridge, which rewrote the record books in putting together an unprecedented winning streak that took them to two straight Illinois prep basketball championships, is no longer viewed as an unbeatable powerhouse.

After racking up 58 straight victories, the Falcons went into battle against Waukegan, and were handed their first loss. The defeat, and two others, left the Falcons out of contention for the No. 1 spot in this year's United Press International ratings.

Thornridge was replaced as the No. 1 contender by Lockport Central, which sports a 12-0 record and racked up a total of 232 points, including 13 first-place votes from the UPI board of Illinois high school basketball coaches. The board is composed of coaches whose teams made up the "Sweet 16" finalists in the Class

AA tourney last season.

The ratings, with total points and season win-loss records in parentheses:

THE MOST IMPORTANT "BUTTON" ON YOUR AUTOMOBILE IS THE ONE YOU CAN PUSH FOR SERVICE!

The first question any boy asks when he sits up front with is:
"Gee, what are all the buttons for?"

So you show him. This one starts the engine. That one turns on the lights. This one gets the ball game. And that one blows the horn. But is that all?

Step out and take another look. Somewhere up on the hood — or maybe down on the front fender — there's another button that carries the name of the company who made the car.

What happens when you push that button? Who comes running?

Each and every automobile manufacturer has built a world reputation for standing behind his car — with parts, service and engineering know-how.

But it's a long push back to the factory. So car makers built that reputation over the years through a nation-wide network of franchised dealers. They're the men who stand closest behind the new car you drive. The men who come running when you "push" that service button.

There are more than 40,000 new car dealers in the United States today — just about every one of them in business for himself, a property owner, a civic leader, a good friend, right in the town you and he grew up in.

It isn't surprising that most new car dealers are located in small towns — 69 per cent of them in towns under 60,000 population. Because good businessmen look after the product they sell — and that means staying close to it. Not just for the free first thousand miles, but for 10 and 20 thousand mile check-ups, too . . . that squeak in back that only your wife can hear . . . or the factory-school tune-up that can put more miles in the gallon on your next fishing trip. (Did you know that the average new car dealer hires twice as many men in his Service Department as he does in the Sales Room?)

And, of course, a dealer wants to be close to your car when trade-in time comes, too. He's a businessman. And the biggest "bargain" he has to offer a smart shopper is the knowledge that he wants the service you get on this car to bring you back for more.

So, the next time you're in the market for a new automobile, take all the time you need "shopping around." You owe it to yourself. It's a big purchase.

But after you've studied all the ads, compared all the competitive claims and kicked all the tires you want . . . don't sign anything — until you're sure all the buttons work! Including the one you can push for dealer service.

Sculpture For Self-Fulfillment

Janet Souter's Thermoplastic World

by ELEANOR RIVES

Jerry Souter sometimes describes his wife as a "grim spectacle."

Janet Souter graciously accepts the compliment.

When she emerges from the basement studio of their Des Plaines townhouse, powdered in sawdust and reeking of propane gas, she's no Venus arising from the sea. She looks weird, mighty weird.

But boy, is she happy.

Mrs. Souter is an artist who found her own medium, improved and perfected her technique in it, and directed it into new and exciting channels. In this she finds tremendous self-fulfillment.

She calls her art form thermoplastic sculpture.

ITS CREATION begins in her kitchen oven where she melts plastic crystals of various colors into sheets, adjusting the temperature according to the texture she is seeking. The sheets go directly to the basement, and Janet goes to work with her propane torch to soften and mold the plastic, sometimes working sections over a base of crumpled newspaper covered with aluminum foil.

Little by little the plastic takes form — sometimes delicate, lithe form as in her small ruby-red "Wind Tree." Sometimes dramatic, intense form as in her three-foot sculpture of a woman in the throes of death, entitled "The Executioner." Sometimes a gay and rhythmical whirl of line and balance as in "The Dancer."

Her "Icarus," a black figure with blue wings, was inspired in Greek mythology by the story of the boy who flew too close to the sun and fell into the sea. "The Fossil" is an interplay of jewel-toned colors.

HER SENSE of humor permeates an ambitious work which she entitled "The Father Figure." About three feet high, the abstract sculpture contains four eyes, a mouth opening, and four plastic cubes, each imprinted with a word, all of which rotate around a central shaft operated by a motor in the base. When two eyes appear, the cube says either "yes" or "no." When no eyes show, the cube says "maybe."

This ingenious caricature has found a happy home in an apartment in the Hancock Building.

Almost as challenging to the home-maker and artist as the work itself, is the problem of matching base to sculpture, of working out engineering problems of balance and support. In "The Executioner," Mrs. Souter had to incorporate not only a plastic pelvis, but almost a complete skeleton of lucite rods within her dying woman to prevent her from collapsing in fact rather than in fancy. A heavy form, she required a large heavy base, and bases are Janet Souter's business too.

HER SMALLER bases are cast off "stringers" from the lumber yard, very dense, hard heart-of-oak pieces used to separate stacks of boards. The larger bases she constructs herself — sawing, drilling, sanding like crazy. She may paint or oil the wood depending on the finish that best suits the sculpture.

A new dimension to Mrs. Souter's art was added when she began displaying her pieces in plexiglass cubes with high intensity lighting radiating upward through the translucent floor of the cube.

THUS MRS. SOUTER found herself stumbling into a new field — electronics. A sympathetic father-in-law with an electronics engineering background became a part of her circuit whenever she shook up her hook-up. Even when she was working late into the night.

About seven years ago, Janet Souter, a free lance layout artist and specialist in graphic design, watched a friend's children happily making little plastic gift items in simple molds in the oven. Her artistic mind clicked. She began experimenting to determine the limits and advantages of thermoplastic sculpture, applying the skills she had previously learned in four years of study at the Art Institute in Chicago.

Now she exhibits her unusual works in two or three juried or invitational art shows a year. She won honorable mention in both the 1970 Mount Prospect Art Fair and the 1971 Deerpath Art Fair in Lake Forest. She exhibited in the 57th Street Art Fair last June and at Edens Plaza a few weeks later. Next spring her work may be viewed at the Church of the Master Art Fair. And a few representative pieces may be viewed year round at "The Odd Volume," a little art gallery and book store near Circle Campus in Chicago.

MRS. SOUTER still considers layout art and graphic design her profession. But thermoplastic sculpture is her pure enjoyment.

"Once I started, I just had to keep at it," she said. "I couldn't 'not' do it. Possibly it makes it easier for me to do the things I dislike. It's all mine — I have no deadlines to meet, I make my own decisions. What finally comes out is nobody else's."

Her next step will be experimentation with fiber optics, the transmission of light along plastic stems. What finally comes out will again be nobody else's. Janet Souter will probably say, matter-of-factly, "I just couldn't 'not' do it."

(As this goes into print the Souters, all five of them — Jerry and Janet; Danielle, 8; Allison, 7; and Collin, 2 months — will have moved into their new home in Arlington Heights. Is Mom thrilled with the roomier home, the layout of the rooms, the quiet residential atmosphere? Yes, but not half so thrilled as with the garage — her garage — where she will have saws, drills, torches, a complete heated workshop of her own.)

ENGINEERING complements art in form of a dying woman, Janet Souter's thermoplastic sculpture. Heavy pieces require structural support and weighty bases. In this WIELDING A PROPANE torch, Janet softens and molds one of her thermoplastic sculptures. Engineering, carpentry, and now electronics, have added new dimensions to her art. Janet exhibits at juried and invitational shows about three times a year.

Theater-Rich, Play-Poor 1973 New York Outlook

UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Theater-rich and play-poor is about the way to describe the 1973 stage outlook in New York.

Prospects for quality entertainment in reasonable quantity do not appear to be better than in the past two years, which have been less than notable in this respect.

As for theaters, 1973 finds Broadway enjoying the unaccustomed luxury of having two new, large, handsome houses that badly need occupancy by smash-musicals to justify their existence and perk up the whole theater scene. They are the first new Broadway showcases in 44 years.

BOTH WERE constructed, under a relaxed building code, as integral parts of high-rise office buildings. The Uris Theater, largest New York legitimate house at 1,940 seats, is in the Uris skyscraper at Broadway and 50th Street. The Minskoff Theater is in the Minskoff building in Times Square at 44th Street where the famed Astor Hotel once stood.

The Uris got off to a bad start at the end of November when a costly, glittering but largely empty musical titled "Via Galactica" opened to bad notices and closed almost immediately.

The Minskoff hopes to begin its career Jan. 23 in a more propitious manner when the 1,600-seat house opens with a revival of a "No, No Nanette" of a 1919 successful musical, "Irene." It stars that Hollywood success personality, Debbie Reynolds, making her New York stage debut, and has been directed by none less than Britain's Sir John Gielgud.

THE ORIGINAL score has been beefed up with some old-time song favorites from other sources that everyone knows, and that should be a help.

So far, there are only 13 other attractions listed for the year, but, of course, that doesn't take into account the production spurt that will come when a new season begins in the year's last three months after the usual summer hiatus. And six of those 13 are revivals by repertory companies or other sources dealing in engagements limited to a few weeks.

One of the few new plays due before summer that has aroused hopes is "Finishing Touches" by Jean Kerr, who had a huge success a decade ago with "Mary, Mary," starring Barbara Bel Geddes, who heads the cast of this new one. Due in February.

A January musical entry titled "Tricks" also has built up some pleasant anticipation. It is based on Moliere's "The Knaveries of Scapin."

BROADWAY'S 1972 was a bad year in most respects, and off-Broadway fared no better. There were 53 Broadway productions, a number of them limited to repertory attractions, which was about the same pace as a similarly uninspired 1971.

Because the theater operates on a June-to-June season fashion rather than by the calendar year, it is difficult to present really accurate productions and money figures on the latter basis.

However, it would appear from figures compiled by the weekly Variety trade paper that the total Broadway gross in 1972 same as in 1971, whereas the figure in recent previous years, has been around $55 million.

Some significant 1971 items:

Off-Broadway producer Joseph Papp came on as a big Broadway influence when two of his Public Theater plays, "Sicks and Bones" and "That Championship Season," and his summertime free Central Park gimmicked production of "Much Ado About Nothing" were transferred to Broadway houses to critical acclaim and hearty patronage. Right now, he doesn't seem to have anything for similar transfer in 1973, but Papp is full of surprises.

THAT PERENNIALY troubled Repertory Theater of Lincoln Center and its beautiful Vivian Beaumont Theater reached a new crisis late in the year when artistic director Jules Irving resigned, effective in the spring, because money was not forthcoming to keep alive production in the small, experimental Forum Theater in the Beaumont's basement. The future is dark, uncertain.

John Houseman, one of the great directors, put together a new repertory company for the City Center of Music and Drama that shows promise. A revitalized Phoenix Repertory Company came to town in December with revivals of O'Neill's "The Great God Brown" and Miller's "Don Juan."

As for prominent playwrights, Tennessee Williams had an off-Broadway production of "Small Craft Warnings," a so-so reworking of an old script; Neil Simon sought another gold strike in December with "The Sunshine Boys," and Arthur Miller saw a repertory revival of "The Crucible" and a November Broadway production of a new one, "The Creation of the World and Other Business," which was interesting but failed to catch on, closing after 20 performances. Bring on 1974!

SILHOUETTED AGAINST a windowpane, Janet's amber. The effect will be intensified when the thermoplastic sculpture is placed within a plexiglass cube lighted from below.

'Fiddlers' With Retirement

by DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — For the first time since I've known him the word "retirement" didn't make Jack Benny grimace.

Like most veteran performers — and remember that Benny is pushing 40 — he's scoffed at retiring. But this time, when the subject came up, he scoffed not.

"I don't think I'll ever retire fully," he said. "I'll always do concerts. I love them because they involve the two things I love the most, talking and playing the violin — but I am trying to cut down."

"I want to take it a little easier from now on. But it isn't easy to take things easy. You get involved."

HE PULLED out his schedule and showed how involved a star can get. There was a long list of appearances but most of them were benefits. He says if you say yes to one, it's hard to say no to some other.

He says the whole list of his dates includes only a couple that mean any money coming in. One of these is his NBC show, Jack Benny's First Farewell Special, coming on Jan. 18, with RCA picking up the whole tab.

"I have to do a TV shot or a special once in awhile," Jack says, "to prove to the nation at large that I'm still living."

He says if he does a benefit in Philadelphia or plays Las Vegas for a few weeks, the people in Philadelphia and Las Vegas know about it, but nobody else does.

"YOU HAVE TO have some national exposure," he says, "or else the whole country thinks you're either dead or tired."

He has a contract for another NBC special, which will probably be called Jack Benny's Second Farewell Special, and is tentatively slated for spring.

He says he thinks his first farewell special is good but he stresses the word "thinks." He says he'd be surprised if it wasn't good but adds that a performer can never really be sure about these things.

"We generally do pretty well if we start out with a good idea," he says.

And he thinks this farewell idea is a pretty good one. His manager, Irving Fein, thought it up, although Benny says it goes back in the dusty history of show business to such greats as Sarah Bernhardt and Sir Harry Lauder.

"I WORKED with some good writers on it," he says. "And actually, I've always thought that I was a much better editor than I was a comedian. You know you can be a good comedian but if you're not a good editor you're in trouble."

"We've spent hours already editing my special and we're not through yet. Editing is a very important part of the business."

He says he may come up with an idea. He bounces it off his writers. Maybe six on a special. He says he won't use his idea, no matter how great he thinks it is, unless four of the six agree.

Benny says this may be one of the reasons many young comedians trip on their way up the ladder. They come to have too much faith in their own ideas and disregard the cautionary words of others.

BUT HE SAYS there are some young comedians he enjoys. He singles out Flip Wilson — "but he's been in the business a long time, don't forget" — and Bob Newhart.

"You have to give a lot of credit to any young comedian today," he says. "They didn't have the schooling my generation had. We had a chance to be bad, before we were good."

Walt Disney World Sees A Very Successful Year

by DICK KLEINER

I went down to Orlando, Fla., to see what's happened to Walt Disney World in the year since it's opened.

I talked to Bob Jackson, who used to be with Disneyland here, and is now with the U.S. Travel Service. And he says that Walt Disney World is currently, according to their surveys, the top attraction among foreigners. They list it as the first thing they want to see in the U.S. — ahead of Washington, D.C., Broadway, the Grand Canyon, Hollywood, everything.

The huge park — it's twice as big as Manhattan Island — had a fantastic first year, with more than 10 1/2 million visitors. And they're planning on more and more attractions. More rides, boats, camping facilities, hotel space, golf courses, everything.

But Californians needn't feel neglected. Card Walker, the president of Walt Disney Productions, told me they have plans to expand Disneyland, too. One of the big new things in both parks will be RCA's Space Mountain, a thrill ride with an outer space theme.

Night Out

James Farentino To Star At Arlington Park Theatre

by GENIE CAMPBELL
JAMES FARENTINO has been signed to star in "ONE FLEW OVER THE CUCKOO'S NEST," the next production to be staged at ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE. The comedy-drama will open Jan. 25.

Farentino is currently the star of the "Cool Million" series of NBC-TV's Wednesday Night Mystery Movies. Last season he was part of the legal staff of "The Bold Ones."

The production now playing at Arlington Park Theatre, "THE FANTASTICKS" starring RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN and JOHN CARRADINE, has been extended to run through Jan. 21.

Chamberlain became the prime target for a question and answer period following a matinee performance over the holidays when the English class of Barrington High School attended the musical en masse.

HANS CONRIED is starring in "HOW THE OTHER HALF LOVES" at Pheasant Run Playhouse. Conried opens next SATURDAY IN THE PARK, is currently the featured attraction in the TOP OF THE TOWERS OF ARLINGTON PARK TOWERS HOTEL.

Two female vocalists and a set of twin male singers, backed by three musicians, make up the new group. Saturday in the Park sing and dance to a selection of melodies from the 1940s to the current top 40s.

There are two shows Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 and 11 p.m.; three shows on Saturday, 7:30 and 10 p.m. and another at 12:30 a.m.

"TIPPECANOE AND DEJA VU," the best of SECOND CITY'S past three years, opens next Thursday in the Second City Theatre, 1616 N. Wells St.

Musical director for the revue is Fred Kaz, and the show is being produced and directed by Bernard Sahlins.

"Tippecanoe and Deja Vu" will include offerings from "The 50s Musical," "Hamlet," "Improvisational Opera," "The P.T.A.," "Funeral Scene," and "The Male Chauvinist Song."

SYLVIA SIDNEY and KATHERINE HOUGHTON will star in Tennessee Williams drama "SUDDENLY LAST SUMMER," at the IVANHOE THEATRE. It opens Jan. 18.

The current production at the Ivanhoe, "Welcome Home" starring Pernell Roberts, will close Jan. 14 instead of Jan. 21 as previously announced.

A "SKATE AND SPLASH DATE" for high school couples is being offered by the CHICAGO MARRIOTT MOTOR HOTEL, 8535 W. Higgins Road.

For $8 a couple, students can use the hotel's outdoor ice skating rink, indoor-outdoor swimming pool and game room. The price also includes "all you can eat" of hot dogs, hot chocolate and coffee.

The "Skate and Splash Date" is offered on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings. Ice skates may be rented for 75 cents.

Guild Players To Stage A Play By Ayn Rand

"The Night of January 16," a courtroom comedy-drama being staged by the Guild Players of Hoffman Estates in February, is being cast Sunday and Monday. Auditions will begin at 7:30 p.m. each night at the Vogeel Barn, 150 W. Higgins Road in Hoffman Estates.

The Ayn Rand play will be directed by William Schumacher of Hoffman Estates and staged Feb. 23 and 24 and March 2 and 3.

There are 22 roles to be cast. Paris includes a judge, lawyers, a court clerk, a female defendant on trial for murdering her lover-boss, policemen and matrons. Several non-speaking roles are also available.

DIRECTOR Schumacher calls the play, "a co-operative effort between audience and actors. Here is a chance for theatergoers to act as viewers and a jury at the same time," he said. "Each member of the audience will see a different ending to the play. It's really going to be a fun thing to do."

Backstage jobs are also available to those who like the feel of theater but do not wish to get out on stage. Those interested in working behind the scenes should contact the production manager, Ken Boutelle, 529-3998. Scripts of the play are also available through him.

The Guild Players are also holding tryouts for short workshop productions at a general meeting Tuesday. The workshop play being cast is "A Thousand Clowns."

WORKSHOP productions are generally cuttings or capsule versions of full-length works and require less time to produce than the major productions scheduled by the Players.

The general meeting begins at 8:30 p.m. in the Vogeel Barn in Hoffman Estates.

Further information about the workshops is available through Louise Parenti, 529-9262.

Good Movies Need Story

by DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Movies seem to be fragmenting, almost like our society is fragmenting. We're getting extreme left-wing and extreme right-wing movies. I'm not talking politics but a kind of socio-cinematic thinking that is extreme.

On what might be termed the cinematic far left there is "Play It As It Lays," which has been praised by the fashionable critics but which I found to be a dreadful movie — a boring, unpleasant film about boring, unpleasant people.

IT IS EXTREME in that story is nonexistent, that it is full of alleged symbols (in this case, a rattlesnake) that make it appear to have some deep meaning, that it parades its confusion like a badge of honor, that it deals with people who have no connection with reality.

At the other extreme — the cinematic far right — is Bob Hope's new one, "Cancel My Reservation." This is as bad, in its way, as "Play It As It Lays." Here the flaw is that there is too much story (it's also not a very good story, but that is beside the point) and not enough characterization.

THUS, THE PEOPLE are equally unreal. This is TV-time. It's all like one big skit on the latest Bob Hope Special. There is nothing to make you want to go to the movies — you can see it at home any night.

Thankfully, there is a cinematic center — weak, but alive — represented by films like "Sounder," which recognize that the movies have to tell a genuine story about real people. It seems simple enough but movie makers today seem to be forgetting it.

Hans Conried

Friday, Jan. 12. The production will run through Feb. 4.

In recent years Conried has played extensively in stock playhouses in the U.S. and Canada. Two seasons ago he appeared at Pheasant Run in "Norman, Is That You?"

Chicago Woodwind Quartet Will Perform At Harper

Virtuoso members of the Chicago Woodwind Quintet will present a recital at Harper College in Palatine Tuesday. The performance will begin at 8 p.m. in room A-139.

The Chicago Woodwind Quintet has been in residence at the Music Center of the North Shore, Winnetka, for the past ten years.

Quintet member Louise Burge was a student of Laurent Tamo, Emil Eck, and Ernest Liegl. Flutist for the ensemble, Mrs. Burge is presently principal flute with the North Shore Philharmonic.

Quintet oboist Gladys Elliot was principal oboe with the Dallas Symphony, before coming to the Chicago area eight years ago. She now holds the same position with the Lyric Opera Orchestra, the Grant Park Orchestra, and WGN-TV Artist Showcase Orchestra.

CLARINETIST Stanley Davis is on the faculty of the Sherwood Music School, Chicago Conservatory, and the Music Center of the North Shore. Principal clarinet of the North Shore Philharmonic, Davis is also a member of the Lyric Opera Orchestra, the Chicago Chamber Orchestra, WGN-TV Artist Showcase Orchestra, and the Contemporary Chamber Players of the University of Chicago.

JAMES BERKENSTOCK holds the principal position for bassoon with the Lyric Opera Orchestra. Also a teacher, he is on the faculty of the Music Center of the North Shore and the National College of Education. He is a member of the Grant Park Orchestra, the Contemporary Chamber Players of the University of Chicago and the WGN-TV Artist Showcase Orchestra.

PRINCIPAL HORN with the Lyric Opera Orchestra, the Chicago Chamber Orchestra, and the North Shore Philharmonic, Paul Ondracek was a student of Philip Farkas. Ondracek has also played with the Milwaukee Symphony, the Grant Park Orchestra, and the Santa Fe Opera. He is a member of the University of Chicago Contemporary Chamber Players and the WGN-TV Artist Showcase Orchestra.

The Chicago Woodwind Quintet recital is one in a series of programs sponsored by the Harper College student-faculty Cultural Arts committee and financed by student activity fees.

Open Auditions For 'Blithe Spirit'

Village Theatre is holding open auditions for its third production of the season, "Blithe Spirit," Sunday at 2 p.m. and Monday at 8 p.m. in Pioneer Park Fieldhouse, 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

People Like His 'Sad' Drawings

by TOMMY M. GEDDIE
DALLAS (UPI) — Nathan Jones is used to people calling his drawings "sad" or "depressing," but these same people seem to buy everything he can produce.

Jones' black and white pencil sketches are realistic, painstakingly detailed portraits of everyday life among poor blacks. They have titles such as "Homeless" and "Ghetto Boys."

"People come up and they say, 'My, your pictures are sad,' or, 'My, they're depressing,'" he said. "But before they leave the damn show, they end up buying one of them."

"Now I can't understand this. If they're so depressing and so heart-breaking, why do they buy them?"

Jones, 30, said he sells all the pencil drawings, watercolors and oils he can do. He has sold his work to former President Lyndon B. Johnson, and to prominent blacks from Dallas-country and western singer Charlie Pride, former welterweight boxing champion Curtis Cokes and national sports commentator Frank Clarke. Ramond St. Jacques, movie director, actor and producer, owns some of Jones' work.

"I DON'T KNOW what's going on in this world, but, white and black, I'm surprised sometimes that Caucasians enjoy my pencil drawings as well as I do. I sold more black and whites, my drawings, my feeling pictures, than anything else that I have done," he said.

Jones doesn't limit himself to pencil drawings. He uses watercolor, oils or whatever else seems to fit the picture he wants to do. But the sketches are his favorites.

"They are drawings that are relative to me. I can relate to them directly," he said. "Landscapes, I see, like, feel, like to paint them, get a good feeling from doing one, but it's not the same feeling I get when I finish a pencil drawing that relates to me."

"I can feel what the paintings say. I can put down a feeling, more or less, that expresses more than just drawing something and saying I've done a good painting."

A DRAWING titled "Seven Days a Week," one of the dozens of paintings that cover Jones' apartment walls, shows a tired woman sitting with her hands on her head.

"This drawing is called 'Seven Days a Week' because this woman — she is an actual person — actually works seven days a week. She has very little time off. This is why she is in that particular position, and expressing that mood," Jones said.

Another drawing is one that we could consider as happy. It is called "A Day On the Bayou." "Now, if you were fishing down by the bayou, and you made a catch, you would probably express some happiness."

The drawing shows a heavy set woman who has just caught a small fish, about the size of her hand, with a cane pole.

"And this old lady, she doesn't have any teeth. She's kind of like the old conventional person that lives alone, and enjoys fishing. And she eats what she catches."

"The little fish is just as significant to her as the big one, because most old people — I know my grandmother did — when they caught little fish, they would take that fish and fry it as a totality. Just fry head and everything. And take that thing and eat it."

"They fried so hard until the bones become brittle, and they can eat the bones along with the small fish. She's made a small catch and she's real happy."

Jones studied art for nine years at the Columbus College of Art and Design and the University of Texas at Arlington.

He has been drawing for as long as he can remember, almost since he moved with his family to Dallas from Shreveport, La., when he was about three years old.

"I CAN'T tell you when I drew my first picture. But I can tell you probably when I got real interested in it, and that's when I was in elementary school. I was drawing more than I was doing my homework, and I got into quite a bit of trouble for it."

Jones' "Ghetto Boys," which shows four youngsters sleeping in a huddle and is captioned, "We sleep anywhere, parks, junkyards, . . . anywhere," is priced at $21,000. From that peak, his paintings and prints vary to as little as $25.

"I've stayed in school for nine years, and I feel like I have done this not just for myself, but for the society in which I live. And I think if I can spend that much time trying to perfect something for them, they should pay for it," he said.

After "Butley" Public Will Remember Actor Alan Bates

by JACK GAYER
NEW YORK (UPI) — It is likely that not too many Americans know Alan Bates.

Oh, he's been seen in substantial roles in several movies widely circulated here, but they have not been starring roles. He was on Broadway eight years ago as the star of Jean Kerr's "Poor Richard," in which he was excellent, but the play had a short life.

Now, this wonderful British actor is back again, and this time his impression on the American public is bound to be indelible. Even those who don't get to see him in "Butley" at the Morosco Theater will get the message through the various news media that here is an actor to be remembered and cherished.

"Butley" is the creation of a British playwright named Simon Gray. It was a London success with Bates in the title role.

In stressing Bates, it is not intended to downgrade the play or its author. Gray has written a witty, literate script. It could be criticized as being too one-dimensional, for example, and it is easy to forget about the author while watching Bates' virtuoso performance. But someone wrote the dialogue, and it wasn't Bates.

In the case of Gray, attention must be paid. This one crases the memory of his flop of last season, "Wise Child."

"Butley" is a comedy about a man's tragedy. It is sardonic, ironic and ruthless in a funny sort of way.

Ben Butley is an English professor at a London university. He is sloppy, difficult, nearing middle age, clever with words in a sadistic manner, a superior person in his own mind. He also is a homosexual of long standing who took time out to try the heterosexual way by marrying and fathering a child.

In one day, his world falls in on him. His long-standing male lover, a former student now also faculty member, breaks off the relationship for a new male liaison, and his wife tells him she wants a divorce so she can marry a literary figure Butley despises as a colossal bore.

Bates' bravura performance, extravagant but utterly believable, has to be seen to be appreciated.

In a way, it is a one-man show, but the star is backed up by good performances by Hayward Morse, Geraldine Sherman, Barbara Lester, Holland Taylor, Roger Newman and Christopher Hastings.

The play is a huge success, and Bates is committed to it for only 18 weeks. So, look sharp, if you want to see it.

For those who might shy at a homosexual theme, it should be pointed out that this aspect of the play is handled with the utmost restraint.

Inventions, Atoms, and Safety Pins

Thanks to a grant from the National Science Foundation, you can see three free plays at Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry this year.

"Discovery" shows how inventors work and how they apply the scientific method. It will run Jan. 15-21.

"E = mc²" is about the development of atomic energy and its contributions to mankind. It will play March 5-11.

"The Prolific Inventor" tells about Walter Hunt, the black American who invented the safety pin, the first true sewing machine, a repeating rifle and other things. It's scheduled for April 30 - May 6.

These plays will be presented in the museum theater by professional actors from the Goodman Theater Center. Weekday performances are at 10 and 11:30 a.m. Weekend show times are 1 and 2:30 p.m. Admission to the museum, at 57th Street and South Lake Shore Dr., is always free.

The purpose of the plays is to further appreciation and understanding of science. They are written especially for elementary and secondary school students. Group reservations may be made by calling MU 4-1414.

HELEN HALL & COMPANY is opening Monday in the Tack Room show lounge of the Arlington Park Towers hotel. The entertainment group will continue to be featured through Feb. 17.

Vicki Schilling Weds Amid Christmas Colors

A red and white color scheme, appropriate for the Christmas season, surrounded Victoria L. Schilling on her wedding day. She became the bride of James Edward Sincell of Winnetka on Dec. 9 in St. John Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect.

Vicki is the daughter of Mrs. Rudolph Schilling of Mount Prospect and the late Mr. Schilling. Jim's parents are the John T. Sincells.

The couple were married in a five o'clock candlelight ceremony. Afterwards there was a dinner reception in the King Arthur Room of Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines.

The bride wore a traditional ivory gown but carried red roses and baby's breath in her colonial bouquet. Her three attendants were gowned in ruby red velvet with white accents, and their bouquets were of red roses, white carnations and holly.

VICKI'S OLD-FASHIONED gown was of ivory peau de sole trimmed in Belgium lace. The lace formed a ruffled yoke that was square in front and came to a deep V at the back. A wide flounce of lace hemmed the gown and its sweep train, and wide ruffles of lace edged the long straight sleeves.

The bride's veil was fingertip in length, held by a portrait headpiece of velvet ribbon and flowers. Valerie Schilling was her sister's maid of honor, with the groom's sister, Mrs. Pamela Bleser of Kirkwood, Mo., and Martha Seitz of Arlington Heights as bridesmaids.

Valerie wore a ruby red velvet gown with high neck and long sleeves accented by red Venice lace with white ribbon running through it. The two bridesmaids were gowned in two-toned red and white. The ruby red skirt was topped by a white bodice that was embroidered with red trim.

JEFFREY LEWIS of Winnetka, the groom's best friend, was his best man; ushers were Howard Bleser and Phillip Converse, North Chicago.

A neighbor of the Schilling family in Mount Prospect, Steven Jurasek, 6, was chosen as ring bearer for the double ring nuptials. The bride was given in marriage by her father's twin brother, Robert Schilling of Big Bend, Wis., and her friend, Kristie Zimmer, was soloist.

Since their honeymoon in New Orleans, the newlyweds are living and working in Mount Prospect. Vicki graduated from Forest View High School and attends Harper College. Jim attended New Trier West High and Southern Illinois University.

The Theme From 'Love Story' Played At Candlelight Rites

The theme from "Love Story" was played during a candlelight service Nov. 25 in which Marianne Dowling and Alan M. Basquez were married. At the close of the 3 p.m. ceremony, held in St. Raymond's Church, Mount Prospect, Marianne and Alan walked down the aisle to "We've Only Just Begun."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Dowling, 604 W. Kensington Road, Mount Prospect, Marianne and her bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Basquez, 709 Dresser Drive, Mount Prospect, are both graduates of Prospect High School. Marianne is employed as assistant manager of a boutique in Mount Prospect and Alan is with Colby's Furniture, Des Plaines.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Arkansas and Florida and are now making their home in a Rolling Meadows apartment.

Attending Marianne as maid of honor was Ina Podgorny of Mount Prospect. Bridesmaids were Jenny Tenuta, Mount Prospect; Joyce Pearson and Mrs. Mary Rausch, Rolling Meadows; and Mrs. Sue Stuckey, Des Plaines. Six-year-old Colleen Wyatt, Mount Prospect, was flower girl.

Bill Izzo, St. Petersburg, Fla., was best man, and ushers were David Basquez of Elk Grove, brother of the groom; Mark Gerlach, Schaumburg, brother-in-law of the groom; Sam Mudnak, Northbrook; and Mike Wyatt, Mount Prospect.

A reception for 200 guests was held at the House of the White Eagle in Niles.

The Home Line by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Now that you are out of your cast, this is too late for you, but it might help any number of ill-starred skiers this winter. I'm mending from a broken kneecap and wore a full-leg cast for six weeks.

I solved the bath problem with a plastic garbage bag tucked into the top of the cast after being put on over the cast. Put a few rubber bands on so that the bag would hold tight around the cast. I sat on a stool in the tub with my leg "parked" on the edge and used a "European shower," the kind with a flexible hose and telephone-type spray head which attaches to the regular shower head.

This cost $25, but it's worth it because you can direct the spray any way you want and will be great for shampoo rinses when the leg is fully mended.—Miss Minette Ebers, R.N.

Dear Dorothy: Trouble! Painted the inside of a cabinet with some old paint. It was in good condition so thought it would be okay — but, oh, the odor. Any way I can get rid of it?—Mrs. Myrtle V.

This came up once before and the mail brought urgings to use a dish of vanilla and even just plain water. The wife of a painter then entered the lists and recommended using a container filled with water in which was floated half an onion, cut side up. She said it would take out any paint odor and leave none of its own. Never heard a word of contradiction so it's probably the best idea around.

Dear Dorothy: I, too, use a wick to water my plants when I'm away on any kind of trip. However, I make sure that the bottom of the container of water with the yarn or cord in it is on a level with the top of the plant. What's more, one ought to have the proper protection under both plant and container as water stain or mildew can result.—B. C. Brown (Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006).

Now's The Time To Look At Family's Net Worth

The beginning of a new year is an ideal time to take a critical look at your family's net worth, says Barbara Bubar, University of Illinois Extension family economics specialist. Wise financial management can help keep your family's expenditures in line with changing needs and interests.

The net worth statement reflects a family's assets after all financial expenditures have been subtracted. A series of net worth statements over a period of time, perhaps yearly, can show you the financial progress your family is making.

A net worth statement is not a household inventory, such as you prepare for a fire insurance claim. It is best to place a dollar value on only those assets which have relatively high value and can be bought and sold.

WHEN TOTALING records, debts are relatively easy to list because you have receipts or charge-account records on hand. However, assets are more easily forgotten. Accumulated savings in three forms — liquid, tangible and non-tangible — represent assets.

Mrs. Bubar explains that liquid assets are savings that can be turned into cash relatively easily. Such assets are savings accounts, United States Savings Bonds, stock certificates, the cash value of life insurance policies and retirement or pension plans.

TANGIBLE ASSETS are given a dollar value by determining the current amount of money for which you could sell them.

This group includes items such as land, car, house and furnishings.

The third form of assets, intangibles, are not usually included on a family's net worth statement because they do not represent articles that can be easily bought and sold. Examples of items in this group are education and good health.

Arriving at our family's net worth statement is not a complicated task. It simply involves listing high value assets and debts. The debts are then subtracted from the assets to find the family's net worth.

Convicted Of Des Plaines Robbery

Four Sentenced After June Shootout

Four men who shot it out with police in Wauconda, Ill., last June after holding up a Des Plaines man at his home were sentenced to prison Wednesday for the robbery.

The men were captured after their car was run into a ditch during a chase through Lake Zurich and Wauconda. They opened fire on a Wauconda policeman but surrendered after a gun battle with several officers in which one of the robbers was shot five times.

The four were convicted of holding up Clark Esterdahl, 31, of 815 Oakton St., Des Plaines, early June 24. They barged into Esterdahl's house trailer at gun point, taking cash plus five rifles, two shotguns and 420 rounds of ammunition, police said at the time.

Circuit Court Judge Richard Fitzgerald handed down the following sentences: John Redcloud, of 7500 Elmhurst Rd., Elk Grove Township, two to five years for robbery; Joseph Landtree of Chicago, two to four years for robbery; Gordon Drake of Chicago, three to five years for robbery; and Ervin John, six to 12 years for armed robbery.

THE SENTENCES of John and Drake will run concurrently with similar sentences they received after both were found guilty Oct. 11 of attempted murder, two counts of aggravated assault and criminal property damage — all charges resulting from the shootout — in Lake County Circuit Court.

Charges against Redcloud and Landtree in the shootout were later dropped by Lake County authorities.

All four will serve their sentences at Illinois State Prison in Joliet. John, an escapee from Wisconsin State Prison in Waupun, still faces charges in Wisconsin in connection with his escape.

According to police reports at the time, the four men and a woman companion drove west on U.S. Rte. 12 after the robbery in Des Plaines. Their car was spotted by a Lake Zurich policeman, who gave chase.

Lake Zurich and Wauconda police pursued the car at speeds of more than 100 miles an hour, finally forcing it into the ditch in Wauconda where the shootout took place.

The men gave up after police bullets wounded John five times. He was hospitalized in serious condition. The woman companion, a Chicago resident, was not charged.

"I've Always Been Treated Royal!"

This is the way an Iron Mountain (Mich.) lady, former resident of this area, expresses her experiences with us. "Words can't begin to describe how beautiful the bank is (we forgive her for calling us a bank!)...As long as I've been banking, I've always been treated royal and I expect to keep banking at Arlington Heights Federal for quite some time."

Whether you live in Iron Mountain or Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates or the Hawaiian Islands, we are prepared to treat you "royal."

VARIOUS SAVINGS PROGRAMS

A variety of savings, each geared to your special purposes, enables you to combine the ready availability of passbook funds with the higher earnings for term deposits. Learn about these savings opportunities that offer from 5 to 6 per cent annual interest, the highest allowable by Federal law.

AUTOMATIC SAVINGS VIA TRANSMATIC!

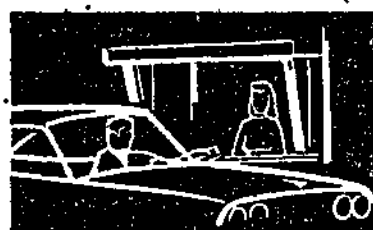

Now, for the first time, we can offer to save an easy, automatic method of saving that our borrowers have enjoyed since 1969. This is regular addition on a monthly basis by automatic transfer from your checking account to your Arlington Federal savings account. It is made possible by the nationwide Transmatic Funds Transfer System (FTS). Ask us for details concerning this effortless way to establish the savings habit.

DAY-IN, DAY-OUT INTEREST

Day-to-day interest is paid on passbook savings from the date of deposit to the date of withdrawal. Interest (at 5 per cent annual rate) is compounded daily and paid quarterly if the account remains open to the end of the quarter. Savings in by the 10th of the month earn from the 1st if left on deposit to the end of the quarter.

MONTHLY INCOME

If you wish or need income on a monthly basis, we are prepared to mail you the earned interest month by month on deposits of $5,000 or more in our various certificate programs. Of course, if allowed to remain in the account, the interest is compounded daily so that a 5 1/4 per cent certificate has an effective annual interest rate of 5.39 per cent, a 5 1/2 per cent certificate has an effective 5.92 annual rate, and a 6 per cent certificate has an effective 6.18 per cent annual rate.

DRIVE-IN SERVICE

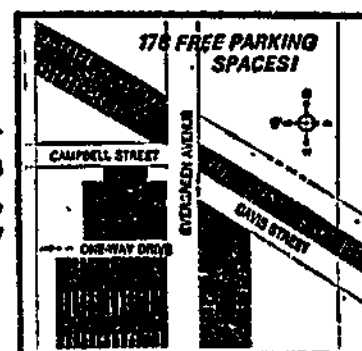

Our new Drive-In facilities provide ample off-the-street lanes and three stations that enable car customers to transact business speedily via pneumatic tubes and direct speaker systems.

SAVE-BY-MAIL

Increasing numbers of Arlington Federal Savings customers are discovering what a convenient and efficient time-saver this method of making additions and withdrawals can be. It is perfectly safe (if you do not send cash) and costs you nothing, since we pay the postage both ways.

AMPLE PARKING FACILITIES

Two Association parking lots and two public parking areas surround the Association offices, providing 178 free parking places, more than ample for customer use at any time.

Last year,
all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5 1/2% when held to maturity of 3 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/2% payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

I would like to know all about Jim Nabors.

Chris Brakae
Arlington Heights

Jim Nabors

For Jim a career in Hollywood seemed an almost impossible dream. He was born on June 12, 1933 in Sylacauga, Alabama. In high school he sang with the glee club and played the clarinet in the band.

Choosing to turn his interests in a different direction, he entered the University of Alabama, graduating with a degree in business administration. After tiring of the 9 to 5 grind, he landed a position as a junior film cutter, splicing commercials into the late show at a TV station in Chattanooga. It was this experience that eventually led him to a similar job at NBC in Burbank.

Jim performed at The Horn, noted for showcasing young newcomers. It was there that Bill Dana spotted him and arranged an audition for Steve Allen's TV show. That was the break that Nabors needed.

Nabors' home in the San Fernando Valley burned down last year and he bought and refurbished a new one in Bel-Air. The beautifully decorated residence is always filled with people. His mother lives with him and often there are relatives visiting, particularly his sister and husband, whose daughter also lives with him while attending UCLA. Jim is a man of great warmth and sincerity. He takes his talent, not himself, seriously.

What ever happened to the old characters of ZOOM on Channel 11 PBS?

Dan Renaud
Mt. Prospect

The show is produced and written by children with the eldest being about 12 years old. The 'old' characters have aged enough to be taken off the show.

I loved the movie "Sandcastles". Please tell me who played the cute guy. Tell me about him and please print his picture!

Maureen Murphy
Arlington Heights

Jan-Michael Vincent

By the cute guy, we are assuming that you are referring to Jan-Michael Vincent. He has been leading 'somewhat of a show-business-life' since 1970 when Look Magazine dispatched a photographer to Hollywood to examine and capture the 'Walden way of life' of the current Hollywood stars. The photographer found Jan-Michael in his unique small frame house located less than a half-mile from his love, the sea, and beside him his lovely wife Bonnie, and their many animals.

His role on the short-lived TV series, THE SURVIVORS, brought him to the attention of Young America. The movie that brought audiences and producers to take note, was "Tribes", an ABC-TV movie of the week. It proved to be so good that 20th Century-Fox released it as a theatrical feature. Jan has done several guest spots on TV and many motion pictures too. We look to see a lot more of this young talent!

I think TV Mailbag is super; keep up the great work! Could you please tell me how old is Mr. Sammy Davis Jr.? Where may I write to him?

C.K.
Wheeling

Sammy Davis Jr.

Sammy was born Dec. 8, 1925. He made his professional debut at age two when he appeared with his father and an uncle. He is one of the most versatile men in show business. Davis is singer, dancer, comedian, vocal and acting impressionist, song writer, recording artist, Broadway star, TV performer, and movie actor. See what we meant by versatile?

You may write to him in care of Sammy Davis Enterprises, 9000 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

My friend told me that Cat Stevens was in an institution. I don't believe it so I'm writing to you to find out where I can write to him. Where can I write to him?

C.H.
Buffalo Grove

It is true that Cat was in an institution—a TB institution. He was sick and had to make the choice of a long curative rest or face the possibility of dying within a couple of years. The choice wasn't hard to make.

With six months to relax and think, Cat got into Yoga and did a lot of introspective thinking. He also wrote a lot of new songs which reflected his feelings at the time.

I am a great fan of Alan Sues of LAUGH-IN. I'd like to know a few things about him. Is he married? If so, does he have any children? Will you tell me a few things about his career and where I can write to him?

D.C.
Arlington Heights

Alan Sues

Alan's pathway to LAUGH-IN began in his hometown of Ross, Calif., where he appeared in a class play as a flamenco dancer. He may well be the only performer who ever got laughs playing Hamlet. That's because he may be the only performer who got tangled up in Hamlet's robes.

It was in the off-Broadway production, "The Mad Show", that Alan was discovered by LAUGH-IN's producer, George Schlatter.

Sues is single! He has a book out, "Big Al's Sport Scene", as well as a line of inflatable greeting cards. Write to him c/o NBC-TV, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

'The Partridge Family'

A torrid romance comes to a quick ending

Dennis Weaver

Acting has turned out to be a family affair for Dennis Weaver, who plays Marshal McCloud on "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie." Weaver's son, Rick, joins his father in an episode titled "Showdown at the End of the World," to be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Sunday, Jan. 7.

Rick, 24, will be on the wrong side of the law in the drama, playing a go-between who is involved in narcotics traffic. However, it won't be the first time the young actor has been at odds with his father in a teleplay. Last season he performed in another McCloud episode as a guitar-playing suspect in the murder of a famous maestro.

Rick first teamed theatrically with his father at the age of 11 in a 1959 "Gunsmoke" episode, the series in which Dennis made a hit as the good-natured Chester Goode.

Rick has prepared well for an acting career, having studied music and theatre at the University of California at Berkeley, UCLA and San Fernando Valley State College.

He also is a member of the Ensemble Company, a professional acting workshop which places emphasis on monologues, improvisations and scene work.

If he decides that acting isn't for him, Rick, who writes music and plays the guitar—as does his father—says he will concentrate on that end of the business, making a musical career his goal.

Robertson is not the only star in 'Man Without Country'

Cliff Robertson

Natives of Newport, R.I. remember when the noise from the gym at the LaSalle School over on Bellevue and Parker came from kids cheering their basketball team. Now they hear the sound of hammers and saws and an occasional louder noise from the recently shuttered school. They stare in disbelief as men dressed in 19th century military uniforms drive up in station wagons.

"What's going on?" asked a 12-year-old boy who stopped tossing a baseball to watch.

HOLLYWOOD'S what's happening! The large cast and crew for "The Man Without A Country," an ABC Television Network special to air in the Spring of 1973, had commandeered several of Newport's historically fascinating sites for their filming and had turned the solid old LaSalle School into a workshop and studio.

Producer Norman Rosemont, after having spent many long pre-production months scouting authentic-looking locations, pronounced Newport the best place for the bulk of the filming on this special. The time span of the classic tale by Edward Everett Hale is from 1807 up to 1875. Most of that time the man without a country—Philip Nolan, played by star Cliff Robertson—spends in exile, at sea.

Newport's harbor boasts the only Revolutionary War frigate in existence—the H.M.S. Rose, and although the periods in the story change, the frigate lends itself to major overhauling with a minimum of effort. When stars Robert Ryan, Beau Bridges and Peter Strauss stand on the Rose's deck honoring Robertson as Nolan, for his heroic deeds, the Rose becomes an integral part of the scene.

Newport's famous stately mansions serve as picturesque backgrounds for several of the special's scenes. The Chateau-Sur-Mer, originally built in 1852 for the Wetmore family, and the sumptuous Marbel House, constructed for William Vanderbilt in the late 1800's, are among architectural "stars" of the special.

Always a strategically important naval area, Newport is proud of its vintage Naval War College and of many other 19th century buildings—all of which Rosemont and director Delbert Mann are utilizing for maximum period flavor.

Paar: From 'Tonight' to 'Tonite'

I thought it rather ironic that the title of Jack Paar's upcoming ABC venture includes a slick, mod spelling of the word "tonight." When the veteran personality debuts his new show on Monday, January 8, it will be labeled "Jack Paar Tonite." Perhaps it's strictly coincidental, and in line with ABC's "innovative" approach to programming that the word is streamlined that way. But among millions who will undoubtedly tune in next week to see Paar's return to the tube, many will be those who can recall that the words "Paar" and "Tonight" were once synonymous.

Much has happened since 1962, when Jack Paar stepped down from the rigors of the NBC "Tonight" show after hosting it for five years. Most notable, of course, has been the success enjoyed by the then-young upstart comedian who took over for Paar 10 years ago. Now, that comedian—Johnny Carson—can similarly boast that his name and the word "Tonight" are one and the same to millions.

Cavett and Paar

IT IS CARSON'S late-night program that has been virtually untouchable in the ratings game. Paar's return—hosting a show one week each month—is part of ABC's latest effort to garner a respectable percentage of night-owl viewers, Dick Cavett, who has gained a small but extremely loyal following during his two-year stint as ABC's late-night personality, will also host a show one week a month. ABC plans a variety of other programming (comedy, drama, rock concerts, etc.) the other two weeks of the month under the "ABC Wide World of Entertainment" umbrella.

But it is Paar's return that has the entertainment world humming. Exactly what format the new Paar show will take on has not been revealed, other than a prediction from its producer Bob Carman that it "won't be predictable."

"JACK PAAR TONITE" won't be a variety show like so many of the talk shows are today, Carman claims. "It'll be the kind of program that few people can turn off, for fear of missing something."

As a network, ABC has been 'missing something with Cavett—local affiliate stations to carry his net-originated show. All local stations have the option to carry their network's feed if they so desire. While NBC (with Carson) and CBS (with its late movie) enjoy sizable affiliate cooperation for those two programs, ABC has not been able to convince its local stations that Cavett is popular and/or marketable.

As a result, Cavett's program is not aired at all in some regions; in other areas, the show is shown on a delayed basis, at ungodly after-midnight times. The local affiliates who don't cherish Cavett claim that programming such as old movies, syndicated features, and even old series reruns prove more popular—and usually more profitable—than ABC's Cavett.

WITH PAAR, THE story may be different. ABC was delighted last month when a good number of affiliates who nixed Cavett indicated they would run Paar's new entry. In late December, many ABC-member stations were grappling over what to do. The point is clear: Paar may very well prove to be a major ratings success. Add to that initial good ratings for some of ABC's "Entertainment" previews last month...the possible ability of Cavett to be at his best, with a single interviewee one week each month...and one can readily see why many local ABC stations are looking seriously at ABC's new late-night lineup.

And in the center of it all is this fella named Jack Paar, whose wit and uncanny talents as an interviewer are unmatched.

Mother, Baby Escape Uninjured

Last 2½ Hours Didn't Matter $5,000 Fire Destroys Trailer

Two persons escaped injury Wednesday when their trailer, at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caught fire after an explosion in the trailer's oil heating system. The fire occurred just 2½ hours before fire protection services from Elk Grove Village were to be terminated to the park.

Damage to the trailer of Zell Clark, 39 Charles, was estimated at $2,500 with another $2,500 in contents lost. Mrs. Clark and her baby were home at the time of the fire, and both escaped uninjured.

Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the fire started in a leaking fuel oil line in the trailer's heating system. He said firemen had a difficult job extinguishing the blaze because oil had saturated the floor of the trailer and had leaked underneath.

Firefighter George Rezny, 37, suffered minor injuries while fighting the blaze.

FIREMEN SAID Mrs. Clark said she heard an explosion and saw fire coming from her furnace, and then she grabbed her baby and ran to a neighbor's trailer to report the fire.

Mrs. Clark said a maintenance man had looked at the leaking furnace earlier that afternoon but had not fixed it, according to firemen.

Hulett said three engines from Elk Grove Village and one from Schaumburg responded to the fire. There are no fire hydrants in the park, and water had to be brought in. An engine from Hoffman Estates stood by at the village headquarters station on Biesterfield Road. The fire was out within 20 minutes, he said.

The fire occurred at 9:29 p.m., 2½ hours before the trailer park lost the fire protection services of Elk Grove Village at midnight. The trailer park, located in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, had been receiving fire protection through an oral contract the late owner, Lewis Gauger, had with the village.

Since Gauger's death two years ago, the heirs and owners of the trailer park have not recognized the contract or existence of any oral agreement.

VILLAGE MGR. Charles Willis said the current owners were sent registered letters last week saying that because the owners failed to meet the terms of any agreement, fire and ambulance services to the trailer park would be terminated as of Jan. 1.

Willis said Tuesday the fire department had been authorized to provide protection through part of Wednesday to avoid any confusion because of the holidays.

Hulett said yesterday he met with Willis at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, and at that time he was told the deadline for fire service to the trailer park would be extended unofficially to midnight as a "final grace period for the owners to work out some arrangement."

"Starting today (Thursday) the fire department will perform only emergency evacuation services to rescue persons from burning buildings, and no ambulance services will be performed," Hulett said. "This is the same policy that applies to other incandescent areas with no fire and ambulance protection contracts with the village."

HULETT SAID the village has received inquiries from residents of the trailer park concerning the possibility of individuals buying fire protection from the village.

He said the fire department could not contract with individual residents without the consent of the board of trustees, which sets the policy for the fire department.

"I personally feel that any contract should be made with the owners, and not on an individual basis, and not on a monthly basis," he said. Hulett added that the administrative problems of such a system would be complex.

According to the oral contract with Gauger, the village provided fire and ambulance service to the trailer park in exchange for the use of a trailer. Reportedly part of the agreement was that Gauger would turn over the trailer to the village permanently for ownership at the end of 1972.

In August the village formed an agreement based on the oral agreement with Gauger and presented it to his heirs for execution. The agreement, never was signed, according to Willis.

Another letter was written to the current owners, Charles Gauger and Mary Sher, in December saying that failure to return the signed agreement apparently meant the owners were not interested in turning over the trailer to the village as part of the agreement. The trailer was returned to the mobile home park last week.

Contracting for fire protection services is the same policy used by the village in dealing with other unincorporated areas. This year 252 homeowners in unincorporated subdivisions were charged $84 a year for fire and ambulance services. Some 120 residents paid the fee.

AN EXPLOSION in the oil heating system of a trailer at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caused $5,000 damage and left one family homeless Wednesday. The Elk Grove Village Fire Department responded to the fire just 2½ hours before fire protection services to the trailer park from the village were scheduled to be terminated because of the owners' failure to sign a contract with the village.

Conference Chases Set To Resume

Candidate Nights Planned

The School Community Council of Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 is planning several candidates' nights to encourage voter turnout for the April school board election.

Kae Rairdin, president of the council, said one night has been scheduled for April 11 at Grove Junior High School. At this meeting, candidates for both the school board and the Elk Grove Village Board will be present.

Another candidate night will be scheduled at a site in the school district north of the Northwest Tollway. This night will be used to present candidates for the Dist. 59, High School Dist. 214 and Harper Community College boards.

OTHER NIGHTS may also be scheduled.

Mrs. Rairdin said the council wants to increase voter turnout because school board elections normally have a small number of voters, despite the fact that the school district operates a multi-million dollar budget and takes the highest percentage of personal property taxes.

Up for election this year are three members on the seven-member board, each for a three-year term. Of the three incumbents, whose terms are over, Judy Zanca, Sharrille Hildebrandt and Harry Peterson, only Mrs. Zanca has said she plans to run for re-election.

The School Community Council is non-partisan in the elections, declining to endorse any candidate.

Mrs. Rairdin said she expects the council to take a stand on any issues in the election.

Village OKs Traffic Rerouting Plan

A plan for rerouting traffic during Arlington Heights Road construction starting in the spring was approved by the Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees this week.

A $2.5 million project to widen the thoroughfare from the Salt Creek bridge to Devon Avenue is being scheduled by the Cook County Highway Department to begin in a few months. Arlington Heights Road will be widened to four lanes along with parts of Biesterfield Road and Devon Avenue near their Arlington Heights Road intersections.

The village's recommendations for handling traffic will be forwarded to the county highway department for concurrence.

According to the plan, two-way traffic would be maintained during construction on Biesterfield Road between Arlington Heights Road and Wellington Avenue and on Arlington Heights Road between Biesterfield Road and Devon Avenue.

DURING part of the construction project, non-truck traffic would be detoured away from Arlington Heights Road by way of Elk Grove and Kennedy boulevards. The detour would be in use during construction of the roadway south of the Salt Creek Bridge to Elk Grove Boulevard.

During the entire construction period, truck traffic would be detoured from Arlington Heights Road to Landmeier and Tonne roads.

The board of trustees also passed a resolution Tuesday approving the dedication of village property along Biesterfield Road fronting the municipal building for widening of the roadway.

County highway department and village officials met in December to discuss plans for the project. County officials said the roadway construction will be done during two construction seasons in 1973 and 1974 so as to maintain the flow of traffic during construction.

Officials said delays in starting construction were possible if the county incurs difficulty in securing rights-of-way at Biesterfield and Arlington Heights roads, at the Salt Creek bridge on Arlington Heights Road and along Devon Avenue.

London Flu Hasn't Hit NW Suburbs—Yet

A new strain of flu running rampant in portions of the United States—the London flu apparently has passed over the Northwest suburbs, or has not yet arrived.

A check with area school districts yesterday indicated none had experienced a noticeable change in absenteeism rates for this time of year.

Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights also reported nothing out of the usual for this time of year.

"This is the season to be coughing," said Jack Ryan, public relations director for Northwest Community Hospital. "There is always a lot of flu and upper respiratory diseases this time of year."

Symptoms of the London flu are a bad cold, fever, chills and a cough. Ryan said two people had been hospitalized recently with high fevers but he emphasized two patients hardly constituted an epidemic.

DR. JOHN B. HALL, director of the Cook County Department of Public Health, said the instances of influenza are not abnormally high this year.

"People seem to be getting a lot of colds but this is not to be confused with a real attack of influenza," said Dr. Hall.

"The London flu is a laboratory diagnosis and is not that much different from any other type of influenza," said Dr. Hall. He explained the only way to distinguish between strains of the London and Hong Kong flu are through a series of virology tests.

Dr. Hall said his department watches absenteeism rates in school districts to determine if there is an epidemic. Absenteeism rates usually average between 8 and 10 per cent and a virus does not reach epidemic proportions until the absenteeism rate is between 15 and 20 per cent, he said.

NO LOCAL school districts have reported a significant increase in absences. "It (the flu) is a small thing. It isn't keeping children out for a long time and is nothing unusual for this time of year," said Alice Hufston, a nurse in Elk Grove Dist. 59.

"We don't have too much yet (the flu), at least nothing of epidemic proportions, but we are watching it," said Joan Kuffel, a nurse in River Trails Dist. 26.

As for precautions against a possible attack of influenza, Dr. Hall says it's too late. Flu vaccinations should be given in the early fall to be effective this time of year, he said.

'Power Bloc' In Offing?

Plan Boards 'Can Influence Transit'

Plan commission chairmen from neighboring villages can become a "power" bloc, capable of influencing transportation developments, Schaumburg Plan Commission Chairman Ray McArthur said Tuesday.

Specifically, McArthur said this strength in numbers strategy could be used as a "wedge" with the Illinois Toll-road Authority, the state highway department, and the Milwaukee Road R.R.

In the near future, he will meet with plan chairmen from area villages to discuss mutual needs, he said.

A swift through street between Rte. 59 and Rte. 53 and a commuter station at the junction of Springguth Road and the Milwaukee Railroad tracks were specifically mentioned as needed items.

Currently village residents must use the railroad station in Roselle, McArthur said. Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates officials have also been discussing with the tollroad authority the feasibility of constructing an interchange at Roselle Road and the Northwest Tollway.

THE NEED FOR a railroad stop in Schaumburg has been much discussed in recent years. In February, 1971, Schaumburg decided after months of consideration not to participate in the Northwest Suburban Mass Transit District, a project sponsored by the Milwaukee Road.

Eleven communities along the Milwaukee Road formed the district, and have applied for state and federal funds to improve equipment and facilities. At the time, the railroad implied Schaumburg's chances of getting a commuter station were slim unless the village joined the district.

Schaumburg did not join the district partially because of the possibility of a tax levy, the inability to easily disannex from the district, and the possibility of later wanting to join a larger transit district.

A YEAR AGO the village first publicly discussed a transit center at its southern boundaries, on a 20-acre site adjacent to the Milwaukee Road, one-half mile from Schaumburg Airport.

The transit center would include a railroad stop, the upgraded general aviation airport, feeder bus service, truck-loading terminal, and taxi service.

The center, which hinges on the completion of the airport feasibility study, still is in the talking stages.

Official Hits Unit District Effort In Elk Grove Schools

A Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board member has urged his board to formally protest any efforts of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 to form a unit district (grades K-12).

Alan Krinsky, a member of an informal committee made up of officials from eight local school districts to discuss unit districting, made the recommendation. He told Dist. 23 board members Wednesday night they should consider passing a resolution protesting what he termed were "Dist. 59's efforts to pull away from High School Dist. 214."

Currently a citizens' committee in Dist. 59 is studying the feasibility of a unit district for the Dist. 59 area. The committee has stressed that no conclusions on the matter have been reached yet.

Alan Krinsky

However, according to a report made by a professional consultant service last September, there are no apparent barriers to the formation of a unit district in the Dist. 59 area. One possibility, according to the report, would be a unit district made up of Dist. 59 elementary schools and Elk Grove and Forest View high schools. The two high schools now belong to High School Dist. 214.

DIST. 59 Supt. James Ervili has said that a unit district provides a better educational program for students because it allows for a continuity of education between grammar and high school under a single school board and administration.

But Krinsky said, "I think Dist. 59 is trying to get out of their own (financial) problem at the expense of every other district in the area. I don't think they could hack it and I think their kids would have it worse than they do now."

Krinsky said if every school district became a unit district, Illinois would go bankrupt. Under the state aid formula, unit districts receive more money from the state than dual districts (K-8).

Krinsky also charged that Dist. 59 is trying to dodge its financial problems by forming a unit district including Centex Industrial Park. Formation of a unit district in that area would remove the industrial park from the tax base of Dist. 214.

"I think their motivations are not as much educational as they are selfish," he said.

THE BOARD will vote on Krinsky's recommendation at its meeting next Wednesday. Board member Ronald Sawatzke said he "seconded" the recommendation. Several other board members also expressed opinions.

"I think Dist. 59's basis for expecting financial gains from a unit district is faulty," said board member Lori Sarner. "I think school financing will change."

Another thing is the schools are not set up geographically for a unit district, said John Stull, board member.

If It's Wild, These Gals Are Willing

by STEVE NOVICK

If NOW, the National Organization of Women, is looking for three female counterparts to the Three Musketeers, they are here in the Northwest suburbs.

They are Cheryl Youmen, Pat Moody and Roberta Reisenbuchler, three blithe spirits who were cavorting through their last day of Christmas vacation at Woodfield Mall and looking for something a little zany to do.

Nothing really malicious, mind you. Nothing to get them in trouble but something... well, different.

They thought of holding a splash party in the Woodfield fountain or roller skating down the ramps and they called a Herald reporter in as witness and recorder. He talked them out of it.

"Get you in trouble for sure," he said. "They'll take you to an office and call your parents to come and get you."

The trio, all juniors at Fremd High School in Palatine, weren't looking for trouble. "We wanted to do something wild at Woodfield," said Pat, with Cheryl adding, "Yes, something insane."

AND IT wouldn't have been the first time the girls have pulled something a little odd.

They once tried to walk into the Playboy Mansion in Chicago. They got as far as the foyer where they were spotted by close circuit television cameras and a security man.

They also tried to get to the top floor of the Hancock building and avoiding the sightseer's fee by riding freight elevators. They got as far as the 92nd floor before getting caught.

"We probably would have been allowed to stay," said Pat, but it was soon after the fire atop the building and security was "pretty tight." But on their way out they found the WGN transmitter room and got a brief tour of the facilities.

Closer to home, the girls regularly use the swimming pool and sauna facilities of a nearby hotel without ever being questioned.

This week they were talked out of jumping into the Woodfield pool. But that wasn't their goal anyway. Their goal this week was to get their names and picture in the newspaper.

Library Schedules

Weekly Film Series

The Elk Grove Village Public Library has scheduled two weekly film programs which will run through April.

The first is "Civillization," the 13-part film series, written and narrated by Kenneth Clark, which covers 15 centuries of western man's artistic work.

"Civillization," which was shown on Channel 11 during the past two years, will be shown at 8 p.m., Thursdays, at the library, 101 Kennedy Blvd.

Free Film Series Set

At Township Library

Schaumburg Township Public Library will initiate its free film series Jan. 13 to run on consecutive Saturdays through April 11 in the meeting room of the library, 32 Library Ln.

There will be a variety of cinema hits, from musicals to melodrama, westerns, science fiction, historical pageantry, comedy and old and new classics.

The films will be shown each Saturday at 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

In addition, the books, plays and records that inspired many of the films also are available at the library, to give patrons a preview or to re-create scenes after the film is seen.

Patricia Hogan, head of adult services, may be contacted at the library, 329-3373, for further information.

Holiday Inn Plans At A Standstill, But Not Dead

Plans for a new Holiday Inn in northwest Arlington Heights are at a standstill, but not dead.

Edward Forester, president of the corporation that has applied for a Holiday Inn franchise in Arlington Heights, said yesterday that plans to build here have been stalled by lack of construction on Ill. Rte. 53 and a slowdown in growth of northwest Arlington Heights. Plans call for construction of the motel in the vicinity of Rte. 53 and Rand Road.

Forester said he doesn't foresee moving ahead with construction plans until growth in the area resumes. He said it has been at a virtual standstill for two years.

The corporation president also said that traffic flow on Rte. 53 is not yet heavy enough to warrant building of a new motel. He said Rte. 53 would have to be extended north before traffic flow increases. The highway currently stops at Dundee Road, near the general area for the proposed Holiday Inn.

JAMES PITTS, CHIEF of the programming division of the state Department of Transportation, told the Herald that completion of the highway was initially stalled when Gov. Richard B.

Ogilvie's proposal for a $2 billion bond issue for highway construction was declared unconstitutional four years ago.

Pitts said the state is buying right-of-way and readying plans to extend Rte. 53 north to Rte. 22 east of Lake Zurich. Everything should be ready to begin construction to that point by June, but the governor has not yet announced next year's highway program, he said. Until that is done nothing is certain.

Should construction to Rte. 22 begin next summer, Pitts said it would take at least five years for completion. After that, long-range highway plans call for further extension of Rte. 53 to Rte. 120 in Lake County. Pitts could not estimate how long it would take to extend Rte. 53 that far.

Forester said his corporation had hoped for completion of the Rte. 53 extension by this year, Pitts, however said there was never a target date. Pitts said that had Ogilvie's initial bond issue proposal been successful, the extension to Rte. 22 might have been finished by 1976.

A more recent bond issue proposal has passed constitutionality tests, and some funds have already been appropriated, Pitts said.

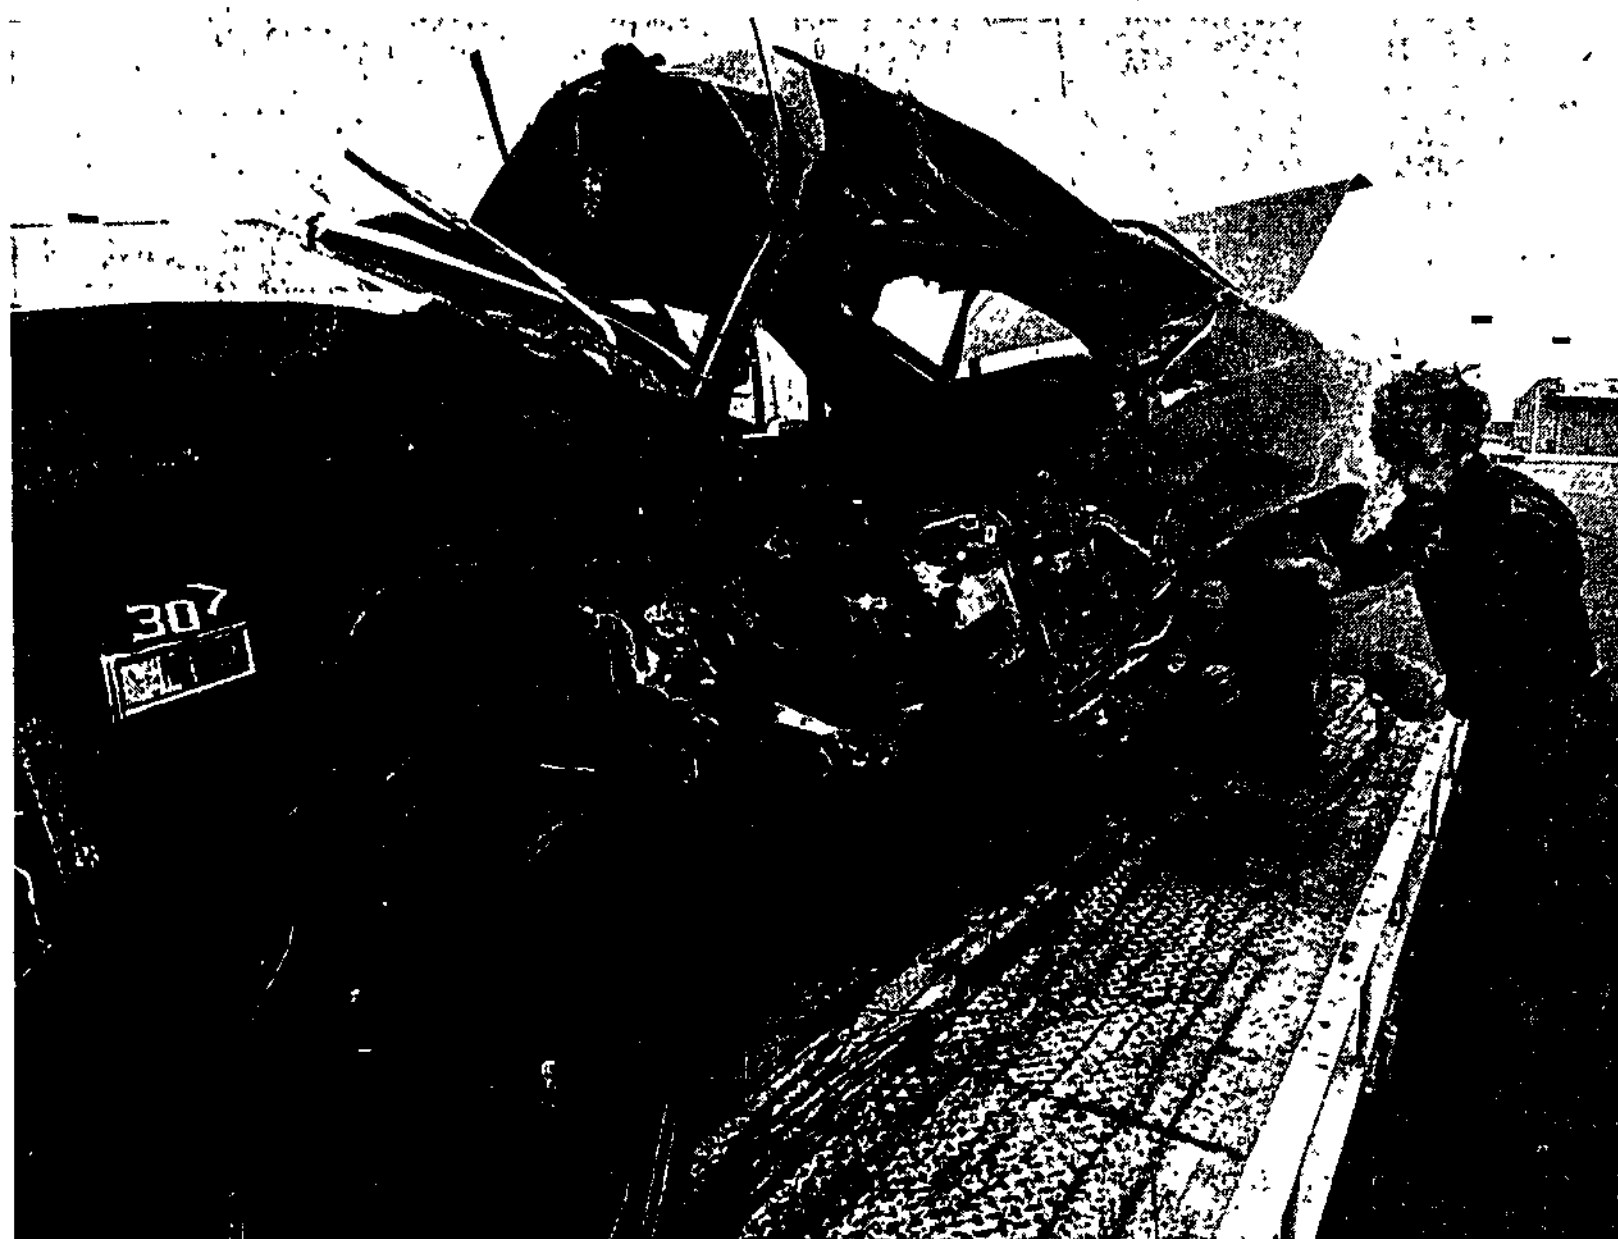

BUT GROWTH OF the area surrounding the proposed motel has been as much of a hindrance of plans as extension of the highway, Forester said. He said that when initial plans were made to locate a Holiday Inn in northwest Arlington Heights "a couple of years ago," the area was growing rapidly with industrial development. But in the past two years, nothing much has happened in that area, he said.

"I don't know why (development slowed)," Forester said. But he added that his corporation, Holiday Inn, Inc. and local real estate men agree that no go-ahead should be given to motel construction until growth picks up again.

Forester said his corporation has been watching occupancy of Arlington Park Towers Hotel and Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge on Northwest Highway. He said his corporation's two other Holiday Inns, in Rolling Meadows and Mundelein, have done well in comparison. He said that part of the reason for success elsewhere is that communities such as Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg have "aggressively" sought industry for their villages, but Arlington Heights has not.

"I personally hope Arlington Heights people will aggressively go out after industry," Forester said. "If they do, we will aggressively go for construction (of a new Holiday Inn.)"

SMASHED FROM a broadside collision, the car of Mrs. Gayle Bryant of Rolling Meadows, W. Frontage Road and Woodfield Drive, Schaumburg.

Mrs. Bryant was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. The driver of the moving van that collided with the Bryant car was not seriously injured. No citations have been issued.

Woman Killed In Car-Truck Crash

A Rolling Meadows woman was killed yesterday morning when the car she was driving collided with a truck at the intersection of W. Frontage Road and Woodfield Drive, near Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg.

A spokesman from Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, said that Gayle Bryant, 32, of 2403 Cedar Dr., Rolling Meadows, was transported to the hospital shortly after noon and died there a few minutes later.

Schaumburg police said Mrs. Bryant's car collided with a large moving van driven by Gene Beckstrom, 46, of Cottage Grove, Minn. He was not seriously injured in the accident and refused medical treatment, police said.

Police said the Bryant car was eastbound on Woodfield Drive and the truck was southbound on West Frontage Road.

Police said they have not been able to determine which driver had the right of way. No tickets were issued.

John Roberts Seeks Park Board Post

John Roberts

Citing a need for representation from outlying areas, John F. Roberts Jr. has announced his candidacy for Schaumburg Park District commissioner.

A resident of the eastern portion of Hanover Park, which is also within the Schaumburg Park District boundaries, Roberts has been active in St. Marcelline Church, Portage Mason Lodge 1002, Junior Achievement and the Boy Scouts of America.

"As a resident of the Schaumburg Park District, I have felt that there is a need for representation on the board from the outlying areas of the park district," Roberts said in a prepared statement.

He cited the need for careful development of existing undeveloped land so that it will not become a burden on park facilities.

ROBERTS, 31, his wife Rita and two children reside at 7989 Northway Dr. in Hanover Park.

He is general manager of the Collateral Media Division of Standard Rate and Data Service, an international publishing firm.

He has attended University of Illinois and DePaul University.

He has also served as campaign manager for State Rep. Jacob J. Wolf (R-17) for the representative's last four campaigns. From 1966 until 1971 he served as Wolf's administrative assistant.

Roberts is a member of the Postmasters Advisory Board on Second Class Mail, Direct Mail Advertising Association, The Subscription Fulfillment Managers Association and the American Business Press Circulation Committee.

He was recently elected treasurer of the Mail Advertising Club of Chicago after serving two years as a director.

When completed, rents for one-bedroom apartments in the development would average between $40 and $45 a month, Walchirk said.

Individuals 62 years of age or older, with annual incomes of $4,500 or less, or elderly couples with incomes under $5,000 are eligible for the low-cost housing, Walchirk said.

THE VILLAGE will be allowed to give priority to Arlington Heights residents who want to live in the development, providing the policy is "reasonable," he said.

Once a site is agreed on by the village and CCHA, it must be approved by HUD. The federal government then subsidizes the cost of construction through low-interest bonds.

There is no cost to the community, Walchirk said.

Though Arlington Heights had originally applied for twice as many senior citizen housing units, Walchirk said he felt "extremely fortunate" to get 119 units allocated for Arlington Heights.

"There are very few units available for the entire state," he said. "An economic study by HUD indicates that 119 is a feasible number of units."

$47,600 Earmarked For Project

Federal OK Given To Low-Cost Units

The village of Arlington Heights has received federal approval for 119 units of low-cost housing for senior citizens.

The U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has approved the units for Arlington Heights and earmarked $47,600 for planning, engineering and site selection.

The next step toward the realization of senior citizen housing here is site search, according to Victor Walchirk, executive director of the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), which is acting as the village's agent in negotiations with HUD.

Walchirk said it probably will be two to three years before the units are planned, built and ready for occupancy.

THE VILLAGE of Arlington Heights made application for 250 housing units in May, 1970. This week village officials were notified that Arlington Heights has been approved for 119 units.

In the past, four sites have been mentioned as possible locations for housing for the elderly.

One tentative site mentioned was the triangular piece of property northwest of the Jewel Food Store at Wing Street and Vail Avenue.

The land is already zoned for multi-family development and a proposal to build 89 condominium units on the parcel is now pending before the village board.

A SECOND site that has been talked of is land now occupied by the Hill-Behan lumberyard, just north of the Municipal Building along Arlington Heights Road.

The village has applied for a federal grant to purchase the Hill-Behan property and develop it for commuter parking.

A third possible location is the Dunton court parking lot, along Vail Avenue between Campbell and Sigwalt streets.

A fourth possible site is on vacant land adjacent to the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged on Oakton Street.

In the past, Walchirk has said that the Lutheran Home site is probably too far from downtown shopping and transportation.

VILLAGE PRES. John Woods said yesterday he was confident there are "numerous sites in the village" that would be suitable for the housing development.

Woods said he was encouraged by the earmarking of $47,600 for engineering and planning, adding that he felt this was indicative of "an early federal timetable" for the Arlington Heights development.

"This is very good news and we would want to move forward immediately," Woods said.

A REPORT TO OUR SAVERS:

As 1973 begins, we are grateful that our progress has been due in great measure to our customers' efforts along the line of thrift and home ownership.

The year 1972 saw the savings and loan business achieve its largest growth both on the savings and the mortgage side of the operations. We are proud to report that this growth pattern was also reflected here at Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Assets of your local association have grown over the 17 million mark, we are happy to report. Loyalty of our savers has been unwavering and will continue our friendly and personal service as an institution large enough to help and small enough to know its customers.

In our opinion 1973 should be another year of growth for the community we serve. Our local housing and real estate markets should remain active. Savings flows should continue strong and assure an ample supply of mortgage money to finance home and apartment purchases.

Political Parties Readying Their Election Petitions

Members of two Wheeling political parties are preparing their nominating petitions for filing with the village clerk at 8

Insight Out

EDITOR'S NOTE: village officials are human, and Insight Out will attempt to prove it each week with amusing side-lights and highlights that otherwise would go unnoticed. Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary Armstrong may be preparing for a long winter, or else he lost his favorite razor blade. It became apparent this week that a beard is appearing on his chin. The remark was made at the board meeting. "Maybe now we'll know what color his hair really is!"

DEVELOPERS in Wheeling were planning to name a new project "Nature's Way," but the title gave other connotations. After a little joking, developers gave the idea a little more consideration, and the 223-unit townhouse project will not be known as Harmony Village.

SMOKEY, the Buffalo Grove Fire Department dog who was made famous in an exclusive "interview" in the Herald some months ago, added to his exploits on New Year's Eve. He consumed two bowls of screwdriver drinks, and spent the night wandering around in a daze. He may have had some company on that festive occasion.

WHEELING Fire Chief Bernie Koepfen has been sporting a new shoe style for a few weeks—a different kind of shoe on each foot. Details are not clear, but word has it that he injured his foot while demonstrating a new emergency tool.

Snowmobile Races Sunday

Weather permitting, the Wheeling Park District will have its annual snowmobile races Sunday for all amateur snowmobilers from Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights and Northbrook.

The races will be divided into several classes including stock, modified and powder puff divisions. Registration for the event will be today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Heritage Park. There is a $5 registration fee to cover the cost of trophies and cash prizes.

There will be a drivers' briefing at noon Sunday to acquaint participants with the rules governing the race, and the Heritage Park course. Races will begin at 1 p.m.

If the weather is unsuitable for snowmobiling the races will be Jan. 13.

o'clock Monday morning.

Monday is the first day of the official filing period, which will end on Feb. 12. The first party to file nominating petitions wins the top place on the ballot for the April 17 village elections.

Village Clerk Evelyn Diens, candidate on the To Overall Progress Party (TOP) slate, said her party's petitions are in order and ready for filing. She said the few petitions that are still being circulated will be collected this weekend.

The TOP candidates began circulating their petitions early in December, and collected most of their signatures before the Christmas holiday began. The TOP slate is headed by Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon and includes Trustees Bill Hein and Al Lang, Mrs. Diens and Richard Missing, who will run for the trustee position now held by Michael Valenza.

CANDIDATES OF the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) began circulating their petitions just before the Christmas holiday. WHIP Chairman Harold Fagan said his party has collected more than 500 signatures.

The WHIP slate is headed by Otis "Skip" Hedlund and includes Harold Fagan, Constance Heikotter and Don Jackson for trustees, and Marlene Bokina for village clerk.

To be placed on the ballot, political parties must gather at least 100 signatures. This figure is 5 per cent of the number of voters in the last village election.

Once the petitions are filed, they are open for public examination. Objections to the petitions may be filed with the village clerk during the five days following the last filing date, from Feb. 12 to 17. Objections will be ruled upon by an electoral board.

Fagan said WHIP members are planning to review all the petitions filed for the TOP candidates and issue challenges for any irregularities they find.

"We're going to do it by the book," Fagan said.

Both parties are currently working on campaign platforms, but it is not expected they will be released until the end of the month. WHIP members have set up their campaign committee, which will be headed by Sheila Schultz. TOP candidates are also in the process of preparing their biographies.

Peewee Basketball Signup Tomorrow

Registration for "peewee" basketball for boys in grades three through eight, will be tomorrow from 9 a.m. to noon at Heritage Park and Jack London Junior High School.

The basketball program is broken into three age groups, with each group stressing different skills. Instructional basketball is offered for boys in grades three and four, emphasizing the development of proper basketball skills.

London Flu Hasn't Hit NW Suburbs

A new strain of flu running rampant in portions of the United States—the London flu apparently has passed over the Northwest suburbs, or has not yet arrived.

A check with area school districts yesterday indicated none had experienced a noticeable change in absenteeism rates for this time of year.

Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights also reported nothing out of the usual for this time of year.

"This is the season to be coughing," said Jack Ryan, public relations director for Northwest Community Hospital.

"There is always a lot of flu and upper respiratory diseases this time of year."

Symptoms of the London flu are a bad cold, fever, chills and a cough.

Ryan said two people had been hospitalized recently with high fevers but he emphasized two patients hardly consulted an epidemic.

DR. JOHN B. HALL, director of the Cook County Department of Public Health, said the instances of influenza are not abnormally high this year.

"People seem to be getting a lot of colds but this is not to be confused with a real attack of influenza," said Dr. Hall.

"The London flu is a laboratory diagnosis and is not that much different from any other type of influenza," said Dr. Hall. He explained the only way to distinguish between strains of the London and Hong Kong flu are through a series of virology tests.

Dr. Hall said his department watches absenteeism rates in school districts to determine if there is an epidemic. Absenteeism rates usually average between 8 and 10 per cent and a virus does not reach epidemic proportions until the absenteeism rate is between 15 and 20 per cent, he said.

NO LOCAL school districts have reported a significant increase in absences.

"It (the flu) is a small thing. It isn't keeping children out for a long time and is nothing unusual for this time of year," said Alice Huffton, a nurse in Elk Grove Dist. 59.

"We don't have too much yet (the flu), at least nothing of epidemic proportions, but we are watching it," said Joan Kufel, a nurse in River Trails Dist. 28.

As for precautions against a possible attack of influenza, Dr. Hall says it's too late. Flu vaccinations should be given in the early fall to be effective this time of year, he said.

Community Blood Drive Jan. 20, 21

The second blood drive for the Wheeling Community Blood Plan will be from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Jan. 20 and 21 at the Wheeling High School library.

The Wheeling Jaycees, sponsor of the blood plan, hope to raise at least 200 pints of blood during the January drive. More than 130 pints were collected at the first drive in October.

According to the terms of the blood plan, 700 pints of blood must be collected during the year to make all village residents eligible to use the plan. This figure is four per cent of Wheeling's population, which, according to the Beverly Blood Bank, is the amount nationally estimated to cover all blood needs.

THE BLOOD plan went into effect immediately after the first drawing in October. Since then Wheeling residents have been eligible for blood replacement for emergency and other medical uses regardless of whether they donated to the plan or not.

Jaycee Pres. Tony Altieri said that as far as he knew no one had yet needed to use the blood plan. "I have mixed emotions about it because I'm glad no one has needed it," he said.

Altieri said that even if no one needed to use the blood plan, the blood would be put to good use. He said that any extra blood in the plan would be used for the 17 hemophiliacs who live in Wheeling.

According to Altieri, the Jaycees will be actively recruiting blood donors by going door-to-door in a specific area of the village. He said the Jaycees will concentrate on a different area of town during each new blood drive. The blood drive es will be conducted every three months. PEOPLE MORE than 18 years old and under 66 are eligible to donate to the plan. Women weighing under 100 pounds and men weighing less than 120 pounds are not eligible. Persons on medication and those who have had hepatitis or malaria are also ineligible.

Before giving blood, donors will be interviewed and will have their blood tested by a finger-prick. Persons wishing to donate to the program can make an appointment by calling 537-1087.

Persons needing blood from the program should contact the Wheeling Police Department at 537-2121. The police will take their name, address and phone number, and forward the information to the Jaycees, who will contact the Beverly Blood Bank.

SMASHED FROM a broadside collision, the car of Mrs. Gayle Bryant of Rolling Meadows is towed away yesterday from the accident scene, W. Frontage Road and Woodfield Drive, Schaumburg. Mrs. Bryant was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. The driver of the moving van that collided with the Bryant car was not seriously injured. No citations have been issued, but police are investigating.

Official Hits Elk Grove Unit District Effort

A Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board member has urged his board to formally protest any efforts of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 to form a unit district (grades K-12).

Alan Krinsky, a member of an informal committee made up of officials from eight local school districts to discuss unit districting, made the recommendation. He told Dist. 23 board members Wednesday night they should consider passing a resolution protesting what he termed were "Dist. 59's efforts to pull away from High School Dist. 214."

Currently a citizens' committee in Dist. 59 is studying the feasibility of a unit district for the Dist. 59 area. The committee has stressed that no conclusions on the matter have been reached yet.

However, according to a report made by a professional consultant service last September, there are no apparent barriers to the formation of a unit district in the Dist. 59 area. One possibility, according to the report, would be a unit district made up of Dist. 59 elementary schools and Elk Grove and Forest View high schools. The two high schools now belong to High School Dist. 214.

DIST. 59 Supt. James Ervill has said that a unit district provides a better educational program for students because it allows for a continuity of education between grammar and high school under a single school board and administration.

But Krinsky said, "I think Dist. 59 is trying to get out of their own (financial) problem at the expense of every other district in the area. I don't think they could hack it, and I think their kids would have it worse than they do now."

Krinsky said if every school district became a unit district, Illinois would go bankrupt. Under the state aid formula, unit districts receive more money from the state than dual districts (K-8).

Krinsky also charged that Dist. 59 is trying to dodge its financial problems by forming a unit district including Centex Industrial Park. Formation of a unit district in that area would remove the industrial park from the tax base of Dist. 214.

"I think their motivations are not as much educational as they are selfish," he said.

Woman Killed In Car-Truck Crash

A Rolling Meadows woman was killed yesterday morning when the car she was driving collided with a truck at the intersection of W. Frontage Road and Woodfield Drive, near Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg.

A spokesman from Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, said that Gayle Bryant, 32, of 2403 Cedar Dr., Rolling Meadows, was transported to the hospital shortly after noon and died there a few minutes later.

Schaumburg police said Mrs. Bryant's car collided with a large moving van driven by Gene Beckstrom, 46, of Cottage Grove, Minn. He was not seriously injured in the accident and refused medical treatment, police said.

Police said the Bryant car was eastbound on Woodfield Drive and the truck was southbound on West Frontage Road.

Police said they have not been able to determine which driver had the right of way. No tickets were issued.

If It's Wild, These Gals Are Willing

by STEVE NOVICK

IF NOW, the National Organization of Women, is looking for three female counterparts to the Three Musketeers, they are here in the Northwest suburbs.

They are Cheryl Youmen, Pat Moody and Roberta Reisenbuchler, three blithe spirits who were cavorting through their last day of Christmas vacation at Woodfield Mall and looking for something a little zany to do.

Nothing really malicious, mind you. Nothing to get them in trouble but something... well, different.

They thought of holding a splash party in the Woodfield fountain or roller skating down the ramps and they called a Herald reporter in as witness and recorder. He talked them out of it.

"Get you in trouble for sure," he said. "They'll take you to an office and call your parents to come and get you."

The trio, all juniors at Fremd High School in Palatine, weren't looking for trouble. "We wanted to do something wild at Woodfield," said Pat, with Cheryl adding, "Yes, something insane."

AND IT wouldn't have been the first time the girls have pulled something a little odd.

They once tried to walk into the Playboy Mansion in Chicago. They got as far as the foyer where they were spotted by close circuit television cameras and a security man.

They also tried to get to the top floor of the Hancock building and avoiding the sightseer's fee by riding freight elevators. They got as far as the 92nd floor before getting caught.

"We probably would have been allowed to stay, said Pat, but it was soon after the fire atop the building and security was 'pretty tight.' But on their way out they found the WGN transmitter room and got a brief tour of the facilities.

Closer to home, the girls regularly use the swimming pool and sauna facilities of a nearby hotel without ever being questioned.

This week they were talked out of jumping into the Woodfield pool. But that wasn't their goal anyway. Their goal this week was to get their names and picture in the newspaper.

21 1/2 Hours Didn't Matter: Fire Destroys Trailer

Two persons escaped injury Wednesday when their trailer, at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caught fire after an explosion in the trailer's oil heating system. The fire occurred just 2 1/2 hours before fire protection services from Elk Grove Village were to be terminated to the park.

Damage to the trailer of Zell Clark, 39 Charles, was estimated at $2,500 with another $2,500 in contents lost. Mrs. Clark and her baby were home at the time of the fire, and both escaped uninjured.

Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the fire started in a leaking fuel oil line in the trailer's heating system. He said firemen had a difficult job extinguishing the blaze because oil had saturated the floor of the trailer and had leaked underneath. Firefighter George Rezy, 37, suffered minor injuries while fighting the blaze.

FIREMEN SAID Mrs. Clark said she heard an explosion and saw fire coming from her furnace, and then she grabbed her baby and ran to a neighbor's trailer to report the fire.

Mrs. Clark said a maintenance man had looked at the leaking furnace earlier that afternoon but had not fixed it, according to firemen.

Hulett said three engines from Elk Grove Village and one from Schaumburg responded to the fire. There are no fire hydrants in the park, and water had to be brought in. An engine from Hoffman Estates stood by at the village headquarters station on Bluestield Road. The fire was out within 20 minutes, he said.

The fire occurred at 9:29 p.m., 2 1/2 hours before the trailer park lost the fire protection services of Elk Grove Village at midnight. The trailer park, located in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, had been receiving fire protection through an oral contract the late owner, Lewis Gauger, had with the village.

Since Gauger's death two years ago, the heirs and owners of the trailer park have not recognized the content or existence of any oral agreement.

VILLAGE MGR. Charles Willis said the current owners were sent registered letters last week saying that because the owners failed to meet the terms of any agreement, fire and ambulance services to the trailer park would be terminated as of Jan. 1.

Willis said Tuesday the fire department had been authorized to provide protection through part of Wednesday to avoid any confusion because of the holidays.

Hulett said yesterday he met with Willis at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, and at that time he was told the deadline for fire service to the trailer park would be extended unofficially to midnight as a "final grace period for the owners to work out some arrangement."

"Starting today (Thursday) the fire department will perform only emergency evacuation services to rescue persons from burning buildings, and no ambulance services will be performed," Hulett said. "This is the same policy that applies to other incorporated areas with no fire and ambulance protection contracts with the village."

HULETT SAID the village has received inquiries from residents of the trailer park concerning the possibility of individuals having fire protection from the village.

He said the fire department could not contract with individual residents without the consent of the board of trustees, which sets the policy for the fire department.

"I personally feel that any contract should be made with the owners, and not on an individual basis and not on a monthly basis," he said. Hulett added that the administrative problems of such a system would be complex.

According to the oral contract with Gauger, the village provided fire and ambulance service to the trailer park in exchange for the use of a trailer. Reportedly part of the agreement was that Gauger would turn over the trailer to the village permanently for ownership at the end of 1972.

In August the village formed an agreement based on the oral agreement with Gauger and presented it to his heirs for execution. The agreement never was signed, according to Willis.

Another letter was written to the current owners, Charles Gauger and Mary Sher, in December saying that failure to return the signed agreement apparently meant the owners were not interested in turning over the trailer to the village as part of the agreement. The trailer was returned to the mobile home park last week.

Contracting for fire protection services is the same policy used by the village in dealing with other unincorporated areas. This year 252 homeowners in unincorporated subdivisions were charged $84 a year for fire and ambulance services. Some 120 residents paid the fee.

Student Drug Use, Purchase May Be Expulsion Grounds

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 students found using or buying dangerous drugs on school property or during a school-sponsored activity would be suspended immediately under a new policy now being considered by the school board.

The board would also consider expelling any student "engaged in the distribution or selling of behavior-affecting drugs," on school grounds, according to the policy which will be voted on next Wednesday. The policy defines those drugs as marijuana, narcotics, hallucinogens or "any other dangerous drug."

"I'm not in the business of expelling students," said Supt. Edward Grodzky who is recommending adoption of the new rule. "But I feel that if we have one child that might be affecting 100 others by using or selling drugs, we have to do something."

Grodzky said he drew up the policy at the urging of the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB). "They've been telling us (school districts) we'd better protect ourselves in case we get any cases like this," Grodzky said. "As far as I know, we haven't had any situations like this yet. But I'm not walking around with my head in the sand, thinking everything is all right."

The policy also states that students found "under the influence" of drugs on school property or during a school-sponsored activity would be immediately suspended. For readmission to school, the board is considering requiring a written confirmation from a physician that the student has talked to him about his drug involvement.

School Issue Upsets Parents

School Dist. 21 officials reportedly received several telephone calls yesterday from residents of the Northgate subdivision of Arlington Heights. The residents were upset with the possibility of their children being sent to the new Washington Irving School in Buffalo Grove.

They need fear no more. Officials said yesterday afternoon that the new school will not be a primary school for the subdivision. It will, however, serve the entire Mill Creek subdivision of Buffalo Grove and the new Frenchman's Cove development in Arlington Heights.

Assistant Supt. John Barger said, "The only students that would likely attend Irving school from Northgate would be those who can't fit into Riley school in the future. Right now, plans are for Northgate students to continue to go to Riley."

The district has made no definite boundaries for the new schools, which will be opened in September. However, officials say they are trying to stay with the neighborhood school concept.

Rowland In New Post At Water Plant

Joe Rowland, formerly chief water plant operator for the Buffalo Grove Public Works Department, has been named foreman of the underground department of the water plant.

In his new position, Rowland will be in charge of the operations of the village sewer systems, wells, lift stations and maintenance of the sewage treatment plant.

Rowland has a state water license issued by the Environmental Protection Agency, and has several years of experience. Prior to coming to the village, Rowland was employed at the Winnetka water plant.

Rowland, 34, lives at 436 N. Pershing, Mundelein.

A REPORT TO OUR SAVERS:

As 1973 begins, we are grateful that our progress has been due in great measure to our customers' efforts along the line of thrift and home ownership.

The year 1972 saw the savings and loan business achieve its largest growth both on the savings and the mortgage side of the operations. We are proud to report that this growth pattern was also reflected here at Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Assets of your local association have grown over the 17 million mark, we are happy to report. Loyalty of our savers has been unwavering and will continue our friendly and personal service as an institution large enough to help and small enough to know its customers.

In our opinion 1973 should be another year of growth for the community we serve. Our local housing and real estate markets should remain active. Savings flows should continue strong and assure an ample supply of mortgage money to finance home and apartment purchases.

After 16 Months, Commission OKs Master Plan Idea

by JILL BETTNER
More than 16 months of research, debate and revisions ended Wednesday when the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission finally approved a proposed village master plan.

The map which outlines anticipated uses for available land in the village and the surrounding areas, now goes to the village board. There will be a public hearing before any final decision is made.

"I think all this just proves what an agonizing decision this has been to make," said commissioner Clarice Rech.

Discussion on the seventh alternative map, drawn by village planner Robert Grossman, continued right up to the 6-3 vote. Commissioners Mrs. Rech, Evan Fader and Howard Mendenhall voted no. Commissioner Burt Harris was absent.

ACTING ON Grossman's recommendation, the commission set the density for single-family homes at 3.2 units per acre and provided for two types of planned unit developments (PUDs). One will have a density of four through eight, (average six) and the other would be eight through 12 (average ten).

Two projects already pending in the village are in conflict with the master plan, but motions to alter the plan to coincide with the projects were defeated.

Part of a 40-acre multi-family development proposed by Arthur Swanson &

Associates and Donald Scholtz Co. at the southeast corner of Arlington Heights and Checker roads lies in an area designated as public open space on the master plan.

Because Buffalo Creek runs through the middle of the Swanson property, commissioner Evan Fader and others have said perhaps the site should not be developed, or at least, that much of it should remain open.

Swanson has offered to donate approximately seven acres along the creek to the park district. There are also other open space areas in the project.

Also planned for an area designated mainly as public open space are two developments proposed by Levitt & Sons, Inc., north of Mundelein Road and east of Arlington Heights Road. The projects are scheduled to include some single-family homes and some multi-family units.

THE COMMISSIONERS expressed some reluctance to accept the land use designation in the plan for the Levitt projects because they have already approved plans for the developments. If the projects are redesigned, Levitt will lose approximately 30 acres of buildable land.

"We're agreeable to some sort of modification," said Robert F. Brandwein, assistant secretary and general counsel for Levitt, "but the way the map is drawn, with most of one parcel eliminated, there's no economically feasible way of annexing to the village."

Brandwein added that he feels because the two Levitt projects have a relatively low density — about 3.8 units per acre — and include recreation facilities and several acres of open space, that they conform to the general land use design of the area.

There was also some discussion about plans of the Phoenix Construction Co. for multi-family units surrounding the Buffalo Grove Golf Course. Several residents have expressed objections to the Phoenix proposals, calling for single-family homes in that area instead.

THE COMMISSION agreed not to make recommendations against any of the projects, but to leave the decision to the village board. Plan Commission Chairman Carl Genrich directed the commissioners to write personal letters to the trustees expressing their feelings about each project. The letters will be submitted to the board with the formal recommendation to adopt the plan.

One member of the audience of about 10 persons, Khalid Cosmo, asked if the commission intended to adhere to the plan.

"I certainly think we will," answered Genrich. "For the past three or four years, we've been fighting to get the money to hire a planner to develop a plan because this village has flown by the seat of its pants for so long."

Grossman added there might be unforeseeable developments that could cause major changes in the plan. For example, if a hospital were to be built in the village sometime in the future, the economic profile of the village would change and perhaps require a new designation for housing types in the area.

TEMPERATURES DROPPED rapidly yesterday, rise this morning as reluctant motors failed to start. Snow flurries Thursday failed to accumulate, rain Wednesday night.

London Flu Hasn't Hit NW Suburbs

A new strain of flu running rampant in portions of the United States — the London flu apparently has passed over the Northwest suburbs, or has not yet arrived.

A check with area school districts yesterday indicated none had experienced a noticeable change in absenteeism rates for this time of year.

Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights also reported nothing out of the usual for this time of year.

"This is the season to be coughing," said Jack Ryan, public relations director for Northwest Community Hospital. "There is always a lot of flu and upper respiratory diseases this time of year."

Symptoms of the London flu are a bad cold, fever, chills and a cough. Ryan said two people had been hospitalized recently with high fevers but he emphasized two patients hardly constituted an epidemic.

DR. JOHN B. HALL, director of the Cook County Department of Public Health, said the instances of influenza are not abnormally high this year.

"People seem to be getting a lot of colds but this is not to be confused with a real attack of influenza," said Dr. Hall.

"The London flu is a laboratory diagnosis and is not that much different from any other type of influenza," said Dr. Hall. He explained the only way to distinguish between strains of the London and Hong Kong flu are through a series of virology tests.

Dr. Hall said his department watches absenteeism rates in school districts to determine if there is an epidemic. Absenteeism rates usually average between 8 and 10 per cent and a virus does not reach epidemic proportions until the absenteeism rate is between 15 and 20 per cent, he said.

NO LOCAL school districts have reported a significant increase in absences. "It (the flu) is a small thing. It isn't keeping children out for a long time and is nothing unusual for this time of year," said Alice Hutton, a nurse in Elk Grove Dist. 59.

"We don't have too much yet (the flu), at least nothing of epidemic proportions, but we are watching it," said Joan Kufel, a nurse in River Trails Dist. 26.

As for precautions against a possible attack of influenza, Dr. Hall says it's too late. Flu vaccinations should be given in the early fall to be effective this time of year, he said.

'Operation ID' Participants Sought

Buffalo Grove police still are seeking residents to take part in the new "Operation Identification" program.

The program, designed for the entire community, is off to a slow start. Out of several thousand families in the village, only eight have taken out special pens to mark personal belongings.

The pens are used to mark a resident's driver's license number on clocks, radios, televisions, tape recorders or anything else a burglar may want to steal. By doing this the valuables are immediately traceable to the owner.

The identity of the owner and his correct address are immediately available to the police through the LEADS computer system. Therefore, if a thief is caught he cannot claim the stolen goods as his own. POLICE CHIEF Harry Walsh said yesterday that his men are doing everything possible to generate an interest in the program. "We even have them putting posters around the village and passing out leaflets," he added.

Walsh explained that the program is for the people. "It takes the profit out of stealing. If they take part, it will decrease crime in our village. It is free. The only thing they have to do is come to the police station anytime of the day or night and get the pen," said the chief.

He said residents can check out the pen for three days and then return it to the police. When the pen is returned the resident gets four window stickers — one for each side of the house. This makes police and burglars aware of the homeowner's participation in the program.

"We've received several calls about the program and how it works, but the people just aren't coming forward. Our goal is to get every family in the village signed into this program," he explained.

The Buffalo Grove Police Department was able to participate in the program with the help of a federal grant to pay the cost of the tools and items connected with it. Walsh said his department is ready to answer any questions or lend assistance to anyone in connection with the program.

The Buffalo Grove Police Station is in the village hall, 50 Raupp Blvd. The program is open to residents in Lake and Cook counties.

Insight Out

EDITOR'S NOTE: village officials are human, and Insight Out will attempt to prove it each week with amusing side lights and highlights that otherwise would go unnoticed. Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary Armstrong may be preparing for a long winter, or else he lost his favorite razor blade. It became apparent this week that a beard is appearing on his chin. The remark was made at the board meeting. "Maybe now we'll know what color his hair really is!"

DEVELOPERS in Wheeling were planning to name a new project "Nature's Way," but the title gave other connotations. After a little joking, developers gave the idea a little more consideration, and the 225-unit townhouse project will not be known as Harmony Village.

SMOKEY, the Buffalo Grove Fire Department dog who was made famous in an exclusive "interview" in the Herald some months ago, added to his exploits on New Year's Eve. He consumed two bowls of screwdriver drinks, and spent the night wandering around in a daze. He may have had some company on that festive occasion.

WHEELING Fire Chief Bernie Koepfen has been sporting a new shoe style for a few weeks — a different kind of shoe on each foot. Details are not clear, but word has it that he injured his foot while demonstrating a new emergency tool.

2,000 Denied Vote, Says Group

League Labels Township Officials As 'Unresponsive'

by JULIA BAUER

Board members for the local League of Women Voters (LWV) denounced five Palatine Township officials yesterday, charging they were unresponsive to over 2,000 residents who requested a referendum ending Palatine township government.

Following their morning board meeting, LWV leaders released a statement reviewing their position on the township government issue in the upcoming April election.

"The Palatine League of Women Voters hopes both parties will slate candidates who will be more responsive to the wishes of the people who they represent than the present board of auditors has been," the LWV said.

"This board of auditors this past fall chose to deny over 2,000 petitioners their right to have a referendum to dissolve township government as is permitted by the new Illinois Constitution," they continued.

Supervisor Howard I. Olsen could not be reached yesterday to comment on the league of women voters' charges.

THE ONGOING battle between the township auditors and the LWV climaxed in August, when petitions requesting the referendum were handed over to township officials.

League township regulars Ann Scollay and Alice DeViney headed the petition drive. They claim the abolition move is based on their observations during the past 2½ years of attending township board meetings.

The state LWV organization officially opposed metropolitan-area townships as an unnecessary layer of government whose purposes were outlived. Most townships around Chicago rule relatively small portions within their boundaries as more areas have become incorporated into cities and villages by the burgeoning population.

Township officials say they perform a valuable service for all residents of the township, incorporated or not. If the township government was abolished, its functions would probably go to either existing local governments or the county, and officials say such action would cost township residents more than the present system.

IN SEPTEMBER, the Palatine Township Board of Auditors unanimously rejected a referendum for the Nov. 7 general election. On advice of Atty. Roger Bjorvik, the board ruled that the township could not be abolished until the state legislature officially pointed to who would take over township functions.

A suit followed the township board's action, but the LWV case was thrown out of court on a preliminary motion. Appeals to the Illinois Supreme Court and Appellate Court were denied for lack of time to hear the case before the November election date.

Now regular procedures are being followed for an Appellate Court hearing, which may not come until sometime this spring.

Township attorneys are expected to argue that the case is pointless, since the November date has passed. But the league disagrees. They claim it was the township's action that kept the referendum off the November ballot.

"While litigation regarding this denial progresses in the Appellate Court, the league of women voters will continue to send observers regularly to the township meeting . . . The actions of the board of auditors and any legislation affecting township government will be brought to the attention of the league membership," the board vowed.

INITIAL FILING of the lower court record was postponed at the last minute last month by LWV Atty. Richard Troy. Instead, the league requested an extension until the record could be completed. They are expected to begin the procedure sometime this month.

Township officials involved in the dispute are Olsen, Auditors Richard F. Bayer, M. Russell Bramwell and Carl H. Bals, and Clerk Ruth Ellen Blowney.

All five positions plus an additional auditor will be decided April 3. Republicans and Democrats have said they will slate candidates for township offices. The slating process will be determined at party caucuses in early February.

Village Nearing Blood Goal, But More Donors Still Needed

The Palatine Health Department is nearing its immediate goal, but is still looking for volunteers to donate blood.

So far, 147 persons have offered to donate a pint of blood each in the first village-wide blood donor program.

The figure represents about half of the immediate goal of 292 donors, but several local organizations are conducting recruiting drives of their own and have not yet reported their totals to the health department.

The Palatine Rotary Club, League of Women Voters and Jaycees each submitted the names of 15 volunteers.

The health department, meanwhile, has accumulated a list of 87 donors, and is seeking another 14. Volunteers can call the health department at 358-7535 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. until Jan. 10.

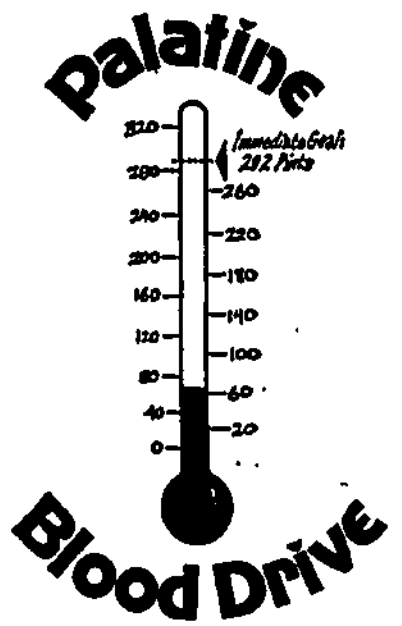

THE FIRST BLOOD drawing will be Jan. 13 at the Palatine High School cafeteria. Baby-sitting for the children of donors will be provided at no charge by members of the Red Cross Youth Program at Palatine High School.

The blood donor program is being conducted with the American Red Cross.

According to Red Cross guidelines, if 4 per cent of the population of a municipality donates a pint of blood each—in Palatine's case, a total of 1,200 pints—all the residents would be eligible to receive an unlimited amount of blood for one year.

Covered under the Red Cross program are all members of the immediate family living in the Palatine household. Also covered are family members living outside the household including parents, grandparents, and financially-dependent children.

Prospective donors must be between 18 and 65 years of age and in good health.

If It's Wild, These Girls Are Willing

by STEVE NOVICK

IF NOW, the National Organization of Women, is looking for three female counterparts to the Three Musketeers, they are here in the Northwest suburbs.

They are Cheryl Youmen, Pat Moody and Roberta Reisenbuchler, three blithe spirits who were cavorting through their last day of Christmas vacation at Woodfield Mall and looking for something a little zany to do.

Nothing really malicious, mind you. Nothing to get them in trouble but something . . . well, different.

They thought of holding a splash party in the Woodfield fountain or roller skating down the ramps and they called a Herald reporter in as witness and recorder. He talked them out of it.

"Get you in trouble for sure," he said. "They'll take you to an office and call your parents to come and get you."

The trio, all juniors at Fremd High School in Palatine, weren't looking for trouble. "We wanted to do something wild at Woodfield," said Pat, with Cheryl adding, "Yes, something insane."

AND IT wouldn't have been the first time the girls have pulled something a little odd.

They once tried to walk into the Playboy Mansion in Chicago. They got as far as the foyer where they were spotted by close circuit television cameras and a security man.

They also tried to get to the top floor of the Hancock building and avoiding the sightseer's fee by riding freight elevators. They got as far as the 92nd floor before getting caught.

"We probably would have been allowed to stay, said Pat, but it was soon after the fire atop the building and security was 'pretty tight.' But on their way out they found the WGN transmitter room and got a brief tour of the facilities.

Closer to home, the girls regularly use the swimming pool and sauna facilities of a nearby hotel without ever being questioned.

Ski Signup Under Way At Countryside

Registration is being held for ski lessons at the Countryside YMCA for youths and adults, with classes beginning in two weeks.

Area residents may register by calling the Y at 358-2400 or coming into the Leadership Center, 115 W. Johnson St., Palatine.

Two ski trips also have openings for more participants. On Jan. 20, a group is traveling to the Lake Geneva Playboy Club for the day. The $10 fee includes lift ticket, equipment, a lesson, swimming, towels, tobogganing, ice skating, skate rental and transportation. The outing will run from 5 to 11 p.m.

In February, a weekend trip is scheduled to Holland, Mich., at Carousell Mountain. Members of the group will leave Friday evening and return Sunday evening, and spaces are available for 20 adults and 20 youths. Costs of the trip range from $55 to $45 depending on people per room and equipment.

SKI LESSONS for youths age 8 to 18 will be held Jan. 27, Feb. 3 and Feb. 10, with bus pickup in Rolling Meadows and Palatine. All costs of the trip except lunch are included in the $32.50 fee for Countryside Y members, and the non-member cost is $42.50. If skiers have their own equipment, the lessons cost $10 less.

Coed adult ski lessons begin Jan. 19 for three Fridays, 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Costs are $22 for members, $27 for non-members, with a $10 discount for those owning their equipment.

Women and preschoolers may participate in three sessions beginning Jan. 17 at 11 a.m. For children age 3 through 6, cost of the lessons is $21.50 for Y members and $26.50 for others. Women's lessons are $22 for members, $27 for non-members.

Village Independent Party Slates Dance

The Village Independent Party in Palatine will sponsor a dance Saturday night at the Elks Club, 2323 Wilke Rd., Arlington Heights, to raise funds for the upcoming village campaign.

The dance is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Entertainment will be provided.

Tickets are available from various VIP members and at the door.

Cracker Barrel

A SAFE INVESTMENT. Palatine village trustees this week decided to deposit some $100,000 in motor vehicle fuel taxes in a local savings and loan institution, but Trustee Tom Ahern had second thoughts. He pointed out that only up to $20,000 deposited in a savings and loan is insured. "Don't worry," Mayor Jack Moodie assured him. "If the savings and loan goes broke, the town won't be here."

Civil Rights Topic Of LWV Meetings

Civil rights and liberties will be the topic of discussion at the Palatine League of Women Voters' monthly meetings Wednesday and Thursday.

The sessions are scheduled for 7:45 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Linda Foley, 1135 S. Falmore Dr., Palatine, and 9:15 a.m. Thursday at the Presbyterian Church of Palatine, Palatine and Rohlfing roads. Babysitting will be provided during the Thursday morning meeting.

LYN ROWE, chairman of the civil rights and liberties study committee, has outlined several questions to be considered by league members: Is there a threat to individual privacy in the way records are being kept and used and if so, how can the problem be dealt with? What kind of controls, if any, should be put on the gathering and sharing of information on individuals by private or governmental groups, and should the individuals be able to see their own files?

Openings Available In Preschool Class

Openings are available in the Salt Creek Park District's preschool program for 3 and 4-year-olds. Classes for 3-year-olds are held Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Four-year-olds meet from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Monthly fee is $12. For information, call 259-6890.

DR. JOHN B. HALL, director of the Cook County Department of Public Health, said the instances of influenza are not abnormally high this year.

"People seem to be getting a lot of colds but this is not to be confused with a real attack of influenza," said Dr. Hall.

"The London flu is a laboratory diagnosis and is not that much different from any other type of influenza," said Dr. Hall. He explained the only way to distinguish between strains of the London and Hong Kong flu are through a series of virology tests.

Dr. Hall said his department watches absenteeism rates in school districts to determine if there is an epidemic. Absenteeism rates usually average between 8 and 10 per cent and a virus does not reach epidemic proportions until the absenteeism rate is between 15 and 20 per cent, he said.

Trampoline Lessons To Be Given

Tumbling and trampoline lessons will be offered to residents of the Salt Creek Park District beginning Saturday, Jan. 13. The six-week class will cost $4. Non-residents are required to pay $5.

Lessons will be given preschoolers from 9:30 a.m. to 10:20 a.m.; 6, 7, and 8-year-olds from 10:30 a.m. to 11:20 a.m.; 9, 10 and 11-year-olds from 11:30 a.m. to 12:20 p.m.; and 12, 13, and 14-year-olds from 12:30 p.m. to 1:20 p.m.

Phone registration is being accepted at 259-6890.

entecism rates usually average between 8 and 10 per cent and a virus does not reach epidemic proportions until the absenteeism rate is between 15 and 20 per cent, he said.

NO LOCAL school districts, have reported a significant increase in absences. "It (the flu) is a small thing. It isn't keeping children out for a long time and is nothing unusual for this time of year," said Alice Hutton, a nurse in Elk Grove Dist. 59.

"We don't have too much yet (the flu), at least nothing of epidemic proportions, but we are watching it," said Joan Kufel, a nurse in River Trails Dist. 26.

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Southeast Asia will sponsor a slide show and lecture Monday night at Bethel Lutheran Church in Palatine.

The slide show is entitled "The Nature of the War in Vietnam." It will be followed by a talk by Steve Clark, a member of the mobilization committee. Antiwar literature will be available.

The program is to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the church, 2150 Frontage Rd.

The student mobilization committee, formed in 1968, is the largest student antiwar group in the country. It has endorsed non-violent peace demonstrations and has called for an immediate, unconditional end to bombing.

Sign Law Effective In 6 Months - For Sure

The Palatine sign ordinance will go into effect in six months whether businessmen like it or not.

The Zayre Department Store, 1300 E. Northwest Hwy., was turned down by the village board this week in an attempt to retain a sign which will become illegal July 1.

The trustees concurred with Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun that Palatine stores and businesses have been given enough notice of when the sign ordinance will go into effect that variations should not be granted.

The sign ordinance, which regulates the size, placement, and material of signs, was passed in 1968. It was to go into effect in 1970, but the trustees extended the amortization period for three years to assure compliance.

Inn Site At Rtes. 12 & 53

Holiday Inn Plans Not Dead

Plans for a new Holiday Inn in northwest Arlington Heights are at a standstill, but not dead.

Edward Forester, president of the corporation that has applied for a Holiday Inn franchise in Arlington Heights, said yesterday that plans to build here have been stalled by lack of construction on Ill. Rte. 53 and a slowdown in growth of northwest Arlington Heights. Plans call for construction of the motel in the vicinity of Rte. 53 and Rand Road.

Forester said he doesn't foresee moving ahead with construction plans until growth in the area resumes. He said it has been at a virtual standstill for two years.

The corporation president also said that traffic flow on Rte. 53 is not yet heavy enough to warrant building of a new motel. He said Rte. 53 would have to be extended north before traffic flow increases. The highway currently stops at Dundee Road, near the general area for the proposed Holiday Inn.

JAMES PITTS, CHIEF of the programming division of the state Department of Transportation, told the Herald that completion of the highway was initially stalled when Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's proposal for a $2 billion bond issue for highway construction was declared unconstitutional four years ago.

Pitts said the state is buying right-of-way and readying plans to extend Rte. 53 north to Rte. 22 east of Lake Zurich. Everything should be ready to begin construction to that point by June, but the governor has not yet announced next year's highway program, he said. Until that is done nothing is certain.

Should construction to Rte. 22 begin next summer, Pitts said it would take at least five years for completion. After that, long-range highway plans call for further extension of Rte. 53 to Rte. 120 in Lake County. Pitts could not estimate how long it would take to extend Rte. 53 that far.

Forester said his corporation had hoped for completion of the Rte. 53 extension by this year, Pitts, however said there was never a target date. Pitts said that had Ogilvie's initial bond issue proposal been successful, the extension to Rte. 22 might have been finished by 1976.

A more recent bond issue proposal has passed constitutional tests, and some funds have already been appropriated, Pitts said.

BUT GROWTH OF the area surrounding the proposed motel has been as much of a hindrance of plans as extension of the highway, Forester said. He said that when initial plans were made to locate a Holiday Inn in northwest Arlington Heights "a couple of years ago," the area was growing rapidly with industrial development. But in the past two years, nothing much has happened in that area, he said.

"I don't know why (development slowed)," Forester said. But he added that his corporation, Holiday Inn, Inc. and local real estate men agree that no go-ahead should be given to motel construction until growth picks up again.

Forester said his corporation has been watching occupancy of Arlington Park Towers Hotel and Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge on Northwest Highway. He said his corporation's two other Holiday Inns, in Rolling Meadows and Mundelein, have done well in comparison. He said that part of the reason for success elsewhere is that communities such as Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg have "aggressively" sought industry for their villages, but Arlington Heights has not.

2 1/2 Hours Didn't Matter: Fire Destroys Trailer

Two persons escaped injury Wednesday when their trailer, at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caught fire after an explosion in the trailer's oil heating system. The fire occurred just 2 1/2 hours before fire protection services from Elk Grove Village were to be terminated to the park.

Damage to the trailer of Zell Clark, 39 Charles, was estimated at $2,500 with another $2,500 in contents lost. Mrs. Clark and her baby were home at the time of the fire, and both escaped uninjured.

Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the fire started in a leaking fuel oil line in the trailer's heating system. He said firemen had a difficult job extinguishing the blaze because oil had saturated the floor of the trailer and had leaked underneath.

Firefighter George Rezny, 37, suffered minor injuries while fighting the blaze.

FIREMEN SAID Mrs. Clark said she heard an explosion and saw fire coming from her furnace, and then she grabbed her baby and ran to a neighbor's trailer to report the fire.

Mrs. Clark said a maintenance man had looked at the leaking furnace earlier that afternoon but had not fixed it, according to firemen.

Hulett said three engines from Elk Grove Village and one from Schaumburg responded to the fire. There are no fire hydrants in the park, and water had to be brought in. An engine from Hoffman Estates stood by at the village headquarters station on Bleisfield Road. The fire was out within 20 minutes, he said.

The fire occurred at 9:29 p.m., 2 1/2 hours before the trailer park lost the fire protection services of Elk Grove Village at midnight. The trailer park, located in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, had been receiving fire protection through an oral contract the late owner, Lewis Gauger, had with the village.

Since Gauger's death two years ago, the heirs and owners of the trailer park have not recognized the contract or existence of any oral agreement.

VILLAGE MGR. Charles Willis said the current owners were sent registered letters last week saying that because the owners failed to meet the terms of any agreement, fire and ambulance services to the trailer park would be terminated as of Jan. 1.

Willis said Tuesday the fire department had been authorized to provide protection through part of Wednesday to avoid any confusion because of the holidays.

Hulett said yesterday he met with Willis at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, and at that time he was told the deadline for fire service to the trailer park would be extended unofficially to midnight as a "final grace period for the owners to work out some arrangement."

"Starting today (Thursday) the fire department will perform only emergency evacuation services to rescue persons from burning buildings, and no ambulance services will be performed," Hulett said. "This is the same policy that applies to other incorporated areas with no fire and ambulance protection contracts with the village."

HULETT SAID the village has received inquiries from residents of the trailer park concerning the possibility of individuals buying fire protection from the village.

He said the fire department could not contract with individual residents without the consent of the board of trustees, which sets the policy for the fire department.

"I personally feel that any contract should be made with the owners, and not on an individual basis and not on a monthly basis," he said. Hulett added that the administrative problems of such a system would be complex.

According to the oral contract with Gauger, the village provided fire and ambulance service to the trailer park in exchange for the use of a trailer. Reportedly part of the agreement was that Gauger would turn over the trailer to the village permanently for ownership at the end of 1972.

In August the village formed an agreement based on the oral agreement with Gauger and presented it to his heirs for execution. The agreement never was signed, according to Willis.

Another letter was written to the current owners, Charles Gauger and Mary Sher, in December saying that failure to return the signed agreement apparently meant the owners were not interested in turning over the trailer to the village as part of the agreement. The trailer was returned to the mobile home park last week.

Contracting for fire protection services is the same policy used by the village in dealing with other unincorporated areas. This year 252 homeowners in unincorporated subdivisions were charged $84 a year for fire and ambulance services. Some 120 residents paid the fee.

Swim Lessons Begin Jan. 13 At Towers

Swimming lessons will be offered beginning Jan. 13 at the Arlington Park Towers as part of the Salt Creek Park District's water activity program. A $10 fee is required for the ten weeks of instruction.

Registration information and time schedules of lessons can be obtained by calling the district at 259-6890.

Federal OK Given To Low-Cost Units

The village of Arlington Heights has received federal approval for 119 units of low-cost housing for senior citizens.

The U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has approved the units for Arlington Heights and earmarked $47,600 for planning, engineering and site selection.

The next step toward the realization of senior citizen housing here is site search, according to Victor Walchirk, executive director of the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), which is acting as the village's agent in negotiations with HUD.

Walchirk said it probably will be two to three years before the units are planned, built and ready for occupancy.

THE VILLAGE of Arlington Heights made application for 256 housing units in May, 1970. This week village officials were notified that Arlington Heights has been approved for 119 units.

In the past, four sites have been mentioned as possible locations for housing for the elderly.

One tentative site mentioned was the triangular piece of property northwest of the Jewel Food Store at Wing Street and Vall Avenue.

The land is already zoned for multi-family development and a proposal to build 99 condominium units on the parcel is now pending before the village board.

A SECOND site that has been talked of is land now occupied by the Hill-Behan

lumberyard, just north of the Municipal Building along Arlington Heights Road.

The village has applied for a federal grant to purchase the Hill-Behan property and develop it for commuter parking.

A third possible location is the Dunton court parking lot, along Vall Avenue between Campbell and Sigwalt streets.

A fourth possible site is on vacant land adjacent to the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged on Oakton Street.

In the past, Walchirk has said that the Lutheran Home site is probably too far from downtown shopping and transportation.

VILLAGE PRES. John Woods said yesterday he was confident there are "numerous sites in the village" that would be suitable for the housing development.

Woods said he was encouraged by the earmarking of $47,000 for engineering and planning, adding that he felt this was indicative of "an early federal timetable" for the Arlington Heights development.

"This is very good news and we would want to move forward immediately," Woods said.

When completed, rents for one-bedroom apartments in the development would average between $40 and $45 a month, Walchirk said.

Individuals 62 years of age or older, with annual incomes of $4,500 or less, or elderly couples with incomes under $5,000 are eligible for the low-cost housing, Walchirk said.

THE VILLAGE will be allowed to give priority to Arlington Heights residents who want to live in the development, providing the policy is "reasonable," he said.

Once a site is agreed on by the village and CCHA, it must be approved by HUD. The federal government then subsidizes the cost of construction through low-interest bonds.

There is no cost to the community, Walchirk said.

Though Arlington Heights had originally applied for twice as many senior citizen housing units, Walchirk said he felt "extremely fortunate" to get 119 units allocated for Arlington Heights.

"There are very few units available for the entire state," he said. "An economic study by HUD indicates that 119 is a feasible number of units."

Official Hits Elk Grove Unit District Effort

A Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board member has urged his board to formally protest any efforts of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 to form a unit district (grades K-12).

Alan Krinsky, a member of an informal committee made up of officials from eight local school districts to discuss unit districting, made the recommendation. He told Dist. 23 board members Wednesday night they should consider passing a resolution protesting what he termed were "Dist. 59's efforts to pull away from High School Dist. 214."

Currently a citizens' committee in Dist. 59 is studying the feasibility of a unit district for the Dist. 59 area. The committee has stressed that no conclusions on the matter have been reached yet.

However, according to a report made by a professional consultant service last September, there are no apparent barriers to the formation of a unit district in the Dist. 59 area. One possibility, according to the report, would be a unit district made up of Dist. 59 elementary schools and Elk Grove and Forest View high schools. The two high schools now belong to High School Dist. 214.

DIST. 59 Supt. James Ervitt has said that a unit district provides a better educational program for students because it allows for a continuity of education between grammar and high school under a single school board and administration.

But Krinsky said, "I think Dist. 59 is trying to get out of their own (financial) problem at the expense of every other district in the area. I don't think they could hack it and I think their kids would have it worse than they do now."

Krinsky said if every school district became a unit district, Illinois would go bankrupt. Under the state aid formula, unit districts receive more money from the state than dual districts (K-8).

Krinsky also charged that Dist. 59 is trying to dodge its financial problems by forming a unit district including Centex Industrial Park. Formation of a unit district in that area would remove the industrial park from the tax base of Dist. 214.

"I think their motivations are not as much educational as they are selfish," he said.

THE BOARD will vote on Krinsky's recommendation at its meeting next Wednesday. Board member Ronald Swartzke said he "seconded" the recommendation. Several other board members also expressed opinions.

"I think Dist. 59's basis for expecting financial gains from a unit district is faulty," said board member Lori Sauer. "I think school financing will change."

Another thing is the schools are not set up geographically for a unit district, said John Stull, board member.

Student Drug Use, Purchase May Be Expulsion Grounds

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 students found using or buying dangerous drugs on school property or during a school-sponsored activity would be suspended immediately under a new policy now being considered by the school board.

The board would also consider expelling any student "engaged in the distribution or selling of behavior-affecting drugs," on school grounds, according to the policy which will be voted on next Wednesday. The policy defines those drugs as marijuana, narcotics, hallucinogens or "any other dangerous drug."

"I'm not in the business of expelling students," said Supt. Edward Grodsky who is recommending adoption of the new rule. "But I feel that if we have one child that might be affecting 100 others by using or selling drugs, we have to do something."

Grodsky said he drew up the policy at the urging of the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB). "They've been telling us (school districts) we'd better protect ourselves in case we get any cases like this," Grodsky said. "As far as I know, we haven't had any situations like this yet. But I'm not walking around with my head in the sand, thinking everything is all right."

The policy also states that students found "under the influence" of drugs on school property or during a school-sponsored activity would be immediately suspended. For readmission to school, the board is considering requiring a written confirmation from a physician that the student has talked to him about his drug involvement.

A REPORT TO OUR SAVERS:

As 1973 begins, we are grateful that our progress has been due in great measure to our customers' efforts along the line of thrift and home ownership.

The year 1972 saw the savings and loan business achieve its largest growth both on the savings and the mortgage side of the operations. We are proud to report that this growth pattern was also reflected here at Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Assets of your local association have grown over the 17 million mark, we are happy to report. Loyalty of our savers has been unwavering and will continue. Our friendly and personal service as an institution large enough to help and small enough to know its customers.

In our opinion 1973 should be another year of growth for the community we serve. Our local housing and real estate markets should remain active. Savings flows should continue strong and assure an ample supply of mortgage money to finance home and apartment purchases.

2,000 Denied Township Vote, Charges League

by JULIA BAUER

Board members for the local League of Women Voters (LWV) denounced five Palatine Township officials yesterday, charging they were unresponsive to over 2,000 residents who requested a referendum ending Palatine township government.

Following their morning board meeting, LWV leaders released a statement reviewing their position on the township government issue in the upcoming April election.

"The Palatine League of Women Voters hopes both parties will state candidates who will be more responsive to the wishes of the people who they represent than the present board of auditors has been," the LWV said.

"This board of auditors this past fall chose to deny over 2,000 petitioners their right to have a referendum to dissolve township government as is permitted by the new Illinois Constitution," they continued.

Supervisor Howard I. Olsen could not be reached yesterday to comment on the league of women voters' charges.

THE ONGOING battle between the township auditors and the LWV climaxed in August, when petitions requesting the referendum were handed over to township officials.

League township regulars Ann Scollay and Alice DeViney headed the petition drive. They claim the abolition move is based on their observations during the past 3 1/2 years of attending township board meetings.

The state LWV organization officially opposed metropolitan-area townships as an unnecessary layer of government whose purposes were outlived. Most townships around Chicago rule relatively small portions within their boundaries as more areas have become incorporated into cities and villages by the burgeoning population.

Township officials say they perform a valuable service for all residents of the township, incorporated or not. If the township government was abolished, its functions would probably go to either existing local governments or the county, and officials say such action would cost township residents more than the present system.

IN SEPTEMBER, the Palatine Township Board of Auditors unanimously rejected a referendum for the Nov. 7 general election. On advice of Atty. Roger Bjorvik, the board ruled that the township could not be abolished until the state legislature officially pointed to who would take over township functions.

A suit followed the township board's action, but the LWV case was thrown out of court on a preliminary motion. Appeals to the Illinois Supreme Court and Appellate Court were denied for lack of time to hear the case before the November election date.

Now regular procedures are being followed for an Appellate Court hearing, which may not come until sometime this spring.

Township attorneys are expected to argue that the case is pointless, since the November date has passed. But the league disagrees. They claim it was the township's action that kept the referendum off the November ballot.

"While litigation regarding this denial progresses in the Appellate Court, the league of women voters will continue to send observers regularly to the township meeting . . . The actions of the board of auditors and any legislation affecting township government will be brought to the attention of the league membership," the board vowed.

Rolling Meadows Woman Killed In Car-Truck Crash

A Rolling Meadows woman was killed yesterday morning when the car she was driving collided with a truck at the intersection of W. Frontage Road and Woodfield Drive, near Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg.

A spokesman from Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, said that Gayle Bryant, 32, of 2403 Cedar Dr., Rolling Meadows, was transported to the hospital shortly after noon and died there a few minutes later.

Schaumburg police said Mrs. Bryant's car collided with a large moving van driven by Gene Beckstrom, 46, of Cottage Grove, Minn. He was not seriously injured in the accident and refused medical treatment, police said.

Police said the Bryant car was eastbound on Woodfield Drive and the truck was southbound on West Frontage Road.

Police said they have not been able to determine which driver had the right of way. No tickets were issued.

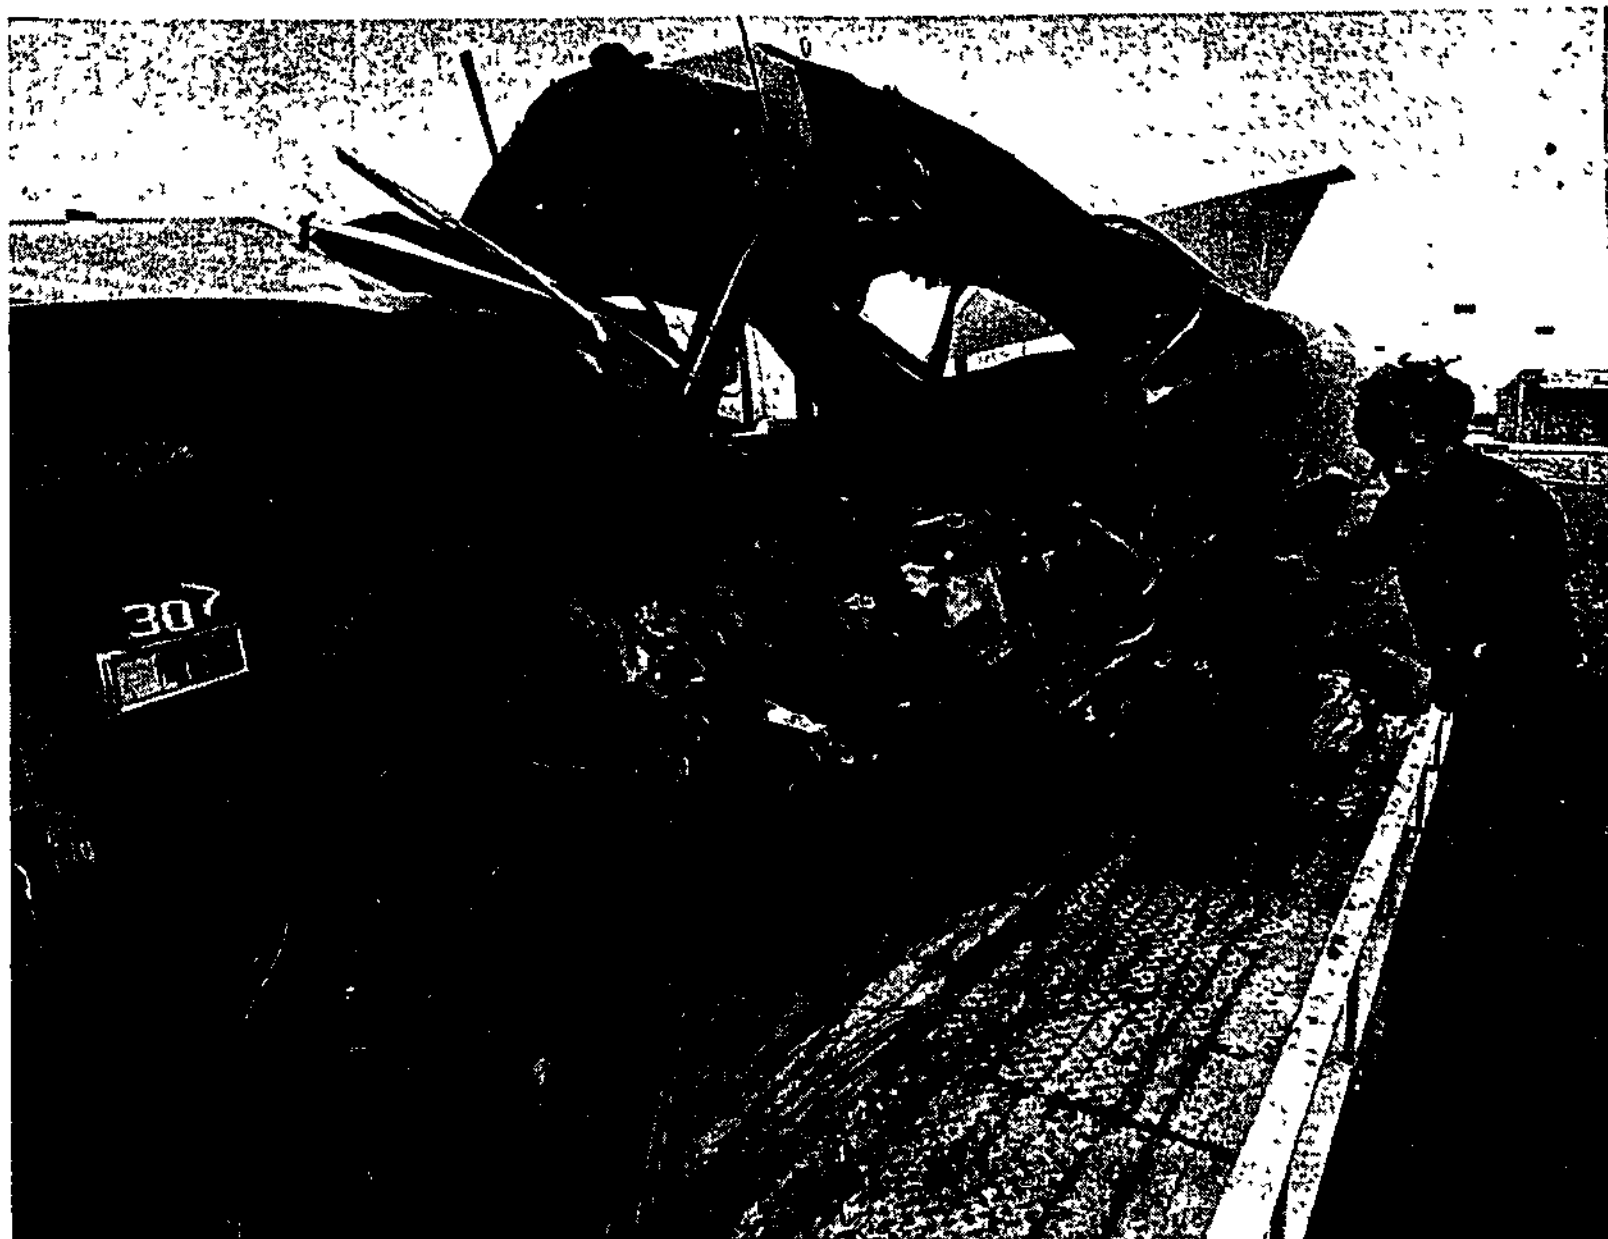

Monthly Recycling Day Tomorrow

The Rolling Meadows monthly recycling day will be held tomorrow from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Cans, bottles and paper may be brought to the city garage at 3200 Central Rd.

Papers should be tied in bundles or packaged in bags. Cans and bottles should be rinsed and metal rings should be removed.

Each month two groups assist and "compete" at the recycling site to determine which can recruit the most contributors. Competing tomorrow for the extra monetary bonus will be the Teen Government group and the Girl Scouts from troop 15.

Money collected from the monthly drives is donated to youth groups in the city and to the recycling, ecological, and beautification committee.

SMASHED FROM a broadside collision, the car of Mrs. Gayle Bryant of Rolling Meadows is towed away yesterday from the accident scene, W. Frontage Road and Woodfield Drive, Schaumburg. Mrs. Bryant was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. The driver of the moving van that collided with the Bryant car was not seriously injured. No citations have been issued, but police are investigating.

General Time Strike Still Unresolved

by TONI GINETTI

On Oct. 2, 123 production employees from the General Time Corp. in Rolling Meadows walked off their jobs over a wage dispute with the company management. Fourteen weeks later, with the wage dispute resolved and employees working again, a picket line remains outside the company and the strike has not been settled.

The inconsistency of that position points up the "snafu" status that has characterized the longest industrial strike in the Northwest suburbs in recent years. An early settlement seems hopeless. Representatives of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) Union Local 713 have not met with the company since Nov. 6 and the company refuses to comment on any aspect of the strike.

Meanwhile, union officials have manned the picket line because workers have either returned to their old jobs or found new ones, and federal mediators have closed their files on the case because they say there is nothing they can do until the parties agree to meet again.

DISCUSSIONS with IBEW spokesman John Carriglio, who has been involved with the General Time quagmire for the last three months, and federal mediator Clair Willmeth, seem to indicate there is not much that can be done.

"Until we can come up with some other way of settling (labor) matters, strikes will probably continue to be used by unions," Carriglio said. "We're not a 'strike' union. We've had only about four or five strikes in the 50 years of the local."

"It's a last resort," he said of a strike. "We realize it's a hardship for all those involved. We're not out to hurt anyone and we would be happy to see all strikes be short."

But when a strike does not work as a means of negotiating a labor dispute, there is not much more a worker can do to win a point with management, Willmeth said. "He could go to another union, which involves getting new certification, or he could join no union at all."

A poll conducted last year by a research organization in New Jersey revealed that the American public, including union members, has become steadily disenchanted with strikes as a tool to use in labor negotiations. But both Carriglio and Willmeth do not think the stalled General Time strike would indicate proof of a trend in that direction.

"Of course, I'm speaking as a labor man," Carriglio said, "but if you read the history of labor, nothing comes easy."

In the early years of the labor movement, there were strikes that lasted 14 months for benefits as small or smaller than what we are asking for."

WHILE THERE is currently only one other strike in the Chicago area the Federal Mediation and Conciliation is handling, Willmeth said long strikes are not unusual and do not necessarily indicate a failure for either side.

"Many times this happens," he said of the prolonged strike. "If it is a matter of economics, we can always help them find some sort of accommodation. When you deal with something like a union shop, though, this gets to be a matter of principle. But this is not really a trend; this is an isolated thing that happens every once and awhile."

In the case of the General Time strike, Willmeth conceded however, "there may never be a real solution, although that is not to say we would not enter in again at a later date if we were asked to by both parties."

Carriglio, on the other hand, still maintains an optimistic outlook. "The history of labor, again, shows that there are good times and bad times. We have to take the good with the bad."

Redistricting Panel Meet Set Tomorrow

The five-man committee of aldermen appointed to redistrict city wards before the April 17 municipal elections will meet tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the Rolling Meadows City Hall. Committee Chairman Ald. Merrill Wuersch (1st) has said he expects the redistricting to be completed in one meeting.

The committee assigned to do the re-mapping consists of the five aldermen whose terms expire this year including Wuersch, Ald. Tom Waldron (2nd), Ald. Stephen Eberhard (3rd), Ald. Daniel Weber (4th) and Ald. Fred Jacobson (5th). Because of population change in the number of registered voters in each ward, boundary lines must be redrawn so that wards contain nearly the same number of voters.

Figures released recently show the greatest increase in voter rolls has been in the 4th and 5th Wards. Totals for each ward are 1,991 in the 1st Ward, 1,686 in the 2nd Ward, 1,703 in the 3rd Ward, 2,201 in the 4th Ward, and 2,316 in the 5th Ward.

Suburbs Spared

Flu Bug Stays Away—So Far

A new strain of flu running rampant in portions of the United States — the London flu apparently has passed over the Northwest suburbs, or has not yet arrived.

A check with area school districts yesterday indicated none had experienced a noticeable change in absenteeism rates for this time of year.

Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights also reported nothing out of the usual for this time of year.

"This is the season to be coughing," said Jack Ryon, public relations director for Northwest Community Hospital. "There is always a lot of flu and upper respiratory diseases this time of year.

Symptoms of the London flu are a bad cold, fever, chills and a cough.

Ryon said two people had been hospitalized recently with high fevers but he emphasized two patients hardly constituted an epidemic.

DR. JOHN B. HALL, director of the Cook County Department of Public Health, said the instances of influenza are not abnormally high this year.

"People seem to be getting a lot of colds but this is not to be confused with a real attack of influenza," said Dr. Hall.

"The London flu is a laboratory diagnosis and is not that much different from any other type of influenza," said Dr. Hall. He explained the only way to distinguish between strains of the London and Hong Kong flu are through a series of virology tests.

Dr. Hall said his department watches absenteeism rates in school districts to determine if there is an epidemic. Absenteeism rates usually average between 8 and 10 per cent and a virus does not reach epidemic proportions until the absenteeism rate is between 15 and 20 per cent, he said.

NO LOCAL school districts have reported a significant increase in absences.

"It (the flu) is a small thing. It isn't keeping children out for a long time and is nothing unusual for this time of year," said Alice Hufston, a nurse in Elk Grove Dist. 59.

"We don't have too much yet (the flu), at least nothing of epidemic proportions, but we are watching it," said Joan Kufel, a nurse in River Trails Dist. 26.

As for precautions against a possible attack of influenza, Dr. Hall says it's too late. Flu vaccinations should be given in the early fall to be effective this time of year, he said.

run from 5 to 11 p.m.

In February, a weekend trip is scheduled to Holland, Mich., at Carousell Mountain. Members of the group will leave Friday evening and return Sunday evening, and spaces are available for 20 adults and 20 youths. Costs of the trip range from $55 to $45 depending on people per room and equipment.

SKI LESSONS for youths age 8 to 18 will be held Jan. 27, Feb. 3 and Feb. 10, with bus pickup in Rolling Meadows and Palatine. All costs of the trip except lunch are included in the $32.50 fee for Countryside Y members, and the non-

Holiday Inn Plans Not Dead

Plans for a new Holiday Inn in northwest Arlington Heights are at a standstill, but not dead.

Edward Forester, president of the corporation that has applied for a Holiday Inn franchise in Arlington Heights, said yesterday that plans to build here have been stalled by lack of construction on Ill. Rte. 53 and a slowdown in growth of northwest Arlington Heights. Plans call for construction of the motel in the vicinity of Rte. 53 and Rand Road.

Forester said he doesn't foresee moving ahead with construction plans until growth in the area resumes. He said it has been at a virtual standstill for two years.

The corporation president also said that traffic flow on Rte. 53 is not yet heavy enough to warrant building of a new motel. He said Rte. 53 would have to be extended north before traffic flow increases. The highway currently stops at Dundee Road, near the general area for the proposed Holiday Inn.

JAMES PITTS, CHIEF of the programming division of the state Department of Transportation, told the Herald that completion of the highway was initially stalled when Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's proposal for a $2 billion bond issue for highway construction was declared unconstitutional four years ago.

Pitts said the state is buying right-of-way and readying plans to extend Rte. 53 north to Rte. 22 east of Lake Zurich. Everything should be ready to begin construction to that point by June, but the governor has not yet announced next year's highway program, he said. Until that is done nothing is certain.

Should construction to Rte. 22 begin next summer, Pitts said it would take at least five years for completion. After that, long-range highway plans call for further extension of Rte. 53 to Rte. 120 in Lake County. Pitts could not estimate how long it would take to extend Rte. 53 that far.

Forester said his corporation had hoped for completion of the Rte. 53 extension by this year, Pitts, however said there was never a target date. Pitts said that had Ogilvie's initial bond issue proposal been successful, the extension to Rte. 22 might have been finished by 1976.

A more recent bond issue proposal has passed constitutionality tests, and some funds have already been appropriated, Pitts said.

BUT GROWTH OF the area surrounding the proposed motel has been as much of a hindrance of plans as extension of the highway, Forester said. He said that when initial plans were made to locate a Holiday Inn in northwest Arlington Heights "a couple of years ago," the area was growing rapidly with industrial development. But in the past two years, nothing much has happened in that area, he said.

"I don't know why (development slowed)," Forester said. But he added that his corporation, Holiday Inn, Inc. and local real estate men agree that no go-ahead should be given to motel construction until growth picks up again.

Forester said his corporation has been watching occupancy of Arlington Park Towers Hotel and Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge on Northwest Highway. He said his corporation's two other Holiday Inns, in Rolling Meadows and Mundelein, have done well in comparison. He said that part of the reason for success elsewhere is that communities such as Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg have "aggressively" sought industry for their villages, but Arlington Heights has not.

"I personally hope Arlington Heights people will aggressively go out after industry," Forester said. "If they do, we will aggressively go for construction of a new Holiday Inn."

AN EXPLOSION in the oil heating system of a trailer at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caused $5,000 damage and left one family homeless Wednesday. The Elk Grove Village Fire Department responded to the fire just 2½ hours before fire protection services to the trailer park from the village were scheduled to be terminated because of the owners' failure to sign a contract with the village.

21½ Hours Didn't Matter: Fire Destroys Trailer

Two persons escaped injury Wednesday when their trailer, at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caught fire after an explosion in the trailer's oil heating system. The fire occurred just 2½ hours before fire protection services from Elk Grove Village were to be terminated to the park.

Damage to the trailer of Zell Clark, 39 Charles, was estimated at $2,500 with another $2,500 in contents lost. Mrs. Clark and her baby were home at the time of the fire, and both escaped uninjured.

Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the fire started in a leaking fuel oil line in the trailer's heating system. He said firemen had a difficult job extinguishing the blaze because oil had saturated the floor of the trailer and had leaked underneath.

Firefighter George Reznay, 37, suffered minor injuries while fighting the blaze.

FIREMEN SAID Mrs. Clark said she heard an explosion and saw fire coming from her furnace, and then she grabbed her baby and ran to a neighbor's trailer to report the fire.

Mrs. Clark said a maintenance man had looked at the leaking furnace earlier that afternoon but had not fixed it, according to firemen.

Hulett said three engines from Elk

Grove Village and one from Schaumburg responded to the fire. There are no fire hydrants in the park, and water had to be brought in. An engine from Hoffman Estates stood by at the village headquarters station on Biesterfeld Road. The fire was out within 20 minutes, he said.

The fire occurred at 9:29 p.m., 2½ hours before the trailer park lost the fire protection services of Elk Grove Village at midnight. The trailer park, located in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, had been receiving fire protection through an oral contract the late owner, Lewis Gauger, had with the village.

Since Gauger's death two years ago, the heirs and owners of the trailer park have not recognized the content or existence of any oral agreement.

VILLAGE MGR. Charles Willis said the current owners were sent registered letters last week saying that because the owners failed to meet the terms of any agreement, fire and ambulance services to the trailer park would be terminated as of Jan. 1.

Willis said Tuesday the fire department had been authorized to provide protection through part of Wednesday to avoid any confusion because of the holidays.

Hulett said yesterday he met with Willis at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, and at that time he was told the deadline for fire service to the trailer park would be extended unofficially to midnight as a "final grace period for the owners to work out some arrangement."

"Starting today (Thursday) the fire department will perform only emergency evacuation services to rescue persons from burning buildings, and no ambulance services will be performed," Hulett said. "This is the same policy that applies to other incorporated areas with no fire and ambulance protection contracts with the village."

HULETT SAID the village has received inquiries from residents of the trailer park concerning the possibility of individuals buying fire protection from the village.

He said the fire department could not contract with individual residents without the consent of the board of trustees, which sets the policy for the fire department.

"I personally feel that any contract should be made with the owners, and not on an individual basis and not on a monthly basis," he said. Hulett added that the administrative problems of such a system would be complex.

According to the oral contract with Gauger, the village provided fire and ambulance service to the trailer park in exchange for the use of a trailer. Reportedly part of the agreement was that Gauger would turn over the trailer to the village permanently for ownership at the end of 1972.

In August the village formed an agreement based on the oral agreement with Gauger and presented it to his heirs for execution. The agreement never was signed, according to Willis.

Another letter was written to the current owners, Charles Gauger and Mary Sher, in December saying that failure to return the signed agreement apparently meant the owners were not interested in turning over the trailer to the village as part of the agreement. The trailer was returned to the mobile home park last week.

Contracting for fire protection services is the same policy used by the village in dealing with other unincorporated areas. This year 252 homeowners in unincorporated subdivisions were charged $84 a year for fire and ambulance services. Some 120 residents paid the fee.

Mayor To Head Ticket

Five Incumbents Unite As Village Party For Election

* Five village office incumbents have banded together to form The Village Party in Mount Prospect's April village election.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert will head the ticket, which also includes Trustees Donald B. Furst, Bud Richardson, and Patrick J. Link and Village Clerk Donald W. Goodman. All three trustees will be seeking four-year terms.

The Village Party has selected Richard Hendricks, 36, of 1537 E. Emmerson Ln., to run for the unexpired two-year term which resulted from Trustee Richard Monroe's resignation last year. (Link had been appointed to fill this seat through May 1, but Trustee Daniel J. Ahern's decision not to run has created a four-year term opening which Link will now seek.)

TEICHERT SAID yesterday that a campaign manager will probably be selected this weekend. Nominating petitions for the state are being prepared and will be circulated by the candidates as soon as they become available. He added that a platform is being developed.

Earlier, Teichert indicated that the platform would consist of a four-year-planning program of desired development for the community. Such matters are revitalizing of the downtown, flood control and further annexation matters are sure to be included in the platform.

Hendricks was chosen by other members of the slate, Teichert said, "because there was no basic conflict in concepts; there was no doubt about his background, his willingness to work and his stand on major public issues."

Teichert said that the geographical balance Hendricks would bring to the board was important. In effect, he would be replacing Ahern, as both live in Fairview Gardens in the east central portion of the village. Teichert added that Hendricks' candidacy became more viable after Link was appointed to the board last year. Link became the representative of the newly annexed area, representation which Teichert felt was necessary for the board to have.

SEVERAL OTHER persons were mentioned as possible candidates, Teichert said. These included members of village committees and commissions. Several women were considered also. Until the announcement of the slate yesterday, it was not known how many openings would be available on the slate. Only Furst and Teichert had previously announced plans to seek reelection.

Hendricks has regularly attended village board meetings for the last four years. In 1971 he ran as an independent candidate for trustees and came in fourth, behind the Teichert-endorsed United Village Party. All three members of that party were elected. They were George B. Anderson, Kenneth V. Scholten and Monroe.

Hendricks has been a member of the drainage and clean streams commission for two years and past president of the Fairview Gardens Civic Association.

Richardson will be on the ballot for the first time in April. He was appointed to the village board when Trustee George Reiter resigned in July 1971.

Official Hits Elk Grove Unit District Effort

A Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board member has urged his board to formally protest any efforts of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 to form a unit district (grades K-12).

Alan Krinsky, a member of an informal committee made up of officials from eight local school districts to discuss unit

Currently a citizens' committee in Dist. 59 is studying the feasibility of a unit district for the Dist. 59 area. The committee has stressed that no conclusions on the matter have been reached yet.

However, according to a report made by a professional consultant service last September, there are no apparent barriers to the formation of a unit district in the Dist. 59 area. One possibility, according to the report, would be a unit district made up of Dist. 59 elementary schools and Elk Grove and Forest View high schools. The two high schools now belong to High School Dist. 214.

DIST. 59 Supt. James Ervli has said that a unit district provides a better educational program for students because it allows for a continuity of education between grammar and high school under a single school board and administration.

But Krinsky said, "I think Dist. 59 is trying to get out of their own (financial) problem at the expense of every other district in the area. I don't think they could hack it and I think their kids would have it worse than they do now."

Krinsky said if every school district became a unit district, Illinois would go bankrupt. Under the state aid formula, unit districts receive more money from the state than dual districts (K-8).

Krinsky also charged that Dist. 59 is trying to dodge its financial problems by forming a unit district including Centex Industrial Park. Formation of a unit district in that area would remove the industrial park from the tax base of Dist. 214.

"I think their motivations are not as much educational as they are selfish," he said.

THE BOARD will vote on Krinsky's recommendation at its meeting next Wednesday. Board member Ronald Nowatzke said he "seconded" the recommendation. Several other board members also expressed opinions.

"I think Dist. 59's basis for expecting financial gains from a unit district is faulty," said board member Lori Garner. "I think school financing will change."

Another thing is the schools are not set up geographically for a unit district, said John Stull, board member.

Alan Krinsky

districting, made the recommendation. He told Dist. 23 board members Wednesday night they should consider passing a resolution protesting what he termed were "Dist. 59's efforts to pull away from High School Dist. 214."

$100 In Cash Stolen

About $100 cash was stolen Tuesday night from the Richard Spear residence, 412 E. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect.

Police said they believe the burglar may have known that Spear had money hidden in the house, because cushions on chairs and the couch were overturned. Nothing other than the money was apparently stolen. The burglar ransacked a rear door entry was gained by breaking a home door window.

Spear told police he was visiting a relative at Holy Family Hospital between 7 and 9 p.m. when the break-in occurred. Police found a man, Frank Simmons, 49, of Chicago, sleeping in an outside shed but he said he heard nothing of the burglary. Simmons works for Spear, who owns Spears Landscaping. Spear said he allowed Simmons to sleep there because he had been working late.

SECOND TRY: Work continues on the Crystal Towers Condominium project at the southwest corner of Algonquin and Busse roads in Mount Prospect. The site was the location of the ill-fated Tally Ho apartment project. Starting in 1963, four Tally Ho buildings were partially constructed but were left unfinished because of financing difficulties. Then, in 1965, village officials began a series of legal battles that finally enabled them to have the buildings torn down in 1971.

The War

The North Vietnamese shot down the 16th B52 bomber in two weeks, but all crewmen were rescued. In Paris, South Vietnam has demanded that Hanoi and the Viet Cong recognize the division of Vietnam into two countries. In Washington, Senate Democrats voted 36-11 to end funding for the war.

More than 80 prominent religious leaders are meeting in Chicago this week for a four-day conference titled INSEARCH — The Future of Religion in America. Sponsor of this meeting is the George D. Dayton Foundation of Minneapolis.

The Rev. Emmanuel Lionakis of Mount Prospect is one of the delegates.

INSEARCH delegates will consider a year's research on contemporary trends in American religious thought. This research was directed by Dr. John Biersdorf of the National Council of the Churches of Christ. They will also study reports of 39 current "trend setting" religious groups.

Three recent graduates of Northwestern Illinois University in Chicago are Mary Margaret Kuivinen, 403 S. Wille St., who received an M.A. degree in special education; Claire Lee Erickson, 629 S. Albert St., M.A. in history; and Raymond Brod, 409 S. Wille St., M.A. in geography.

Metta Matthews, wife of the pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church, will be hostess next Tuesday for a "chatterbox tea." This annual tea gives women of the church a chance to renew old friendships and make new ones.

The two-part event will be from 1 to 3 p.m. and 8 to 10 p.m., at the parsonage, 223 N. Emerson St.

The A-C Square Wheels, a Wheeling square dance group has presented the new Prospect Heights Public Library with a year's subscription to "American Square Dance" magazine. They also donated two sets of square dancing handbooks and a record of basic square dance steps.

Helen Smith, club president, made the presentation to Rose McDonald, librarian. The A-C Square Wheels also performed at the Prospect Heights Public Library's recent open house.

Another recent gift to the library came from the Book Discussion Group of Prospect Heights Community Church. Group members gave two books by Benjamin Thomas, "Abraham Lincoln," and "Lincoln's New Salem" in memory of Rudolph Zelm, formerly of 105 S. Elmhurst Rd.

Speaking of libraries, do you have a color print or slide of the Mount Prospect Public Library? Mrs. John Page, director of Community Nursery School, is looking for a spring or summer view of the Emerson Street side of the library. She is working on a special project involving color photographs and drawings by her nursery school children. If you can help out by lending the needed picture, call Virginia at 392-1737.

Going on a diet is a popular New Year's resolution for those who are thick and tired of it.

Defer Luxury Unit Decision

The Mount Prospect Plan Commission Wednesday postponed any decision on approval of a 192-unit "luxury-type multi-family complex at River Road and Euclid Avenue in Mount Prospect.

Commission members said they did not yet have enough information on the plan. The village engineer will be asked to submit a report on the water and sewer facilities for the project.

Vice chairman Harold Ross told representatives of the petitioner, Ceisel-McGuire Industries Inc., that he was still unaware of the heights of the buildings even though such information is required by law to have been submitted at the public hearing. The public hearing, at which they asked that the 10-acre site be rezoned from single family to multi-family planned unit development, was held Dec. 13.

BUT ROSS AND at least three other commissioners indicated they did not like the concept of multi-family use for the property and would probably vote to recommend denial of the rezoning if the petitioners were to press for a decision.

Comr. Robert Bennett said he felt the plan commission should study planner Thomas Murphy's report before deciding on the Ceisel-McGuire request. Murphy's report, which became available in early December, recommends changes to the comprehensive village plan. Specifically, for the property in question, he suggests that a major neighborhood shopping center be built, with possibly a branch library included.

"I'm interested in seeing a total look at vacant lands, especially in the newly annexed area," Bennett said. He added it would be hard to revoke a rezoning once granted, should the commission later decide the property has a better use.

HOWEVER, Chairman Malcolm Young said he doubted whether such action would hold up in court. But he said that other concerns such as water and sewer problems in the area could be enough reason for him to vote against the rezoning.

Comr. Lynn Kloster questioned whether adequate sewer and water facilities could be installed for the site regardless of how it was developed.

"Until the whole general area up there gets better water and sewage facilities," Ross said, "any development will worsen the condition."

A spokesman for the developer, who has a purchase option on the land, said that Citizens Utility Co. has rebuilt a sanitary sewer lift station and are building a new well which should greatly aid the water and sewer facilities for the property. He added that they would be putting in a 10-inch water main and a 10-inch sewer line which would then be controlled by the village.

Evangelist Guest Church Speaker

Evangelist Rev. Chuck Milhuff will be guest speaker tonight, tomorrow and Sunday at Mount Prospect Nazarene Church, 1501 Linneman Rd.

Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. tonight and tomorrow and will be held at 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday. The service tonight will be a youth meeting for churches throughout the area.

Rev. Milhuff speaks at churches, colleges, youth conferences and revivals throughout the country. Also appearing at the Nazarene Church this week end will be Ray Moore of the radio show "Showers of Blessings," who is a professor of music at Olivet Nazarene College.

The public is invited to all services this weekend.

Bomb Threat Closes Carson's Store Here

A bomb threat Wednesday night caused store officials to close the Carson, Pirie, Scott store at the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect.

According to police, the call from a young male, believed to be about 13, was received at 7:50 p.m. by the store's switchboard operator. This was the approximate time the bomb was scheduled to go off, according to the employee.

Fire officials advised that the store be closed early, and it was at 8:21 p.m. An investigation afterwards failed to yield any bomb or other suspicious objects.

If It's Wild, These Gals Are Willing

by STEVE NOVICK

IF NOW, the National Organization of Women, is looking for three female counterparts to the Three Musketeers, they are here in the Northwest suburbs.

They are Cheryl Youmen, Pat Moody and Roberta Reisenbuchler, three blithe spirits who were cavorting through their last day of Christmas vacation at Woodfield Mall and looking for something a little zany to do.

Nothing really malicious, mind you. Nothing to get them in trouble but something... well, different.

They thought of holding a splash party in the Woodfield fountain or roller skating down the ramps and they called a Herald reporter in as witness and recorder. He talked them out of it.

"Get you in trouble for sure," he said. "They'll take you to an office and call your parents to come and get you."

The trio, all juniors at Fremd High School in Palatine, weren't looking for trouble. "We wanted to do something wild at Woodfield," said Pat, with Cheryl adding, "Yes, something insane."

AND IT wouldn't have been the first time the girls have pulled something a little odd.

They once tried to walk into the Playboy Mansion in Chicago. They got as far as the foyer where they were spotted by close circuit television cameras and a security man.

They also tried to get to the top floor of the Hancock building and avoiding the sightseer's fee by riding freight elevators. They got as far as the 92nd floor before getting caught.

"We probably would have been allowed to stay, said Pat, but it was soon after the fire at the building and security was "pretty tight." But on their way out they found the WGN transmitter room and got a brief tour of the facilities.

Closer to home, the girls regularly use the swimming pool and sauna facilities of a nearby hotel without ever being questioned.

This week they were talked out of jumping into the Woodfield pool. But that wasn't their goal anyway. Their goal this week was to get their names and picture in the newspaper.

Federal OK Given To Low-Cost Units

The village of Arlington Heights has received federal approval for 119 units of low-cost housing for senior citizens.

The U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has approved the units for Arlington Heights and earmarked $47,000 for planning, engineering and site selection.

The next step toward the realization of senior citizen housing here is site search, according to Victor Walchirk, executive director of the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), which is acting as the village's agent in negotiations with HUD.

Walchirk said it probably will be two to three years before the units are planned, built and ready for occupancy.

THE VILLAGE of Arlington Heights made application for 250 housing units in May, 1970. This week village officials were notified that Arlington Heights has been approved for 119 units.

In the past, four sites have been mentioned as possible locations for housing for the elderly.

One tentative site mentioned was the triangular piece of property northwest of the Jewel Food Store at Wing Street and Vail Avenue.

The land is already zoned for multi-family development and a proposal to build 99 condominium units on the parcel is now pending before the village board.

A SECOND site that has been talked of is land now occupied by the Hill-Behan

lumberyard, just north of the Municipal Building along Arlington Heights Road.

The village has applied for a federal grant to purchase the Hill-Behan property and develop it for commuter parking.

A third possible location is the Dunton court parking lot, along Vail Avenue between Campbell and Sigwalt streets.

A fourth possible site is on vacant land adjacent to the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged on Oakton Street.

In the past, Walchirk has said that the Lutheran Home site is probably too far from downtown shopping and transportation.

VILLAGE PRES. John Woods said yesterday he was confident there are

"numerous sites in the village" that would be suitable for the housing development.

Woods said he was encouraged by the earmarking of $47,000 for engineering and planning, adding that he felt this was indicative of "an early federal timetable" for the Arlington Heights development.

"This is very good news and we would want to move forward immediately," Woods said.

When completed, rents for one-bedroom apartments in the development would average between $40 and $45 a month, Walchirk said.

Individuals 62 years of age or older, with annual incomes of $4,500 or less, or elderly couples with incomes under $5,000 are eligible for the low-cost housing, Walchirk said.

THE VILLAGE will be allowed to give priority to Arlington Heights residents who want to live in the development, providing the policy is "reasonable," he said.

Since a site is agreed on by the village and CCHA, it must be approved by HUD. The federal government then subsidizes the cost of construction through low-interest bonds.

There is no cost to the community, Walchirk said.

Though Arlington Heights had originally applied for twice as many senior citizen housing units, Walchirk said he felt "extremely fortunate" to get 119 units allocated for Arlington Heights.

"There are very few units available for the entire state," he said. "An economic study by HUD indicates that 119 is a feasible number of units."

2 Escape Injury In $5,000 Trailer Fire

Two persons escaped injury Wednesday when their trailer, at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caught fire after an explosion in the trailer's oil heating system. The fire occurred just 2 1/2 hours before fire protection services from Elk Grove Village were to be terminated to the park.

Damage to the trailer of Zell Clark, 39 Charles, was estimated at $2,500 with another $2,500 in contents lost. Mrs. Clark and her baby were home at the time of the fire, and both escaped uninjured.

Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the fire started in a leaking fuel oil line in the trailer's heating system. He said firemen had a difficult job extinguishing the blaze because oil had saturated the floor of the trailer and had leaked underneath.

Firefighter George Rezny, 37, suffered minor injuries while fighting the blaze.

FIREMEN SAID Mrs. Clark said she heard an explosion and saw fire coming from her furnace, and then she grabbed her baby and ran to a neighbor's trailer to report the fire.

Mrs. Clark said a maintenance man had looked at the leaking furnace earlier that afternoon but had not fixed it, according to firemen.

Hulett said three engines from Elk Grove Village and one from Schaumburg responded to the fire. There are no fire hydrants in the park, and water had to be brought in. An engine from Hoffman Estates stood by at the village headquarters station on Blesterfield Road. The fire was out within 20 minutes, he said.

The fire occurred at 9:29 p.m., 2 1/2 hours before the trailer park lost the fire protection services of Elk Grove Village at midnight. The trailer park, located in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, had been receiving fire protection through an oral contract the late owner, Lewis Gauger, had with the village.

Since Gauger's death two years ago, the heirs and owners of the trailer park have not recognized the contract or existence of any oral agreement.

VILLAGE MGR. Charles Willis said the current owners were sent registered letters last week saying that because the owners failed to meet the terms of any agreement, fire and ambulance services to the trailer park would be terminated as of Jan. 1.

Willis said Tuesday the fire department had been authorized to provide protection through part of Wednesday to avoid any confusion because of the holidays.

Hulett said yesterday he met with Willis at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, and at that time he was told the deadline for fire service to the trailer park would be extended unofficially to midnight as a "final grace period for the owners to work out some arrangement."

"Starting today (Thursday) the fire department will perform only emergency evacuation services to rescue persons from burning buildings, and no ambulance services will be performed," Hulett said. "This is the same policy that applies to other incorporated areas with no fire and ambulance protection contracts with the village."

HULETT SAID the village has received inquiries from residents of the trailer park concerning the possibility of individuals buying fire protection from the village.

He said the fire department could not contract with individual residents without the consent of the board of trustees, which sets the policy for the fire department.

"I personally feel that any contract should be made with the owners, and not on an individual basis and not on a monthly basis," he said. Hulett added that the administrative problems of such a system would be complex.

According to the oral contract with Gauger, the village provided fire and ambulance service to the trailer park in exchange for the use of a trailer. Reportedly part of the agreement was that Gauger would turn over the trailer to the village permanently for ownership at the end of 1972.

In August the village formed an agreement based on the oral agreement with Gauger and presented it to his heirs for execution. The agreement never was signed, according to Willis.

Another letter was written to the current owners, Charles Gauger and Mary Sher, in December saying that failure to return the signed agreement apparently meant the owners were not interested in turning over the trailer to the village as part of the agreement. The trailer was returned to the mobile home park last week.

Snowmobile Races Sunday

Weather permitting, the Wheeling Park District will have its annual snowmobile races Sunday for all amateur snowmobilers from Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights and Northbrook.

The races will be divided into several classes including stock, modified and powder puff divisions. Registration for the event will be today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Heritage Park. There is a $5 registration fee to cover the cost of trophies and cash prizes.

There will be a drivers' briefing at noon Sunday to acquaint participants with the rules governing the race, and the Heritage Park course. Races will begin at 1 p.m.

If the weather is unsuitable for snowmobiling the races will be Jan. 13.

A REPORT TO OUR SAVERS:

As 1973 begins, we are grateful that our progress has been due in great measure to our customers' efforts along the line of thrift and home ownership.

The year 1972 saw the savings and loan business achieve its largest growth both on the savings and the mortgage side of the operations. We are proud to report that this growth pattern was also reflected here at Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Assets of your local association have grown over the 17 million mark, we are happy to report. Loyalty of our savers has been unwavering and will continue our friendly and personal service as an institution large enough to help and small enough to know its customers.

In our opinion 1973 should be another year of growth for the community we serve. Our local housing and real estate markets should remain active. Savings flows should continue strong and assure an ample supply of mortgage money to finance home and apartment purchases.

Itemized Accounting To Be Made

Trustees Want To Know Why Addition Cost Jumped

Members of the Arlington Heights Village Board have asked for an itemized accounting of why a recent addition to the municipal building cost $78,000 more than originally bid.

The new addition, which opened more than a year ago, was bid at $170,000 but wound up costing nearly $237,000. The total bill already has been paid.

The additional cost came to light at a recent meeting of the village board's finance committee, called to discuss an annual audit report.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson told the trustees that the additional costs were brought about by changes in the building's layout and unforeseen construction problems.

The trustees asked Hanson to prepare a report on exactly what changes were ordered in the building and how much they cost.

Hanson cited the addition of a new police radio dispatch room, an additional office, several drinking fountains, as well as problems with the heating and electrical systems as some of the reasons for the building's extra cost.

HANSON ALSO said the architect's fees, which amounted to $21,000, had inadvertently been left out of the original estimate.

Village Finance Director Kenneth Bonder said the wiring and construction of the radio dispatch room cost $36,000 and that the village has only been reimbursed for half that amount under a federal law enforcement grant.

The new addition was paid for with $160,000 from the village's utility tax account. The rest of the money came from the general fund.

With work just now beginning on a $350,000 addition to the public works building, trustees said they felt it was important that they be informed of any additional building expenses as they come up.

TRUSTEE TED SALINSKY said he thought building contractors should be made to stay within their bids in the future.

Hanson said that most of the changes in the municipal building which resulted in the added cost were variations from the original contract which he requested.

"I would appreciate seeing what contributed to the differences," said Trustee Ralph Clabour.

Hanson said he would prepare a report detailing the extra costs.

Parks, Fire Protection Topnotch, Survey Finds

The park district and fire protection in Arlington Heights are topnotch but public transportation leaves a lot to be desired, according to a recent survey.

The survey, conducted by the Center for Urban Studies at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle campus and Harper Junior College, included almost 1,000 residents in 18 suburbs. About 120 Arlington Heights residents participated.

Though the respondents said the park district and fire protection were among the best in the Northwest suburbs, they didn't think any more money should be spent in those areas. They said more money should be spent on public transportation, including more parking, maintenance on existing roads and testing stations for automobiles.

ACCORDING TO the survey, there are few aggravations of suburban living. While 70 per cent of the people questioned said that rush hour congestion is aggravating, less than half said road construction and air plane noise were aggravating. On the low end of the scale, fewer than 10 per cent of the people said that noise, dirt and dust from road construction were aggravating.

Of the people questioned, 70 per cent had moved to Arlington Heights since 1965. Seventeen per cent moved here from Chicago and 43 per cent moved here from another Northwest suburb. Over 53 per cent of the people have two or more cars.

And from the looks of the survey, more than half of the respondents use their car to drive to and from work.

Among reasons many people don't use public transportation are that their job requires a car during working hours and freedom to choose their own time of departure.

Along with respondents from the other 17 suburbs, Arlington Heights residents are satisfied with the quality of education, the air they breathe and the water they drink.

A MAJORITY of people questioned, said the quality of health and hospital services is above average in Arlington Heights. Only respondents from Des Plaines, Elk Grove and Prospect Heights ranked their health services higher than Arlington Heights.

The study, commissioned by the Northwest Municipal Conference, began in 1970. It was delayed over a year because of "unanticipated problems" according to David Groth, a project coordinator.

The survey, which cost $27,000, is being paid for in part by each of the 18 participating municipalities. The cost to Arlington Heights was about $6,800, or 10 cents per capita.

HEAVENLY BODIES. Every year Donald V. Strong, superintendent of Arlington Heights School Dist. 25, is asked to tell the district's nominating committee what qualifications a good school board should possess. This year Strong boiled his concept of the qualifications down to the bare essentials: "Qualifications for school board members are purity, truth and the ability to walk on water," he said.

HIGH AND DRY. Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson was explaining some of the little "extras" that brought the cost of a recent addition to the Municipal Building to well over original estimates. "For example, we found that we'd left water fountains out of the original plans and we wanted to put one in," Hanson told the village finance committee. "Well, I guess when you need a water fountain, you need a water fountain," admitted Trustee Ted Salinsky.

YESTERDAY EVENING was the first time in several days that ice skating rinks in Arlington Heights were skatable. Warm weather over the past week had turned the rinks into chilly swimming pools. Most of the 26 rinks at 13 locations throughout the district should be skatable today. Special care is being taken with the large rinks at Hickory Meadows, Pioneer, Recreation, Heritage, Camelot, Hasbrook and Frontier parks, which maintenance crews flooded nightly.

Federal OK Given To Low-Cost Units

The village of Arlington Heights has received federal approval for 119 units of low-cost housing for senior citizens.

The U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has approved the units for Arlington Heights and earmarked $47,600 for planning, engineering and site selection.

The next step toward the realization of senior citizen housing here is site search, according to Victor Walchirk, executive director of the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), which is acting as the village's agent in negotiations with HUD.

Walchirk said it probably will be two to three years before the units are planned, built and ready for occupancy.

THE VILLAGE of Arlington Heights made application for 250 housing units in May, 1970. This week village officials were notified that Arlington Heights has been approved for 119 units.

In the past, four sites have been mentioned as possible locations for housing for the elderly.

One tentative site mentioned was the triangular piece of property northwest of the Jewel Food Store at Wing Street and Vall Avenue.

The land is already zoned for multi-family development and a proposal to build 99 condominium units on the parcel is now pending before the village board.

A SECOND site that has been talked of is land now occupied by the Hill-Behan lumberyard, just north of the Municipal Building along Arlington Heights Road.

The village has applied for a federal grant to purchase the Hill-Behan property and develop it for commuter parking.

A third possible location is the Dunton court parking lot, along Vall Avenue between Campbell and Sigwalt streets.

A fourth possible site is on vacant land adjacent to the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged on Oakton Street.

In the past, Walchirk has said that the Lutheran Home site is probably too far from downtown shopping and transportation.

VILLAGE PRES. John Woods said yesterday he was confident there are "numerous sites in the village" that would be suitable for the housing development.

Woods said he was encouraged by the earmarking of $47,000 for engineering and planning, adding that he felt this was indicative of "an early federal timetable" for the Arlington Heights development.

"This is very good news and we would want to move forward immediately," Woods said.

When completed, rents for one-bedroom apartments in the development would average between $40 and $45 a month, Walchirk said.

Individuals 62 years of age or older, with annual incomes of $4,500 or less, or elderly couples with incomes under $5,000 are eligible for the low-cost housing, Walchirk said.

THE VILLAGE will be allowed to give priority to Arlington Heights residents who want to live in the development, providing the policy is "reasonable," he said.

Once a site is agreed on by the village and CCHA, it must be approved by HUD.

The federal government then subsidizes the cost of construction through low-interest bonds.

There is no cost to the community, Walchirk said.

Though Arlington Heights had originally applied for twice as many senior citizen housing units, Walchirk said he felt "extremely fortunate" to get 119 units allocated for Arlington Heights.

"There are very few units available for the entire state," he said. "An economic study by HUD indicates that 119 is a feasible number of units."

School Issue Upsets Parents

School Dist. 21 officials reportedly received several telephone calls yesterday from residents of the Northgate subdivision of Arlington Heights. The residents were upset with the possibility of their children being sent to the new Washington Irving School in Buffalo Grove.

They need fear no more.

Officials said yesterday afternoon that the new school will not be a primary school for the subdivision. It will, however, serve the entire Mill Creek subdivision of Buffalo Grove and the new Frenchman's Cove development in Arlington Heights.

Assistant Supt. John Barger said, "The only students that would likely attend Irving school from Northgate would be those who can't fit into Riley school in the future. Right now, plans are for Northgate students to continue to go to Riley."

The district has made no definite boundaries for the new schools, which will be opened in September. However, officials say they are trying to stay with the neighborhood school concept.

Inn Site At Rtes. 12 & 53

Holiday Inn Plans Not Dead

Plans for a new Holiday Inn in northwest Arlington Heights are at a standstill, but not dead.

Edward Forester, president of the corporation that has applied for a Holiday Inn franchise in Arlington Heights, said yesterday that plans to build here have been stalled by lack of construction on Ill. Rte. 53 and a slowdown in growth of northwest Arlington Heights. Plans call for construction of the motel in the vicinity of Rte. 53 and Rand Road.

Forester said he doesn't foresee moving ahead with construction plans until growth in the area resumes. He said it has been at a virtual standstill for two years.

The corporation president also said that traffic flow on Rte. 53 is not yet heavy enough to warrant building of a new motel. He said Rte. 53 would have to be extended north before traffic flow increases. The highway currently stops at Dundee Road, near the general area for the proposed Holiday Inn.

JAMES PITTS, CHIEF of the programming division of the state Department of Transportation, told the Herald that completion of the highway was initially stalled when Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's proposal for a $2 billion bond issue for highway construction was declared unconstitutional four years ago.

Pitts said the state is buying right-of-way and readying plans to extend Rte. 53 north to Rte. 22 east of Lake Zurich. Everything should be ready to begin construction to that point by June, but the governor has not yet announced next year's highway program, he said. Until that is done nothing is certain.

Next summer, Pitts said it would take at least five years for completion. After that, long-range highway plans call for further extension of Rte. 53 to Rte. 120 in Lake County. Pitts could not estimate how long it would take to extend Rte. 53 that far.

Forester said his corporation had hoped for completion of the Rte. 53 extension by this year, Pitts, however said there was never a target date. Pitts said that had Ogilvie's initial bond issue proposal been successful, the extension to Rte. 22 might have been finished by 1976.

A more recent bond issue proposal has passed constitutionality tests, and some funds have already been appropriated, Pitts said.

BUT GROWTH OF the area surrounding the proposed motel has been as much of a hindrance of plans as extension of the highway, Forester said. He said that when initial plans were made to locate a Holiday Inn in northwest Arlington Heights "a couple of years ago," the area was growing rapidly with industrial development. But in the past two years, nothing much has happened in that area, he said.

"I don't know why (development slowed)," Forester said. But he added that his corporation, Holiday Inn, Inc. and local real estate men agree that no go-ahead should be given to motel construction until growth picks up again.

Forester said his corporation has been watching occupancy of Arlington Park Towers Hotel and Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge on Northwest Highway. He said his corporation's two other Holiday Inns, in Rolling Meadows and Mundelein, have done well in comparison. He said that part of the reason for success elsewhere is that communities such as Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg have "aggressively" sought industry for their villages, but Arlington Heights has not.

"I personally hope Arlington Heights people will aggressively go out after industry," Forester said. "If they do, we will aggressively go for construction (of a new Holiday Inn.)"

Intruder Discovered In Arlington Home

When Janice M. Gerleve walked into her home at 8 N. Yale Ave., Arlington Heights, Wednesday night, she discovered a strange man going through her dresser drawers in the master bedroom.

Mrs. Gerleve told police she ran out of the house to the house of a next door neighbor to call police, but the man must have left, too. Police said he was gone when they arrived a short time after receiving the call.

Police have not yet determined what, if anything, was taken from the house, but they did find something they were missing. While searching the house for clues to the intruder's identity, police said they found a village parking meter containing money in the garage of the Gerleve home.

The police investigation of both the break-in and parking meter is continuing.

AN EXPLOSION in the oil heating system of a trailer at Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caused $5,000 damage and left one family homeless Wednesday. The Elk Grove Village Fire Department responded to the fire just 2½ hours before fire protection services to the trailer park from the village were scheduled to be terminated because of the owners' failure to sign a contract with the village.

Didn't Take Long For Thieves To Strike

The Richard Onnen family, 209 S. Princeton Ave., Arlington Heights, was only out of the house for just more than an hour Wednesday night, but when they returned, they found that their home had been burglarized.

Police said the home was entered by breaking a small window in the front door and reaching in to turn the door knob. The house was ransacked, but only about $100, a hunting knife and a checkbook were reported taken. A complete inventory of the Onnens' belongings may turn up more missing items, police said.

Exit from the house was apparently made by climbing out of an upstairs window onto the roof of a porch, which is only a short jump to the ground, police said.

Village Scavenger Service Changes Weighed

The abolition of the annual "Spring Cleanup" and a more liberal definition of the word "garbage" are two possible changes in the village scavenger service now under consideration.

The changes, if adopted, would become effective in January 1974, after the village's present four-year contract with the Laseko Disposal Company expires.

As proposed, the change would allow residents to throw away in their garbage cans up to 50 pounds of almost anything. Residents now are limited to putting only household waste in their garbage cans.

All other refuse must be carried to the curb.

UNDER THE NEW proposal about the only things that could not be put in the can are manure, dead animals or more than 50 pounds of building material, dirt or concrete.

Instead of saving large appliances and pieces of furniture for a once-yearly pickup known as Spring Cleanup, residents would be able to put out these big items on their second collection day each week.

Appliances and other bigger items that weigh less than 50 pounds could be discarded at any time.

The changes, proposed by Village Health Director Frank Charlton have been referred to the finance committee which is preparing specifications for re-bidding the scavenger contract.

CHARLTON SAID the proposed changes were aimed at remedying some of the problems and dissatisfactions residents have conveyed to him.

"I can't be sure that this will solve the problems or merely transfer them somewhere else," Charlton said. "One thing is for sure — garbage collection has got to be simple and unchanging."

Besides the rebidding of the scavenger contract, the finance committee is now faced with a request from the Laseko company for a 50-cent per month increase in its residential rate effective immediately.

The company is asking for the price hike because it says labor costs have risen to the point that it is now losing money on residential service.

London Flu Epidemic Has Passed Area By So Far

A new strain of flu running rampant in portions of the United States — the London flu apparently has passed over the Northwest suburbs, or has not yet arrived.

A check with area school districts yesterday indicated none had experienced a noticeable change in absenteeism rates for this time of year.

Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights also reported nothing out of the usual for this time of year.

"This is the season to be coughing," said Jack Ryan, public relations director for Northwest Community Hospital. "There is always a lot of flu and upper respiratory diseases this time of year."

Symptoms of the London flu are a bad cold, fever, chills and a cough.

Ryan said two people had been hospitalized recently with high fevers but he emphasized two patients hardly constituted an epidemic.

DR. JOHN B. HALL, director of the Cook County Department of Public Health, said the instances of influenza are not abnormally high this year.

"People seem to be getting a lot of colds but this is not to be confused with a real attack of influenza," said Dr. Hall.

"The London flu is a laboratory diagnosis and is not that much different from any other type of influenza," said Dr. Hall. He explained the only way to distinguish between strains of the London and Hong Kong flu are through a series of virology tests.

Dr. Hall said his department watches absenteeism rates in school districts to determine if there is an epidemic. Absenteeism rates usually average between 8 and 10 per cent and a virus does not reach epidemic proportions until the absenteeism rate is between 15 and 20 per cent, he said.

NO LOCAL school districts have reported a significant increase in absences. "It (the flu) is a small thing. It isn't keeping children out for a long time and

2 Escape Injury In $5,000 Trailer Fire

Two persons escaped injury Wednesday when their trailer, at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caught fire after an explosion in the trailer's oil heating system. The fire occurred just 2½ hours before fire protection services from Elk Grove Village were to be terminated to the park.

Damage to the trailer of Zell Clark, 39 Charles, was estimated at $2,500 with another $2,500 in contents lost. Mrs. Clark and her baby were home at the time of the fire, and both escaped uninjured.

Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the fire started in a leaking fuel oil line in the trailer's heating system. He said firemen had a difficult job extinguishing the blaze because oil had saturated the floor of the trailer and had leaked underneath.

Firefighter George Reznay, 37, suffered minor injuries while fighting the blaze.

FIREMEN SAID Mrs. Clark said she heard an explosion and saw fire coming from her furnace, and then she grabbed her baby and ran to a neighbor's trailer to report the fire.

Mrs. Clark said a maintenance man had looked at the leaking furnace earlier that afternoon but had not fixed it, according to Hulett.

Hulett said three engines from Elk Grove Village and one from Schaumburg responded to the fire. There are no fire hydrants in the park, and water had to be brought in. An engine from Hoffman Estates stood by at the village headquarters station on Bluestem Road. The fire was out within 20 minutes, he said.

The fire occurred at 9:29 p.m., 2½ hours before the trailer park lost the fire protection services of Elk Grove Village at midnight. The trailer park, located in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, had been receiving fire protection through an oral contract the late owner, Lewis Gauger, had with the village.

Since Gauger's death two years ago, the heirs and owners of the trailer park have not recognized the contract or existence of any oral agreement.

VILLAGE MGR. Charles Willis said the current owners were sent registered letters last week saying that because the owners failed to meet the terms of any agreement, fire and ambulance services to the trailer park would be terminated as of Jan. 1.

Willis said Tuesday the fire department had been authorized to provide protection through part of Wednesday to avoid any confusion because of the holidays.

Hulett said yesterday he met with Willis at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, and at that time he was told the deadline for fire service to the trailer park would be extended unofficially to midnight as a "final grace period for the owners to work out some arrangement."

"Starting today (Thursday) the fire department will perform only emergency evacuation services to rescue persons from burning buildings, and no ambulance services will be performed," Hulett said. "This is the same policy that applies to other incorporated areas with no fire and ambulance protection contracts with the village."

HULETT SAID the village has received inquiries from residents of the trailer park concerning the possibility of individuals buying fire protection from the village.

He said the fire department could not contract with individual residents without the consent of the board of trustees, which sets the policy for the fire department.

"I personally feel that any contract should be made with the owners, and not on an individual basis, and not on a monthly basis," he said. Hulett added that the administrative problems of such a system would be complex.

According to the oral contract with Gauger, the village provided fire and ambulance service to the trailer park in exchange for the use of a trailer. Reportedly part of the agreement was that Gauger would turn over the trailer to the village permanently for ownership at the end of 1972.

In August the village formed an agreement based on the oral agreement with Gauger and presented it to his heirs for execution. The agreement never was signed, according to Willis.

Another letter was written to the current owners, Charles Gauger and Mary Sher, in December saying that failure to return the signed agreement apparently meant the owners were not interested in turning over the trailer to the village as part of the agreement. The trailer was returned to the mobile home park last week.

Mundelein Pair Hurt In Auto, Truck Collision

A Mundelein couple is in Northwest Community Hospital after a collision involving their car with a truck that was parked on Rand Road in Arlington Heights early Thursday morning.

Debra E. Palony, 10, is listed in serious condition in the intensive care unit of the hospital with head and facial injuries. Her husband, Gary F. Palony, 21, is listed in fair condition with a knee fracture and lacerations. They were taken to the hospital by Arlington Heights Fire Department ambulance.

Palony told police he was southeast-bound in the inner lane of Rand Rd., just east of Hinckley Road at 12:15 a.m. Thursday when his wife screamed, "Look out." Palony said he applied his brakes and saw a truck stopped in his lane without lights. He said he tried to swerve, but traffic in the other lane made it impossible. He collided with the truck.

Police said the driver of the truck was Francis E. Tomasek, 34, 2735 N. Brighton Pl., Arlington Heights. He was not injured in the crash, but told police he does not recall the accident.

Tomasek was charged with driving while intoxicated, being on a highway without lights and obstructing traffic.

Official Hits Unit District Effort In Elk Grove Schools

8 Section I Friday, January 5, 1973 THE HERALD

A Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board member has urged his board to formally protest any efforts of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 to form a unit district (grades K-12).

Alan Krinsky, a member of an informal committee made up of officials from eight local school districts to discuss unit districting, made the recommendation.

He told Dist. 23 board members Wednesday night they should consider passing a resolution protesting what he termed were "Dist. 59's efforts to pull away from High School Dist. 214."

Currently a citizens' committee in Dist. 59 is studying the feasibility of a unit district for the Dist. 59 area. The committee has stressed that no conclusions on the matter have been reached yet.

However, according to a report made by a professional consultant service last September, there are no apparent barriers to the formation of a unit district in the Dist. 59 area. One possibility, according to the report, would be a unit district made up of Dist. 59 elementary schools and Elk Grove and Forest View high schools. The two high schools now belong to High School Dist. 214.

Alan Krinsky

DIST. 59 Supt. James Ertvi has said that a unit district provides a better educational program for students because it allows for a continuity of education between grammar and high school under a single school board and administration.

But Krinsky said, "I think Dist. 59 is trying to get out of their own (financial) problem at the expense of every other district in the area. I don't think they could hack it and I think their kids would have it worse than they do now."

Krinsky said if every school district became a unit district, Illinois would go bankrupt. Under the state aid formula, unit districts receive more money from the state than dual districts (K-8).

Krinsky also charged that Dist. 59 is trying to dodge its financial problems by forming a unit district including Centex Industrial Park. Formation of a unit district in that area would remove the industrial park from the tax base of Dist. 214.

"I think their motivations are not as much educational as they are selfish," he said.

THE BOARD will vote on Krinsky's recommendation at its meeting next Wednesday. Board member Ronald Sawatzke said he "seconded" the recommendation. Several other board members also expressed opinions.

"I think Dist. 59's basis for expecting financial gains from a unit district is faulty," said board member Lori Sarnier. "I think school financing will change."

Another thing is the schools are not set up geographically for a unit district, said John Stull, board member.

PTA Notes

PTA COUNCIL — An evaluation of a questionnaire sent to parents last fall asking their views about PTA will be the main topic Wednesday at the Arlington Heights Council of PTAs meeting at Kensington School, 201 S. Evanston, Arlington Heights, at 1:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served following small group discussions of the questionnaire.

While about 70 per cent of the parents in the district belong to the PTA this year, 100 per cent of the teachers are PTA members.

Student Drug Use, Purchase May Be Expulsion Grounds

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 students found using or buying dangerous drugs on school property or during a school-sponsored activity would be suspended immediately under a new policy now being considered by the school board.

The board would also consider expelling any student "engaged in the distribution or selling of behavior-affecting drugs" on school grounds, according to the policy which will be voted on next Wednesday. The policy defines those drugs as marijuana, narcotics, hallucinogens or "any other dangerous drug."

"I'm not in the business of expelling students," said Supt. Edward Grodzky who is recommending adoption of the new rule. "But I feel that if we have one child that might be affecting 100 others by using or selling drugs, we have to do something."

Grodzky said he drew up the policy at the urging of the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB). "They've been telling us (school districts) we'd better protect ourselves in case we get any cases like this," Grodzky said. "As far as I know, we haven't had any situations like this yet. But I'm not walking around with my head in the sand, thinking everything is all right."

The policy also states that students found "under the influence" of drugs on school property or during a school-sponsored activity would be immediately suspended. For readmission to school, the board is considering requiring a written confirmation from a physician that the student has talked to him about his drug involvement.

A REPORT TO OUR SAVERS:

As 1973 begins, we are grateful that our progress has been due in great measure to our customers' efforts along the line of thrift and home ownership.

The year 1972 saw the savings and loan business achieve its largest growth both on the savings and the mortgage side of the operations. We are proud to report that this growth pattern was also reflected here at Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Assets of your local association have grown over the 17 million mark, we are happy to report. Loyalty of our savers has been unwavering and will continue our friendly and personal service as an institution large enough to help and small enough to know its customers.

In our opinion 1973 should be another year of growth for the community we serve. Our local housing and real estate markets should remain active. Savings flows should continue strong and assure an ample supply of mortgage money to finance home and apartment purchases.

Transportation, Noise, Pollution Top Complaints

Lack of public transportation, noise and pollution control are the greatest complaints of Des Plaines residents, a recently released. Northwest Municipal Conference transportation study says.

About 75 per cent of residents sampled here by the Center for Urban Studies of the University of Illinois at Chicago Circle ranked public transportation "poor" or "very poor." About 42 per cent called air pollution control "poor" or "very poor."

The two controversial topics have been subject of citizen criticism here for years. The Des Plaines Mass Transit District received city council authorization last month to negotiate a purchase price for United Motor Coach Co. A U.S. Environmental Protection Agency study in September called O'Hare Airport noise a health hazard that threatens the hearing of area residents.

RECEIVING "very good" and "good" marks in Des Plaines were education (91 per cent), water (80 per cent), police and fire protection (92 per cent), parks and recreation (80 per cent) and health-hospital services (81 per cent).

The survey was conducted by the conference in fall 1970. About 1,000 residents in 18 Northwest suburbs were interviewed in 1971 and 1972.

DES PLAINES totals were based on 134 interviews here, about 13 per cent of the total survey sample.

The totals released for Des Plaines fell in line with criticism and praise offered by residents of neighboring communities. Six municipalities showed 50 per cent or higher ratings for education with Des Plaines first at 58 and Arlington Heights second at 54.8 per cent. Nine communities showed 10 per cent or higher "very good" ratings for water. All communities gave top marks to police and fire protection.

CITY RESIDENTS listed three main "sources of aggravation"—traffic congestion during rush hour (74 per cent), noise produced by airplanes (58 per cent), and disruption caused by road pavement construction (53 per cent).

The residents approved of "more money" for air pollution control (69 per cent) and public transportation (75 per cent). More than half of the residents called for the same or less spending for schools, water, police and fire, roads and parks.

The study, officially a "transportation development project," keyed on travel in the suburbs.

More than 82 per cent of the residents here rated bus service poor or very poor.

ABOUT 51 per cent called railroad parking average or poor; 54 per cent called downtown parking average or poor; 46 per cent said street lighting is poor or average; and 51 per cent rated road quality average or poor.

The Chicago and North Western Ry. received top praise from those questioned. About 37.6 per cent called the commuter service very good and 51.7 rated the railroad good. The C&NW received no poor or very poor marks.

TRAFFIC law enforcement received a 70 per cent very good or good rating and snow removal was ranked as very good or good by 78 per cent.

Demographic information collected by the center showed that about 14.7 per cent of residents sampled lived outside the Chicago area before moving here. About 36.5 per cent moved here from other Northwest suburbs and 45 per cent lived in Chicago.

Only 6.78 per cent of Des Plaines families surveyed do not own a car, the survey states. About 45.8 per cent own one car and 38.1 per cent have two cars.

About half of residents sampled claimed household incomes of $10,000 to $14,999. About 28 per cent topped $15,000 and 14.9 per cent were under $5,000.

Des Plaines showed the largest per cent (29) of persons earning less than $10,000 income of the 18 suburbs listed.

19 Telephones Stolen From Repair Truck

Nineteen telephones valued at $788 and $55 worth of equipment were reported stolen Wednesday from a Central Telephone Co. repair truck in Des Plaines.

According to reports the phones and equipment were stolen from the locked truck at a company garage at 1201 E. Touhy Ave. A key was apparently used to enter the truck, police said.

It was the third reported theft from a telephone repair truck in Des Plaines during the last month. The two previous thefts occurred at the company's Oakton Street garage.

List Narrowed To Three Sites

Oakton Eyes Northfield Township

Oakton Community College hopes to annex Northfield Township within the next month before moving ahead on selecting a permanent campus site.

The decision was made Wednesday night by the Oakton Community College citizen's site committee after the committee narrowed down site alternatives to three parcels of property in the college district.

Northfield Township has not become part of a junior college district but will be forced to do so because of a new state law by 1974. Oakton has offered to annex the township and its secondary school system, Glenbrook High School Dist. 225.

The citizen's committee hopes to persuade Northfield residents to join Oakton's district by Feb. 15, offering them a voice in site selection.

The township or a portion of it can annex to Oakton's district by passing a referendum.

Oakton's district, made up of Maine and Niles townships, has a limited amount of land available for a community college campus. The college, which has failed twice to acquire a site, is looking toward sparsely populated Northfield and its abundance of open land.

AFTER ALMOST three hours of discussion Wednesday night and a review of remaining site alternative in Oakton's district, the citizen's committee decided it could not pick a site without investigating the possibility of annexing Northfield Township.

The addition of Northfield, which borders Oakton's district on the north, would increase the area of the college district by more than 50 per cent, affecting enrollment projections and campus needs. It would also add a new dimension to one of the most important criteria for site selection, a central location in the college district. If Northfield does annex, residents there will also be invited to join the citizen's committee.

Dist. 225 superintendent Forrest S. Sheely said yesterday school officials have made no decision to annex but are meeting with residents of other townships on the North Shore that are not in a college district to discuss a number of alternatives in forming a college. One of those alternatives is to join Oakton's district, said Sheely.

Sheely said the Glenbrook board wants to get all the facts before making a decision. He said the board, and other high school boards on the North Shore, have been investigating junior college alternatives with the help of Gerald Smith, former executive secretary of the Illinois Junior College Board.

OAKTON's citizen's committee hopes to meet with Smith and members of the Glenbrook board to convince them to annex to Oakton's district within the next month.

The citizen's committee discussed a number of site alternatives in Oakton's district Wednesday night. Sites that have not been considered previously by Oakton officials are part of a confidential report prepared by the site committee of the college board of trustees, chaired by trustee Paul Gilson.

Gilson read portions of the report Wednesday night. Alternatives mentioned by Gilson include the temporary campus site at 7900 N. Nagle Ave., Morton Grove; a 15-acre site on Austin Avenue in Morton Grove formerly occupied by the Mortelwell Corp.; a 15-acre site owned by H.M. Harper Co., located north of the Crane Packing Co., on Oakton Street in Morton Grove; the Lawrence wood Shopping Center at Oakton Street and Waukegan Road in Niles; a 30-acre site formerly occupied by the Croname Co. on Howard Street in Niles; and a 180 site owned by the Zenith Radio Corp., located on Central Road in Northfield Township.

Two sites that have been under consideration by the college since site investigations began almost three years ago are located in the Northwest corner of the college district and owned by the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese.

THE COMMITTEE narrowed down the selection to the temporary campus site and the two northwest sites but withheld final selection until the entire committee is present and a decision could be reached on annexing Northfield.

The proposed plan for developing the temporary campus as a permanent site includes eight acres on the present temporary campus and 22 additional acres

Construction Here Increases $7 Million

Construction of buildings in Des Plaines increased more than $7 million from 1971 to 1972.

The annual building department report showed more than $20.5 million in construction here. Construction in 1971 totaled about $13.3 million. The 1972 total was third highest in seven years.

Des Plaines issued 928 building permits last year, an increase of 58 over 1971. About $140,954 in fees were collected by Building Contr. Alfred Prickett.

Commercial construction topped the valuation list with $5.27 million in 18 buildings. Twenty-one apartment buildings, with 297 units, were built for about $4 million.

The report showed construction of 102 residences totaling $2.9 million. Only 48 home permits were issued in 1971 and 31 were issued in 1970.

Construction in December totaled $737,318, according to Prickett's monthly report. Thirty-seven permits, 11 for commercial alterations, were issued in December.

Mental Health Panel Requests $3,700

The Maine Township Mental Health Association has "petitioned" the Des Plaines City Council for $3,700 to offset an estimated $20,000 operating deficit.

Clinic Director Edward Baranowski is expected to attend the Jan. 15 council meeting to seek approval of the fund request.

Ald. Robert Sherwood, chairman of the health and welfare committee, asked the council to authorize expenditure of the funds Jan. 2. But, Sherwood's motion was delayed because of lack of information to support the request.

The council budgeted $5,500 for consultation expenses at the clinic, 832 Busse Hwy., Park Ridge, last year.

About $1,565.50 was spent through a contract for treatment of juveniles referred by the Police department. Fees paid by the city are based on the difference between the total charge, about $30 an hour, and payments from the offender's family.

The petition contends that 54.1 per cent of clinic patients, 237 persons in 2,275 interviews, were Des Plaines residents last year. The clinic moved from Des Plaines to Park Ridge in November.

CLINIC staff members also made 125 visits to home-bound or confined Des Plaines patients last year, the three-page petition stated.

"We request that the unexpected portion of the 1972 appropriation . . . be approved for payment to alleviate the deficit . . . incurred in delivering these services to the residents of Des Plaines," the petition states.

The clinic, which has faced operating deficits for six years, received $20,583 in fees last year. The clinic is not funded with township funds and received $9,123 from city residents, $20,306 from private sources including the Community Chest and $103,500 from the state.

The total clinic budget this year is $177,000, and increase from $12,000 in 1967. Baranowski predicts a 15 per cent budget jump next year with $50,000 needed from local funds.

Lawyers To Hear Probate Expert

"Everything You've Always Wanted To Know About Estates and Probate Practice But Didn't Know Whom To Ask" might very well be the title for Judge Anthony Kogut's talk before the Northwest Suburban Bar Association's meeting Wednesday in Des Plaines.

Judge Kogut, known as the "right arm" of Judge Robert Dunne, chief of probate division of the Cook County Circuit Court, is the man with the answers lawyers need in matters of wills, estates, and probate practice.

He will discuss these areas and answer questions from the audience at the monthly dinner meeting in the Elks Lodge, 494 Lee St. Cocktails will begin at 6 p.m., with dinner at 7 p.m.

Reservation can be made at the bar association's executive office, 233-2562, according to Dennis Nudo, 123 N. Northwest Hwy., Park Ridge, program chairman.

Attorneys who live or practice in the North and Northwest suburbs are invited to participate in the activities of the Northwest Suburban Bar Association. As a service to the public, NWSBA maintains a lawyer referral service through its executive office in Mount Prospect.

adjacent to it. The property is owned by a number of companies all of which are unwilling to sell the land to the college. The campus is now leased by the college with about eight years remaining on the lease.

The plan includes three acres of buildings of two or three stories and about 20 acres of parking. If that site is selected, the college hopes to use athletic fields located on the nearby Niles West High School campus.

Total cost of the 22-acre site is estimated at $13.6 million. The site is centrally located and has fair access from existing roads. Disadvantages of the site are high cost, an unwilling seller and limited expansion possibilities.

The two northwest sites have been offered for sale. One located south of Central Road and east of the Des Plaines River would cost about $12.58 million for 122 acres. The other located at Wolf and Foundry Roads in Des Plaines would cost about $12.475 million for 130 acres. Both are large sites with adequate room for expansion at low cost. Disadvantages of the sites are their poor location in the district, poor access to the sites from existing roads, and drainage problems.

The other sites mentioned by Gilson were eliminated by the committee Wednesday night due to high price, an unwilling seller, and small size. The Croname site, offered for sale to the college two months ago has been sold to a new owner and is occupied.

STEPHEN LOSKA, trustee from Des Plaines, introduced a new site to the committee in executive session Wednesday night. The identity of the site was not disclosed to the public but the committee agreed to investigate the feasibility of the site for a campus before its next meeting in February.

The committee reported on a meeting Dec. 28 with Willard Brown of Palatine, member of the Illinois Junior College Board. Brown encouraged Oakton to persuade Northfield Township residents to join Oakton's district saying the combination of Oakton's district with Northfield is a "natural annexation."

Brown told the Herald yesterday he would object if Harper College decided to build its second campus in Wheeling Township, adjacent to Oakton's district on the Northwest. Harper's present campus in Palatine is severely overcrowded and officials are looking for a second site. Brown said the population growth in Harper's district is on the western edge of the district near Barrington and Palatine and the college should build there.

If Oakton chooses one of the northwest sites, the Illinois Junior College Board "would certainly give some consideration" to disannexing the eastern part of Harper college and placing it in Oakton's district.

Brown is a vice president at Arthur Rubloff and Co., a real estate firm, and often advises the state board on real estate matters.

Des Plaines Water Passes Federal Test

Des Plaines water has passed its federal standards test.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency announced this week that Des Plaines, Peoria, Lemont, Moline, Wood River and Belleville "have been classified as having met established federal standards for use by interstate carriers." The classification expires Sept. 30.

The federal approval came eight months after the city's $10,000 water testing laboratory was certified by the Illinois Department of Public Health. The lab conducts about 60 tests a month from samples taken at public places, including city hall and schools.

"Under federal quarantine regulations, water supplies from which buses, trains and airplanes take the water which they serve to their passengers, must meet standards set by EPA," Regional Administrator Francis T. Mayo said. Des Plaines water is used by companies that prepare meals for flights from O'Hare Airport.

Scouting News

Cub Scout Pack 14 held its Christmas party and pack meeting at Forest School Dec. 15. Den 1 presented the opening ceremony, followed by a "skating" game with the boys using shoeboxes instead of skates.

Cubmaster Richard Anderson introduced Mr. and Mrs. Jim Morley to the pack. Morley will become the new cubmaster this year. It was also announced that Larry Chamberlain will be the new committee chairman.

Den mother patches were presented to Mary Corsten, Sue McGovern, and Marsha Higgins.

A uniform inspection was given by the den chiefs, assisted by scouts from Troop 6, led by Scoutmaster Bob Enders.

THE HIGHLIGHT of the evening was a visit from Santa Claus who presented candy canes and pinewood derby kits to all the boys. Mrs. Joseph Libretti led the pack in the singing of Christmas carols and the Cub Scouts decorated a tree with ornaments they had made earlier in their dens.

Ken Lundgren and his parents were called forward and Ken received his Bobcat pin after reciting the cub promise.

John Luttgens and his parents also came forward and John received his Bear badge and gold and silver arrows. John was taken into Webelos den by Don Miller, Webelos leader.

OTHER AWARDS were as follows: Den 1 — Greg Wolfinger, Bear Badge, gold arrow, Webelos Den — John Peterson, Citizen; Randy Trost, Sportsman, Aquanaut; Steve Anderson, Aquanaut; Peter Falstad, Aquanaut; Mike Brennen, Forester; Jeff Kargl, Aquanaut, Engineer; Doug Balut, Forester, and Mike Miller, Engineer.

A Christmas skit was presented by Den 2 under the leadership of Marsha Higgins and Brigitta Preibisch. Den 1 gave the closing ceremony and refreshments were served afterwards.

Two Tanks Replaced

Gasoline Leaks Discovered

The Des Plaines Fire Prevention Bureau has found leaks in the underground gasoline storage tanks at two local service stations and is testing tanks for possible leaks at two more sites, it was learned yesterday.

Auto Stickers May Be Purchased Saturdays

The Des Plaines city hall will be open from 8:30 a.m. until noon Saturdays in January for purchase of 1973 vehicle stickers. The tags are $10 each.

The city sold more than 28,000 1972 stickers which expired Dec. 31.

City hall is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays for stickers purchase.

Lt. Richard Arthur told the Herald leaks were found at Ye-Old Town Pump, 379 S. River Rd., and the Clark Oil Co. station, 1469 Rand Rd., last month.

Arthur said the leaking tanks in both stations have been replaced and that other service stations in the area have been checked for leaks.

Arthur said the leaks were discovered after the fire prevention bureau received complaints of a strong odor of gasoline detected in the Isle of Man Tavern, River and Rand Roads, next door to Ye-Old Town Pump.

THE FIRE prevention bureau is now testing for leaks in the area of Dempster Street and Elmhurst Road after evidence of "petroleum products" were found in a water meter vault near there, Arthur said.

So far a leak has been found in the underground gasoline storage tank at Ron's 66 Station, 800 S. Elmhurst Rd., according to Arthur. He said tests for leaks at other service stations in the area won't be completed until next week.

Arthur said the fire prevention bureau has been testing for leaks whenever a complaint is reported. He said the bureau usually tests all the service stations in an area rather than just the one where the original leak is reported.

The Illinois Institute of Environmental Quality last fall said it would launch a study into the adequacy of state laws and regulations governing gasoline storage tanks but so far the study hasn't been started.

Larry Hardin, an engineer with the Institute, told the Herald yesterday he still is looking for the "right man" to do the study. Hardin said when the study is completed the results will be turned over to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, which enforces the state's pollution laws, and the Illinois Pollution Control Board, which sets up the state's pollution control regulations.

Candidate Nights Planned

The School Community Council of Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 is planning several candidates' nights to encourage voter turnout for the April school board election.

Kae Rairdin, president of the council, said one night has been scheduled for April 11 at Grove Junior High School. At this meeting, candidates for both the school board and the Elk Grove Village Board will be present.

Another candidate night will be scheduled at a site in the school district north of the Northwest Tollway. This night will be used to present candidates for the Dist. 59, High School Dist. 214 and Harper Community College boards.

OTHER NIGHTS may also be scheduled.

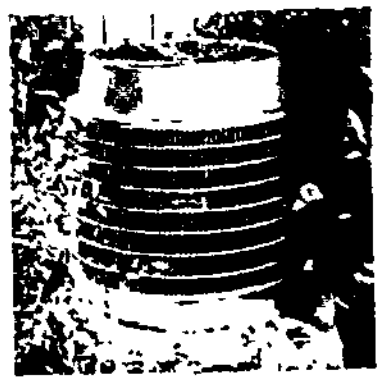

Mrs. Rairdin said the council wants to increase voter turnout because school board elections normally have a small number of voters, despite the fact that the school district operates a multi-million dollar budget and takes the biggest percentage of personal property taxes.

Up for election this year are three members on the seven-member board, each for a three-year term. Of the three incumbents, whose terms are over, Judy Zanca, Sharrie Hildebrandt and Harry Peterson, only Mrs. Zanca has said she plans to run for re-election.

The School Community Council is non-partisan in the elections, declining to endorse any candidate.

Mrs. Rairdin said she expects the council to take a stand on any issues in the election.

Carrier's round compact air conditioning unit goes into hiding every year. The round one sends the hot air out, not out to the sides like the square units. Shapes can grow up around it. You can forget it. Carrier's round one is better than the boxes for other good reasons. The coil is curved to give you a larger cooling space area. You have more efficient, more compact, more economical air conditioning. The cost? Only $200.00 for the 24,000 Btu/h. Model 34CF 002 (cooling capacity in room hours). Official Hits Elk Grove Unit District Effort

A Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board member has urged his board to formally protest any efforts of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 to form a unit district (grades K-12).

Alan Krinsky, a member of an informal committee made up of officials from eight local school districts to discuss unit districting, made the recommendation. He told Dist. 23 board members Wednesday night they should consider passing a resolution protesting what he termed were "Dist. 59's efforts to pull away from High School Dist. 214."

Currently a citizens' committee in Dist. 59 is studying the feasibility of a unit district for the Dist. 59 area. The committee has stressed that no conclusions on the matter have been reached yet.

Alan Krinsky

Printing, Office Equipment Stolen

Printing and office equipment valued at $2,500 was stolen this week in a burglary at Village Printery, 1280 Miner St.

According to police reports, thieves broke in through a boarded-up window and took several pieces of equipment after ransacking the office.

However, according to a report made by a professional consultant service last September, there are no apparent barriers to the formation of a unit district in the Dist. 59 area. One possibility, according to the report, would be a unit district made up of Dist. 59 elementary schools and Elk Grove and Forest View high schools. The two high schools now belong to High School Dist. 214.

DIST. 59 Supt. James Ertvi has said that a unit district provides a better educational program for students because it allows for a continuity of education between grammar and high school under a single school board and administration.

But Krinsky said, "I think Dist. 59 is trying to get out of their own (financial) problem at the expense of every other district in the area. I don't think they could hack it and I think their kids would have it worse than they do now."

Krinsky said if every school district became a unit district, Illinois would go bankrupt. Under the state aid formula, unit districts receive more money from the state than dual districts (K-8).

Krinsky also charged that Dist. 59 is trying to dodge its financial problems by forming a unit district including Centex Industrial Park. Formation of a unit district in that area would remove the industrial park from the tax base of Dist. 214.

"I think their motivations are not as much educational as they are selfish," he said.

THE BOARD will vote on Krinsky's recommendation at its meeting next Wednesday. Board member Ronald Swartzke said he "seconded" the recommendation. Several other board members also expressed opinions.

"I think Dist. 59's basis for expecting financial gains from a unit district is faulty," said board member Lori Garner. "I think school financing will change."

Another thing is the schools are not set up geographically for a unit district, said John Stull, board member.

Injuries Cloud Picture; Warriors Entertain East

by MIKE KLEIN

Attacking without their usual firepower, Maine East and West oppose forces this evening in an important Central Suburban League game for both clubs.

Tipoff is 8 p.m. at West. This showing is rated G so the youngsters.

East will operate without 6-5 center Bill Castonzo. And West might get just sporadic appearances from 6-8 pivotman Doug Myers. Both fell victim to sprained ankles during the Niles Township Tourney.

Also, Warrior forward Chris Bouchée has developed something of a permanent injury to his left knee. "They tell me it'll be a game-by-game thing with him," said coach Gaston Freeman.

Key injuries couldn't have stricken either basketball club at a worse time. There are Central Suburban divisional titles available for the right price. East and West both have shots.

Given the right circumstances, either could be clenching a portion of first place in their respective divisions after Friday night.

It'll be a weekend of first and second place matchups with North leader New Trier West and South leader Maine South battling tonight.

East trails New Trier and the Warriors are runner-ups behind Maine South. Wins by New Trier and West would put the Warriors in a 3-1 tie with Maine South. Triumphs from East and Maine South will square the Blue Demons with New Trier.

So there's much to be gained tonight. But neither East nor West can strike with a full armament.

Castonzo, far and away East's leading rebounder with 108 and an 11.1 scorer, will watch 6-8 Rich Schumacher fill his shoes.

"It's not exactly what I'd like to do because we'd very dearly like to beat Gaston on Friday," East coach Paul McClelland stated.

"But it'll be pretty rough. With Castonzo out, it all depends upon what we can do on the boards."

Schumacher moves over from one forward where, as a starter, he's tallied just 27 points and 24 rebounds. Greg Maloney (9.9) will start at forward with Mike Faden (11.6).

While Castonzo is on crutches and might not be ready for two weeks, Myers is touch and go for Freeman's Warriors. He sat out two wins that gave West a consolation title in the recent Niles Tourney. But he did practice Tuesday.

Should Myers remain hobbled, West's Jim Olsen will probably oppose East's Schumacher. Olsen, 7.4 scoring and 4.7 rebounding, is an inch shorter, somewhat lighter and much quicker than Schumacher.

He'd find a more comparable center in East's Faden who played the position last year before Castonzo took over when the Blue Demons participated in the 1971 DeKalb Holiday Tournament.

A sidelined Bouchée would be replaced by Paul Peaso for West. "He can't jump as well. His mobility's been reduced," Freeman said about effects of Bouchée's knee injury.

Beyond the miles of tape and twisted joints that prevail at both campuses, there exists a reason to favor West in this matchup between brothers who draw blood from the same taxpayers.

And that difference is Joe Thimm. Most Valuable Player in the Niles Township Tourney. The rebounding and scoring key behind West's consolation title.

"We know Thimm will get his 20 points," said East's McClelland who indicated a Faden-Thimm defensive matchup.

"It's kind of like with Alcindor (Kareem Abdul-Jabbar). You know he's going to do what he wants so you've got to concentrate on doing something with the other four men," McClelland stated.

"Thimm did what we thought he could do in the tourney. And he did it very well."

That included point efforts of 21, 28 and 19 during the post-Christmas frolics. And in victories, the 6-5 All-CSL forward tallied 14 rebounds against St. Viator plus 19 over Fremd.

"The boy was fabulous," said Freeman who will host Wheeling Saturday night. "I thought he did a great job for us handling the press, handling the boards and going to the basket."

"And you know, it's a funny thing," Freeman continued. "Even though he was pleased, he still feels he could have done more."

"I'm very happy for him, not only as a player, but he's a good friend of my son (guard Bruce Freeman) so I see both sides of him. He's a marvelous boy to coach."

Thimm's recent surges have upped his per game showings to 19.0 scoring and 11.5 rebounding. He's already attracted inquiries from Iowa State, East Texas, Eastern Illinois, Clemson and the Naval Academy.

The long-armed senior dominates play for the Warriors. He's everything that Castonzo must be for Maine East. And with no Castonzo, the burden may be too large for McClelland's Blue Demons.

SKIER'S BEST FRIEND. Wearing the easily recognizable member of the National Ski Patrol lends a helping hand to an injured skier.

Central Suburban League Basketball

Questions Follow Holiday Action

by MIKE KLEIN

Happy 1973 five days late. We hope it wasn't an aspirin experience.

With that courtesy aside, let's retire to more pleasant topics. The Central Suburban League resumes its family basketball wars tonight with social engagements at six sites.

The questions surface. Can New Trier West, 4-4 overall, maintain its North Division lead (3-0)? Will runner-up Maine East pass the same Cowboys?

How long will Glenbrook South and Maine North remain winless in league play? And just how revitalized is Niles West which won the Niles Township Tourney without All-CSL Brad Cartwright?

But the perennial and still forefront query: Will anyone shoot down Maine South, surely angered after two losses in ten games?

Weekends will pass, scores will be registered and the answers known. Time heals some wounds and smooths out most problems.

But to look back for a moment. It has not been a glorious season for the Central Suburban League. Seven schools trail losing records behind. And the league won only nine of 21 post-Christmas tourney encounters.

One tourney title fell to the Central Suburban, Niles West winning the aforementioned affair at Notre Dame.

You may argue that five conference schools played there, pretty well wiping up the field. Maine East finished second and Maine West won the consolation title.

But minus that new CSL hardware, it was a bitter cold tourney season for the

Maine South, still a possible state title threat, saw its tourney hopes dashed during second round action at East Aurora. East Leyden triumphed, 74-72, over the surrendering Hawks.

Bernie Brady's crew did tromp New Trier West for third place.

But elsewhere, Niles schools East and North were early eliminations at the Township Tourney; Deerfield lost twice at Pontiac; Highland Park dumped two at Danville, as did Glenbrook South at Pekin.

Glenbrook North managed a consolation title in the feeble Naperville tourney, losing to Wheaton North before decisioning Schaumburg and Glenbard South.

So we wonder where the Central Suburban League is heading. It's currently subpar with 51 wins and 63 losses. And even within itself, there's apparently no balance.

Five of six North Division teams, Maine East excluded, have negative records. The North is 18-37 overall. The South carries a 33-26 mark and has four clubs with winning records.

A very few teams are clothing themselves with success. Most notable of late: Billy Schnurr's Niles West Indians.

They stamped out a 68-47 title game victory on Maine East in the Niles Township Tourney. "I figured we had a good shot at it but didn't think we stood as the favorite after Cartwright was hurt," Schnurr said.

"Especially after some problems we had putting things together immediately following his injury," Cartwright hurt one ankle during Niles West's 57-56 loss to Niles North.

Then the Indians fell to Deerfield prior to four victories which have carried them thru the successful holiday. Niles should smash Glenbrook South tonight at the Titan school.

Cartwright had his left leg cast removed Wednesday. The ankle hibernated 26 days.

When Schnurr's world apparently caved in, a non-rostered player came to the rescue. And now, Schnurr says, it may be hard to bench Marty Block when Cartwright returns.

The 5-8 sophomore guard topped all scorers with 19 points in the title game against Maine East. He had 14 points, seven rebounds and directed the Niles attack in a 53-48 win over Notre Dame.

The Schnurr has reason to smile, counterpart Brady at Maine South must apparently wait another year to put the clamps on East Aurora, third in the 1972 IHSA Class AA state finals.

His Hawks lost one regular season game last winter. And what a loss! East Aurora, in its tourney, pummeled Maine, 100-69.

So perhaps the Hawks were looking past Easy Leyden when the two met during second round action last week at East Aurora. "Oh, no," maintained Brady before admitting, "Well, maybe."

Anyhow, the Hawks led a five point fourth quarter lead dissipated and with it, a shot at Ernie Kivisto's Aurora Tomcats. East Leyden hit 68 per cent from the field and missed only four attempts after halftime.

But when the Brady Bunch came against CSL member New Trier West for third place, they reverted to old form and smashed the Cowboys, 74-72.

They play again tonight at New Trier. It will be interesting to see what New Trier's Cowboys learned the first time around.

"If they're 20 points better than us, that might be," said Cowboy coach Mel Sheets. "But not 94 points. That's too damn many. It's embarrassing when somebody scores that many on you."

It's always been blood and sweat, mostly the former, for New Trier against Maine South. "We might be a little psyched. We can't seem to beat them," Sheets said. "I know since I've been here (seven years), we've only done it once."

And the man admits, "If I had to play a team every night, I'd much rather play East Aurora than Maine South. East Aurora will make far more mistakes."

Some other thoughts: Highland Park gave the CSL its second 100-plus point game during a 101-100 loss to Effingham St. Anthony at Danville. Chuck Bergen and Bob Santini each scored 38 for the Giants.

Maine South had the other biggie, winning 116-39 over Maine North a few weeks back.

The high scoring Hawks are also the CSL's leading offensive outfit, averaging 85.9 and winning by 27.4, also tops. Little Maine North has the worst offense (44.5) and defense (88.0).

Maine East leads a tight pack for defensive honors. The Blue Demons are yielding 56.4 per game, one-tenth better than Niles West.

Also in the 50s are Glenbrook North (56.7), Deerfield (57.3), Maine South (58.5) and Niles North (59.9).

The longest winning streak belongs to Maine South which had six before the East Leyden loss. Niles North opened with five straight. Niles West has duplicated four-game streaks twice.

Biggest losers are Glenbrook South with seven consecutive defeats and Maine North, all six.

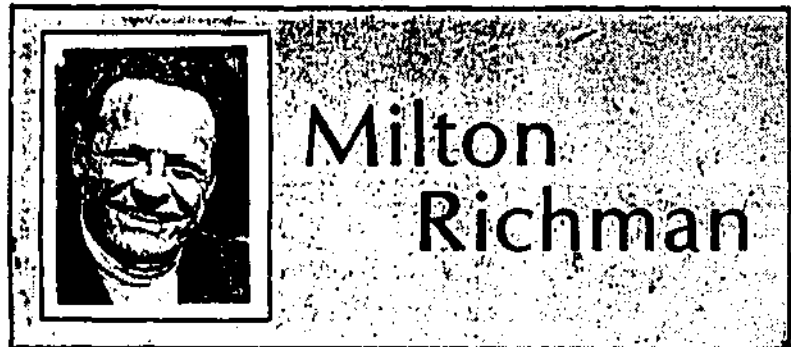

New coaches are holding their own. Dan Perry has Glenbrook North 5-6 overall and 1-2 in the CSL North. Ray O'Keefe's Niles North Vikings are 6-5.

But they stumbled poorly after Christmas, losing to Notre Dame by 27 and Maine East by 21 following a win over Fremd.

Unmistakably, Glenbrook South is the Central Suburban's biggest flop. After preseason talk of a possible North Division title, Steve Powers' Titans have stumbled to 1-9.

Our weekend picks: Niles West 35 over Glenbrook South, Niles North 15 over Glenbrook North, Highland Park 15 over Niles East, Maine West five over Maine East, Deerfield 20 over Maine North and Maine South 15 over New Trier West.

And incidentally, let us be first to beckon you a Happy Valentine's Day!

Milton Richman

NEW YORK UPI —Roberto Clemente kept saying he never wanted to manage, yet there were certain signs, little unmistakable ones, which clearly said otherwise.

Babe Ruth used to say he didn't want to manage either. That was while he still was playing. Then when they didn't give him the chance after he was all through, he never forgave them.

"What kind of manager would you be?" I asked Roberto Clemente not that long ago.

"Tough," he said. "I wouldn't stand for any foolishness, but I don't think a manager can treat a player right."

Roberto Clemente, possibly the greatest player the Pittsburgh Pirates have ever had, possibly even the greatest all-around player since Ty Cobb, did manage a ball club twice.

He handled San Juan of the Puerto Rican Winter League both times, and as Earl Weaver and Bill Virdon will tell you, everybody who manages in Puerto Rico can manage up in the Big Time.

Invariably, as a player with Pittsburgh 18 years, Roberto Clemente managed far better on the ball field than off it.

He spoke the other ballplayers' language, so communication with them was easy. He did not always speak other people's language, so sometimes communication with them came harder. Sometimes people misunderstood Roberto Clemente, his goals, his motives and the things he said.

There was the time, for example, some of his admirers presented him with an expensive new car here in New York.

"I didn't want it," Clemente said later. "And I didn't ask for it. I have my own car at home."

Some people took that to mean Clemente was ungrateful, but that really wasn't it at all. Actually Clemente was self-conscious about all the fuss being made over him, and the words simply came out the hard sounding way they did.

Another time, a Puerto Rican group decided to hold a dinner for Clemente, and he expressed a wish that some of his Pittsburgh teammates attend. Few did, and he was upset about it.

"How could we possibly show up?" one Pittsburgh player said. "We were never told when or where the dinner was to be held." That wasn't Clemente's fault.

The fact is he was easily the most popular member of the Pittsburgh ball club, not only with Pittsburgh fans but also with his fellow players.

The fact also is he asked for fewer favors or concessions from the Pirates' front office than any of his teammates.

Yet, it is also a fact that many misunderstood the talented, wasp-waisted rightfielder whose life and career came to an abrupt end on New Year's Eve at the age of 38 while he was attempting a mission of mercy to those left hungry and homeless in Managua, Nicaragua, by the recent earthquake there.

"Misunderstood is the best way I can explain him," says Joe Brown, the Pirates' general manager, who had a deep personal affection for Clemente.

"He was such a warm, fine, human being and yet I don't think he came across that way because I think he was shut off in his relationship by a good many people very early in his career."

"I think Bobby lacked confidence, certainly social confidence early, and a lot of people didn't understand him. I think the thing that . . . that . . . well, I guess killed him, was his desire to do things for people. What he was trying to do for the people in Nicaragua was one of the few public things he did. He generally did things, kind things, few people knew about."

Steve Blass and Dave Giusti, two of the Pirates' pitchers, were attending the same New Year's Eve party in Pittsburgh when they learned of Clemente's tragic death.

They heard about it around four in the morning and they were numbed by the news.

Two hours later, not really knowing what to do or where to go, both went to Joe Brown's house.

"I think they just wanted to go to share their grief with somebody they knew cared as much as they did," said Brown, who left for Clemente's home in Rio Piedras, Puerto Rico, Tuesday to see what he can do to help the family.

"We just sat around, had coffee and talked," Brown went on. "I remember one of the things Steve said. He said, 'The bad part is that Pittsburgh had him this long and never really understood him.'"

Roberto Clemente appeared in 12 All-Star games, won four batting titles and collected more than 3,000 hits, but didn't really "make it" until the 1971 World Series in which he batted .414 and ruined Baltimore almost single-handedly.

"It finally took a World Series for people to say, 'Hey, this guy is one of the greatest players ever to put on a uniform,'" laments Giusti.

Once you saw Clemente play it was hard to forget him. It was hard to forget how he so easily could take that little step in the batter's box and lash the ball to right field; how gracefully he could glide toward the wall and pick off the ball, and how incredibly fast and straight he could throw it to any of the bases.

I remember Roberto Clemente doing all those things, and doing them better than anyone I've seen in the past 10 years.

I can also remember his wife, Vera, saying:

"When he plays, he does it from his heart. He does everything that way."

Only one thing could ever really stop Roberto Clemente, and it did.

Glenbrook So. Wins Soph Invite

Glenbrook South triumphed easily over eight other entrants last weekend in the Maine East sophomore swimming invitational.

The second-year Titans paddled up 85 points, easily outdistancing second place Maine South (58). Glenbrook North had 53 points for third place.

Far, far down the standings were Maine Schools North, East and West. They finished sixth through eighth, accumulating 16, 18 and nine points respectively.

Notre Dame was blanked for ninth. Rolling Meadows (25) and Hersey (20)

Maine North's John Monaghan, a regular for the varsity Norsemen, took first places in the 50 freestyle and 100 butterfly (58.7).

His 23.4 second timing in the 50 freestyle bettered the old meet record by seven-tenths of a second.

East had no winners but Scott Strauss finished third (55.0) in the 100 freestyle and fourth (2:00.9) in the 200 freestyle. Chris Dickson was fourth in diving.

West's George Erickson earned the Warriors' only placing, second (1:06.1) in the 100 backstroke.

Layoff Ends; Spirit High

by MIKE KLEIN

Festly old St. Nicholas, giver of annual awards for good behavior, pulled a switch on Jerry Nelson.

He took away Nelson's post-Christmas tourney appearance at Oak Lawn. Flying off into the night, the legendary fat one mumbled something about a schedule conflict.

Consequently, Maine North's Norsemen have had three weeks to ponder their 6-6 record. Maine is the only Central Suburban League school that hasn't tasted victory.

The Norsemen get their first chance to change all that tonight at Deerfield. Game time is 8 p.m.

Ron O'Connor's home Warriors, 2-1 in the Central Suburban South, must keep winning or watch second place hopes go astray in a winter blast.

The Norsemen — well, they'd just like to win a game or two. And to that end, Nelson's club used its recess to reinforce fundamentals at both ends of the court.

"We're trying to bridge the gap of standing around too much," reiterated Nelson in an oft-spoken statement. "We're trying to initiate offensive play where five people are involved."

"So we've concentrated on getting down out timing and working on the little things like the types of screens and picks that we want to occur."

"Although we haven't had the big test under game conditions yet," Nelson said. "I did feel that toward the end of the holidays, we were accomplishing some of the things we set out to do."

Other changes have transpired since the Norsemen last exposed themselves for public evaluation. There will be fewer zones and more man-to-man defense throughout the remaining 11 regular season games.

That, hopefully, will correct a disastrous situation that has opponents scoring 88 points per game, worst mark in the Central Suburban.

"We're giving up some from our lack of rebounding size but at other times it seems to be from mental lapses in our defensive skills," Nelson stated. Maine has no player taller than 6-3.

"I found out by reflecting over some of our games that if we do play a zone, we tend to stand still and that also affects our offensive patterns," he said.

"In essence, then, we play a very dull game mentally."

About switching to man-to-man protection, Nelson theorized, "We might get beaten individually one-on-one occasionally, but we're going to stick with that as a primary defense."

Get the Norsemen moving. That's been Nelson's goal. Except, all the same Norsemen won't be doing the moving.

Sophomore center Derrick Brown has reinjured his left ankle originally hurt during football. Brown will be sidelined temporarily and replaced tonight by Mike Wilson. Both are 6-3.

But one of the bigger changes has sophomore George Kaufman moving in at forward with veteran Willie Vall. He replaces Wilson who moved to the pivot.

Kaufman had shown some earlier signs of helping the cause. His high varsity game was 10 points versus Maine East. But George tallied 22 in a jayvee game with Maine South.

Varsity-wise, he's hit 20 of 25 free throws. His field goal shooting has been more erratic, nine of 38 sunk for 23 per cent.

North's guards will be the same tonight with Mark Strassle (6-6) and Mickey Drewes (4-1) starting.

But Nelson says two other youngsters junior Bob DeMarco who started a couple early games and sophomore Ron Rhodes, could see increasing action thru season's end.

Potentially, Nelson could field three sophomores with Rhodes, Kaufman and Brown.

It's not surprising, then, that Nelson claims spirit is high. "Most of the fellows realize we're rounding the corner," he said.

"They're starting to see what we as coaches want and how we want things done from an execution standpoint."

"Certainly, a win will reinforce that idea a lot stronger than what we've been doing in practice sessions."

Tonight's opponent, the Deerfield Warriors, had bad luck starting them in the face twice during the Pontiac Tourney.

Ron O'Connor's club lost an 80-77 overtime decision to Bloom before dumping a one-point, 58-57, to Quincy Catholic.

In both instances, a late game free throw that fell astray could have resulted in Deerfield victory.

Eliminated early at Pontiac, the Warriors brought home a 4-5 overall record, brightened somewhat by the 2-1 South Division showing.

Two Unhurt In $5,000 Trailer Fire

Two persons escaped injury Wednesday when their trailer, at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caught fire after an explosion in the trailer's oil heating system. The fire occurred just 2½ hours before fire protection services from Elk Grove Village were to be terminated to the park.

Damage to the trailer of Zell Clark, 39 Charles, was estimated at $2,500 with another $2,500 in contents lost. Mrs. Clark and her baby were home at the time of the fire, and both escaped uninjured.

Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the fire started in a leaking fuel oil line in the trailer's heating system. He said firemen had a difficult job extinguishing the blaze because oil had saturated the floor of the trailer and had leaked underneath.

Firefighter George Rezny, 37, suffered minor injuries while fighting the blaze.

FIREMEN SAID Mrs. Clark said she heard an explosion and saw fire coming from her furnace, and then she grabbed her baby and ran to a neighbor's trailer to report the fire.

Mrs. Clark said a maintenance man had looked at the leaking furnace earlier that afternoon but had not fixed it, according to firemen.

Hulett said three engines from Elk Grove Village and one from Schaumburg responded to the fire. There are no fire hydrants in the park, and water had to be brought in. An engine from Hoffman Estates stood by at the village headquarters station on Blesterfield Road. The fire was out within 20 minutes, he said.

The fire occurred at 9:29 p.m., 2½ hours before the trailer park lost the fire protection services of Elk Grove Village at midnight. The trailer park, located in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, had been receiving fire protection through an oral contract the late owner, Lewis Gauger, had with the village.

Since Gauger's death two years ago, the heirs and owners of the trailer park have not recognized the content or existence of any oral agreement.

VILLAGE MGR. Charles Willis said the current owners were sent registered letters last week saying that because the owners failed to meet the terms of any agreement, fire and ambulance services to the trailer park would be terminated as of Jan. 1.

Willis said Tuesday the fire department had been authorized to provide protection through part of Wednesday to avoid any confusion because of the holidays.

Hulett said yesterday he met with Willis at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, and at that time he was told the deadline for fire service to the trailer park would be extended unofficially to midnight as a "final grace period for the owners to work out some arrangement."

"Starting today (Thursday) the fire department will perform only emergency evacuation services to rescue persons from burning buildings, and no ambulance services will be performed," Hulett said. "This is the same policy that applies to other incorporated areas with no fire and ambulance protection contracts with the village."

HULETT SAID the village has received inquiries from residents of the trailer park concerning the possibility of individuals buying fire protection from the village.

He said the fire department could not contract with individual residents without the consent of the board of trustees, which sets the policy for the fire department.

"I personally feel that any contract should be made with the owners, and not on an individual basis and not on a monthly basis," he said.

AN EXPLOSION in the oil heating system of a trailer at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caused $5,000 damage and left one family homeless Wednesday. The Elk Grove Village Fire Department responded to the fire just 2½ hours before fire protection services to the trailer park from the village were scheduled to be terminated because of the owners' failure to sign a contract with the village.

Two Unhurt In $5,000 Trailer Fire

Two persons escaped injury Wednesday when their trailer, at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caught fire after an explosion in the trailer's oil heating system. The fire occurred just 2 1/2 hours before fire protection services from Elk Grove Village were to be terminated to the park.

Damage to the trailer of Zell Clark, 39 Charles, was estimated at $2,500 with another $2,500 in contents lost. Mrs. Clark and her baby were home at the time of the fire, and both escaped uninjured.

Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the fire started in a leaking fuel oil line in the trailer's heating system. He said firemen had a difficult job extinguishing the blaze because oil had saturated the floor of the trailer and had leaked underneath.

Firefighter George Rezny, 37, suffered minor injuries while fighting the blaze.

FIREMEN SAID Mrs. Clark said she heard an explosion and saw fire coming from her furnace, and then she grabbed her baby and ran to a neighbor's trailer to report the fire.

Mrs. Clark said a maintenance man had looked at the leaking furnace earlier that afternoon but had not fixed it, according to firemen.

Hulett said three engines from Elk Grove Village and one from Schaumburg responded to the fire. There are no fire hydrants in the park, and water had to be brought in. An engine from Hoffman Estates stood by at the village headquarters station on Blesterfield Road. The fire was out within 20 minutes, he said.

The fire occurred at 9:29 p.m., 2 1/2 hours before the trailer park lost the fire protection services of Elk Grove Village at midnight. The trailer park, located in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, had been receiving fire protection through an oral contract the late owner, Lewis Gauger, had with the village.

Since Gauger's death two years ago, the heirs and owners of the trailer park have not recognized the content or existence of any oral agreement.

VILLAGE MGR. Charles Willis said the current owners were sent registered letters last week saying that because the owners failed to meet the terms of any agreement, fire and ambulance services to the trailer park would be terminated as of Jan. 1.

Willis said Tuesday the fire department had been authorized to provide protection through part of Wednesday to avoid any confusion because of the holidays.

Hulett said yesterday he met with Willis at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, and at that time he was told the deadline for fire service to the trailer park would be extended unofficially to midnight as a "final grace period for the owners to work out some arrangement."

"Starting today (Thursday) the fire department will perform only emergency evacuation services to rescue persons from burning buildings, and no ambulance services will be performed," Hulett said. "This is the same policy that applies to other incorporated areas with no fire and ambulance protection contracts with the village."

HULETT SAID the village has received inquiries from residents of the trailer park concerning the possibility of individuals buying fire protection from the village.

He said the fire department could not contract with individual residents without the consent of the board of trustees, which sets the policy for the fire department.

"I personally feel that any contract should be made with the owners, and not on an individual basis and not on a monthly basis," he said.

AN EXPLOSION in the oil heating system of a trailer at the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., caused $5,000 damage and left one family homeless Wednesday. The Elk Grove Village Fire Department responded to the fire just 2 1/2 hours before fire protection services to the trailer park from the village were scheduled to be terminated because of the owners' failure to sign a contract with the village.

Tough Law May Quiet Airplanes

by WESLEY G. PIPPERT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation may quiet down soon. Literally.

The 92nd Congress in its waning moments passed the 1972 Environmental Noise Control Act. It was far tougher than almost anyone thought possible.

The law covers just about every form of noise stemming from man's mechanical ingenuity. The most controversial part of the act gives the Environmental Protection Agency the initiative in regulating aircraft noise, with the Federal Aviation Administration possessing subsequent authority to set standards.

The EPA has reported that 80 million Americans are adversely affected by noise with 40 million facing a potential hearing loss. It said 44 million American dwellings are adversely affected by aircraft or traffic noise and 21 million other Americans are adversely affected by construction noise.

YET, GETTING a handle on how to deal with noise is difficult.

"While only recently recognized as a major environmental pollutant, noise may be one of the most perplexing," Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said. "Unlike the common air and water pollutants, noise does not accumulate in the environment. Noise is not subject to collective treatment and reduction processes. And noise is not subject to easy regulation."

The EPA said there is "some evidence" that workers exposed to high levels of noise have a higher incidence of cardiovascular disease, ear, nose and throat disorders, and equilibrium disorders. It said animal research has indicated that high sound levels can interfere with sex.

The EPA said that compensation claims for hearing loss have increased tenfold in recent years and judgments soon may reach into hundreds of millions of dollars.

During the months of drafting the legislation, the EPA and the FAA feuded over which should set noise standards for aircraft. The environmentalists wanted the EPA because they feared the EAA was too sympathetic to the aircraft industry. The FAA countered that it was more concerned than EPA about the effect of noise standards on aircraft safety.

A COMPROMISE was reached only hours before Congress adjourned. The EPA was given "lead authority" to study aircraft noise and recommend standards within six months. The FAA will have veto power but must hold hearings and justify its decisions.

Regardless of the legislation, the success of noise abatement will depend largely on engineering advances. Aviation is a prime example.

One method of cutting down jet noise is to acoustically line the pod that encloses the engine. But this cuts down performance by adding weight to the payload.

But the National Space Agency NASA found that neither performance nor economics suffered by enlarging the fan section of the JT3 engine that powers such planes as the Boeing 727, 737, and 707. There was some problem with the JT8 engine, however, which meant more study.

Then, the White House's Office of Management and Budget (OMB) impounded $15.9 million of the project on grounds that the FAA did not require anything more than acoustical lining to suppress jet noise.

NAS also had a $29.5 million study to develop a quiet, clean STOL (Short Take-Off and Landing) plane that could use 2,000-foot runways as smaller airports and thus ease the congestion around big city airports.

OMB stopped that project because it said the Air Force had a similar study under way. EPA contended the two projects were not compatible. The EPA has begun an appeal of the OMB cutbacks, but it is doubtful of success.

Commission Recommends Aviation Reforms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential commission has claimed the nation's aviation system is "in serious trouble" and recommend a multi-billion program to cure it, including direct government aid to airplane manufacturers.

The commission also proposed:

—Sharp decreases in allowable aircraft noise.

—Creation of an undersecretary of transportation for civil aviation.

—Establishment of a national land bank for new airport construction.

—Allowing supersonic transports to land in the United States as soon as noise and pollution standards are met.

THE TWO-YEAR study was conducted by the President's Aviation Advisory Commission whose nine members represented the public, government and industry. The commission placed the cost of its recommendations at up to $103 billion over the next 12 years.

According to the study, aircraft problem facing aviation today. Attempts so far by the aviation industry to cut aircraft noise "are insufficient to win public acceptance," the report said.

It urged the airlines to set up immediately "steeper takeoff and approach" procedures for aircraft, to speed engine retrofit programs, and to "retire from service" by 1980 any airliners unable to meet federal aircraft noise standards.

The commission recommended that supersonic transports be permitted to use U.S. air space "as soon as it is clear" that they do not cause serious environmental problems, that they do meet noise standards, and do not produce sonic booms over "U.S. land areas."

Potentially the most controversial recommendation by the commission was urging the government to give financial help to the airplane manufacturers.

"Direct financial participation by the federal government is recommended if the risk to private industry is considered too great for it to support," a statement accompanying the report said.

IT ALSO URGED the government to appoint an undersecretary for civil aviation to "handle the selection of civil transport aircraft" and to deal with federal aid to manufacturers.

Under the present system, aircraft manufacturers compete for airline business with individually designed airliners. But airline industry observers claim the cost of the super airliners of the future will be too great a risk for the manufacturers, who could face bankruptcy if an airliner is economically unsuccessful.

The commission said it would much prefer to leave the development of large transport aircraft up to the private sector.

Beth Silver To Note Bat Mitzvah Jan. 12

Beth Silver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Silver, 9482 Hamlin Ave., Des Plaines, will celebrate her Bat Mitzvah during Sabbath evening services Friday, Jan. 12, at 8:30 p.m. at Maine Township Jewish Congregation, 8800 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines.

Rabbi Jay Karzen and Cantor Harry Solowichik will officiate at this family service. Sunset services in the synagogue chapel will also usher in the Sabbath at 4:30 p.m.

Kenneth Epstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Epstein, 8895 Lyons, Des Plaines, will become a Bar Mitzvah during traditional morning prayers Saturday, Jan. 13, 9:30 a.m. The Sabbath will conclude with the Mincha-Maariv service at 4:30 that afternoon.

Chavirim, the young adult group, will hear Rabbi Jay Karzen at a special cultural program at 8 p.m. Sunday Jan. 14.

Plans are currently being made for an art auction Jan. 27 at 8 p.m. Objects d'art will all be offered at auction following a champagne-hors d'oeuvres pre-view.

Low-Income Housing Project Grant Gets Federal Approval

The village of Arlington Heights has received federal approval for 119 units of low-cost housing for senior citizens.

The U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has approved the units for Arlington Heights and earmarked $47,600 for planning, engineering and site selection.

The next step toward the realization of senior citizen housing here is site search, according to Victor Walchik, executive director of the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), which is acting as the village's agent in negotiations with HUD.

Walchik said it probably will be two to three years before the units are planned, built and ready for occupancy.

THE VILLAGE of Arlington Heights made application for 250 housing units in May, 1970. This week village officials were notified that Arlington Heights has been approved for 119 units.

In the past, four sites have been mentioned as possible locations for housing for the elderly.

One tentative site mentioned was the triangular piece of property northwest of the Jewel Food Store at Wing Street and Vall Avenue.

The land is already zoned for multi-family development and a proposal to build 99 condominium units on the parcel is now pending before the village board.

A SECOND site that has been talked of is land now occupied by the Hill-Behan lumberyard, just north of the Municipal Building along Arlington Heights Road.

The village has applied for a federal grant to purchase the Hill-Behan property and develop it for commuter parking.

A third possible location is the Dunton court parking lot, along Vall Avenue between Campbell and Sigwalt streets.

A fourth possible site is on vacant land adjacent to the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged on Oakton Street.

In the past, Walchik has said that the Lutheran Home site is probably too far from downtown shopping and transportation.

VILLAGE PRES. John Woods said yesterday he was confident there are "numerous sites in the village" that would be suitable for the housing development.

Woods said he was encouraged by the earmarking of $47,600 for engineering and planning, adding that he felt this was indicative of "an early federal timetable" for the Arlington Heights development.

"This is very good news and we would want to move forward immediately," Woods said.

When completed, rents for one-bedroom apartments in the development would average between $40 and $45 a month, Walchik said.

Individuals 62 years of age or older, with annual incomes of $4,500 or less, or elderly couples with incomes under $5,000 are eligible for the low-cost housing, Walchik said.

THE VILLAGE will be allowed to give priority to Arlington Heights residents who want to live in the development, providing the policy is "reasonable," he said.

Once a site is agreed on by the village and CCHA, it must be approved by HUD. The federal government then subsidizes the cost of construction through low-interest bonds.

There is no cost to the community, Walchik said.

Though Arlington Heights had originally applied for twice as many senior citizen housing units, Walchik said he felt "extremely fortunate" to get 119 units allocated for Arlington Heights.

"There are very few units available for the entire state," he said. "An economic study by HUD indicates that 119 is a feasible number of units."

IT'S THE REAL THING. BOAC's Concorde supersonic jet is now flying out of Bristol, England, in air trials. The plane was conceived and built in combination by the British and French governments. Plans to use the Concorde may bring the craft to New York on the BOAC trans-Atlantic run in 1975. Criticism of the supersonic's high noise levels is largely directed at the plane's prototype engines, according to spokesmen for the airline.

Local Engineering Urged As Part Of Underflow Plan

Local communities should begin engineering studies now on how to connect sewerage systems to the tunnel and reservoir system of the Chicago Underflow Plan, a Metropolitan Sanitary District engineer urged this week.

Forrest C. Neil, MSD chief engineer, told officials of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) that communities still will suffer from flooded basements and streets after the underflow tunnel system is built unless local connecting relief sewers are tied directly to the underflow system.

Neil singled out Skokie and Mount Prospect as two villages which already have begun local engineering. One of the underflow tunnels will run through Mount Prospect, while Skokie will have to extend a sewer to the tunnel if the current layout is not changed.

Skokie has hired an engineering consultant, Neil said, and Mount Prospect has contacted the MSD about reservoirs slated in the plan.

CALLING FOR local engineering on relief sewers to run concurrent with MSD engineering on the entire underflow plan, Neil said the tunnels could not be moved to save money once they are built.

"But we can move a dropshaft a quarter of a mile now if it will mean a savings overall," he said.

Neil said the MSD would not change the plan merely to benefit one community to the detriment of another, but if engineering studies show a local system will cost $10 million and the MSD can move the tunnel for $3 million, the district would change the plan, he said.

Neil told the NIPC planning commission that letters are being sent to urge communities to begin local engineering. John Walsh of Arlington Heights Assistant director of the Department of Local Government Affairs, suggested the MSD send letters to political leaders of each community explaining the opportunity to participate in the underflow plan.

THE NORTHWEST suburban section of the underflow plan will include tunnels and reservoirs serving combined sewer areas of Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Palatine. Surrounding towns with separate storm and sanitary sewer systems will connect their sanitary sewers to the system.

Neil explained to the NIPC officials that the underflow plan construction, essentially, will be "building a river below existing rivers."

In the Northwest suburbs the tunnels will be located under Weller Creek, Salt Creek and the Des Plaines River, he said. He added the reservoirs to be built in connection with the plan will not have any recreational use because they will be filled with combined storm and sanitary sewage.

River Basin Construction Outpaces Flood Control

Communities in the Upper Des Plaines River Basin have allowed construction to outpace new flood retention facilities — a problem that will cost $197,450 to correct, the chief engineer of the Metropolitan Sanitary District said recently.

While allowing developments that resulted in 449 acres of paved-over land, the communities did not provide adequate retention to hold the water that was absorbed by the vacant land before development, according to a report to the MSD Board.

The Upper Des Plaines River Basin communities (Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling) had a deficiency of 35.9 acre feet of needed retention for construction between Jan. 1 and Nov. 13, the MSD report indicates.

Only one other area in the MSD boundaries had a higher deficiency, the central drainage basin with a deficiency of 48.7 acre feet.

(An acre-foot is a measure of volume equal to the amount of water that could be held in a basin one acre in area and one foot deep.)

THE STATISTICS on retention deficiencies are part of a report to the MSD Board from Chief District Engineer Forrest C. Neil.

Over-all, there is a 35,088-acre-foot deficiency in retention in the metropolitan area which will cost nearly $193 million to correct, the report indicated.

Yet only 44 acre feet in deficiencies were added to that total this year, with the majority of the deficiency accumulated prior to 1969.

The MSD keeps tabs on the retention deficiencies as part of its process in issuing sewer permits. While local communities must now provide retention according to an MSD ordinance, development of land in small parcels and other loopholes in the law allow some deficiencies to result even if the MSD ordinance is met.

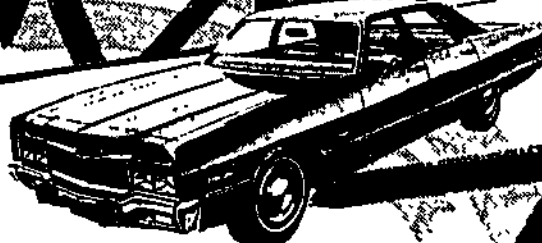

Other drainage basins in the Northwest suburban area had lesser deficiencies than the upper Des Plaines River Basin or no deficiency at all.

The Poplar Creek Basin, which includes Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Streamwood, had not additional deficiency even though 95.4 impervious acres were created by construction between January 1 and Nov. 3.

THE UPPER DuPage River Basin which includes Bartlett, Hanover Park and Schaumburg had a 3.3-acre-foot deficiency, with a total of 92.5 acres made impervious from January to November.

The Upper Salt Creek Basin had no deficiency even though construction led to 276.4 new impervious acres in the basin. Communities in the Upper Salt Creek Basin include Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Roselle, Schaumburg, South Holland, Barrington Woods and Stickney. The Ferndale Heights Utilities Co. also handled some permits in the upper Salt Creek Basin.

Terms, Procedures For Home Buyers

If buying your first home is one of your 1973 resolutions, you may encounter some unfamiliar terms and procedures in the course of the transaction. Or, if you've owned a home previously and are buying again, you may want to refresh your memory concerning the legal terminology used in the buying and selling of real estate.

Whether you're buying a single-family home, a townhouse, a condominium, or a co-op, you will be well-served by knowing and understanding those terms and procedures, advises John L. Hall, senior vice president and general sales manager of Baird & Warner.

Hall defines the words and explains the procedures involved in a real estate purchase:

Abstract: A summary of the history of the legal title to a piece of property. (See Title Insurance.)

Amortization: This is a provision for gradually paying off the principal amount of a loan, such as a mortgage loan, at the time of each payment of interest. For example, as each payment toward principal is made, the mortgage amount is reduced or amortized by that amount.

Appraisal: An evaluation of the property to determine its value. An appraisal is concerned chiefly with market value — what the house would sell for on the open market.

Binder or offer to purchase: A receipt for money paid to secure the right to purchase real estate upon agreed terms. An offer or a binder will be considered a contract when signed by buyer and seller.

Certificate of title: This is the paper that signifies ownership of a house. It usually contains a legal description of the house and its land, and restrictions of record.

Closing costs: Often referred to as settlement costs, these costs are in addition to the price of the house. They include the mortgage service charges, title search and insurance, and transfer of ownership charges. Hall cautions: "Be sure that your sales contract clearly states who will pay each of these costs — buyer or seller."

Closing day: This is the date on which the title or property passes from the seller to the buyer.

Condominium: Terms provide for individual ownership of a dwelling unit and an undivided interest in the common areas and facilities which serve the multi-unit project.

Cooperative or co-op: This form of ownership often is confused with a condominium, but there is a decided difference. The co-op is an apartment building or a group of dwellings owned by residents and operated for their benefit by their elected board of directors. The resident occupies but does not own his unit. Rather, he owns a share of stock in the total enterprise.

Depreciation: A decline in the value of a house as the result of age, wear and tear, or adverse changes in the neighborhood and its patterns.

Earnest money: This is the deposit money given to the seller or real estate broker by the potential buyer to show that he is serious about buying the house. If the deal goes through, the earnest money is applied against the downpayment. "But if the deal does not go through," the Baird & Warner officer warns, "the money may be forfeited unless specifics have been spelled out in the 'Offer to Purchase' contract. There are contingencies under which the earnest money can be returned to the potential buyer if the sale fails. Such contingencies could be the refusal of a mortgage to the buyer or a defect in the title."

Easement rights: A right of way granted to a person or company authorizing access to or over the owner's land. Utility companies (electric, natural gas, telephone, water) often have easement rights across your property.

Equity: A buyer's initial and increasing ownership rights in a house as he pays off the mortgage. When the mortgage is fully paid off the buyer has 100 per cent equity in the house.

Escrow funds: Money, or papers representing financial transactions, which are given to a third party (usually a Realtor or lawyer) to hold until all conditions in a contract are fulfilled.

FHA approval: This is a misnomer. "There is no such thing as an FHA approved house," Hall points out. "If a builder advertises 'FHA approval,' he is misleading you at worst and, at best, badly stating his belief that his house will meet the standards for an FHA insured mortgage."

To buy a home and obtain an FHA loan it is necessary to have an FHA appraisal and the purchaser's financial capability approved by the FHA (Federal Housing Administration) before a commitment for FHA approval is issued. Then the independent lender is in a position to disperse the mortgage proceeds. Some homes may have already bought an FHA appraisal to anticipate a buyer under FHA terms.

Hazard insurance: Insurance to protect against damage caused to property by fire, windstorm and other common hazards. Aside from its importance to homeowners, such insurance always is a stipulation by the mortgagee (lender) to protect his investment.

Home Mortgage loan: A special kind of long-term loan for buying a house. There are three main kinds of mortgage financing in the United States for single-family homes, townhomes, or condominiums — the conventional mortgage; the VA (Veterans Administration), sometimes called the GI mortgage; and the FHA (Federal Housing Administration) insured loan.

Mortgage commitment: This is the written notice which you will receive from the savings and loan association, bank, or other lender, saying that it will advance you the mortgage funds in a specified amount to enable you to buy the house.

Mortgage discount "points": Discounts (points) are a one-time charge assessed by a lending institution to increase the yield from the mortgage loan to a competitive position with the yield from other types of investments. "It is important to note here," Hall says, "that such points are always paid by the seller at the time of closing." Discounts are generally involved with FHA and VA mortgages.

Mortgage insurance premium: The payment made by a borrower to the lender for transmittal to HUD-FHA to help defray the cost of the FHA mortgage insurance program and to provide a reserve fund to protect lenders against loss in insured mortgage transactions. In the case of an FHA insured mortgage this represents an annual rate of one-half of one per cent paid by the mortgagor (borrower) on a monthly basis to FHA.

Mortgagor: The homeowner who is obligated to repay a mortgage loan on a property he has purchased.

Mortgagee: The bank, savings & loan association, or other lender who loans the money to the mortgagor.

Prepared expenses: The initial deposit at time of closing, for taxes and hazard insurance and the subsequent monthly deposits made to the lender for that purpose.

Special assessment: A tax for a specific purpose such as providing paved streets or new sewers. Owners whose properties abut the improved streets or tie into the new sewer system must pay the tax.

Title: The evidence of a person's legal right to possession of property, normally in the form of a deed.

Title Company: A company that specializes in a title search and insuring title to property. (See item below.)

Title insurance: Special insurance which usually protects buyers and lenders against loss of their interest in property due to unforeseen occurrences that might be traced to legal flaws in previous ownership. Likewise, a homeowner can protect his interest by purchasing separate coverage.

Title search or examination: Research of the title records, generally at the local courthouse, to guarantee that you are buying the house from the legal owner and that there are no liens, overdue special assessments, or other claims or outstanding restrictive covenants filed in the record.

Baird & Warner adds some pertinent words of advice: "Above all, know the real estate agent with whom you are doing business. If you are not sure of his reputation, check him out with your local real estate board (in Chicago, the Chicago Real Estate Board at 18 S. Michigan Ave.)."

The firm also suggests, "aside from knowing the terms and procedures of a real estate transaction, it would be to your advantage to engage the services of a qualified real estate attorney before you sign any documents and to represent you at the closing of the sale."

Hand-Me-Downs Can Be Dressed Up

by HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK (NEA) — Life is easier for most mothers today than it was for their grandmothers. Fancy kitchen gadgets, frozen foods and laundry units make a day's work much lighter.

But one problem doesn't ever seem to go away for mothers of two or more fast-growing offspring — the hand-me-down hangup. The kids outgrow their clothes long before the new, miracle fibers wear out. Most families have their very own "hand-me-downs" Linda or Lenny. And with this comes rebellion.

The small fry balk at wearing the same old clothes they're used to seeing on their older siblings. And even you can sympathize with their yen for individuality.

BUT THERE ARE ways to keep the kids happy and still satisfy your practical side. Use a little ingenuity to transform those old clothes into new-looking outfits.

Buttons and bows can change the look of a little girl's dress and cost only pennies. Sew buttons along one of the side hems of an A-line skirt or attach a bow along the top of a pocket. Change the look of a sleeveless dress by adding a bow or a few buttons along the shoulder seams. And let your daughter choose the color or style buttons or bows she prefers for her "new" dress.

A few inexpensive packets of dye can work wonders, too. Let your son select the new colors he wants in the shirts and jerseys "bequeathed" to him by his big brother. Your daughter may not like wearing her sister's old pink dress. But her own "new" green one could evoke enthusiasm.

USE COLORFAST yarn to personalize children's garments. Embroider names or initials on bathrobes or raincoat pockets.

Felt can be one of your best hand-me-down friends. A pajama top turns into a make-believe football jersey, for your son with felt numbers and arm stripes added. Sew some yellow and white felt daisies around the neckline of a dress. Dress up a girl's dungarees and pants with rows of ribbon or braid down the sides for the young fan-followers. Add fake suede fringe for the family Daniel Boone.

If your daughter's dress has a plain bodice, create a yoke by sewing on jumbo rickrack or ribbon in contrasting colors. And sometimes all it takes to freshen up an outfit is an inexpensive novelty belt.

IT'S NO SECRET that children have a way of attracting dirt and many of your hand-me-downs may have tough-to-remove stains. Other problems may be dulled colors or yellowing whites. Before giving up and tossing out an otherwise useful garment, try using an enzyme presoak and washing in an enzyme laundry product. Enzyme laundry products have been found especially effective in removing many stubborn stains and soil. A simple washday spruce-up may help you convert would-be giveaways into attractive, wearable fashions for the younger members of your family.

Perhaps you abandoned enzyme laundry products because of confusing information circulated about them awhile back. Some people believed them to be a health hazard. Others thought they might pollute the waterways. Neither is true.

To help clarify the issue, the Food & Drug Administration commissioned the National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council to conduct a detailed review of available data. The yearlong investigation revealed that enzymes in laundry products are safe for consumer use and can be more effective in removing many common stains than non-enzyme products. Also, enzymes are biodegradable and in no way contribute to pollution.

With a few creative ideas to help with your hand-me-downs and the ensuing hangups and the use of laundry products that make them clean and bright old clothes may outshine the new in your youngsters' wardrobes this year.

Now's The Time To Look At Family's Net Worth

The beginning of a new year is an ideal time to take a critical look at your family's net worth, says Barbara Bubar, University of Illinois Extension family economics specialist. Wise financial management can help keep your family's expenditures in line with changing needs and interests.

The net worth statement reflects a family's assets after all financial expenditures have been subtracted. A series of net worth statements over a period of time, perhaps yearly, can show you the financial progress your family is making.

A net worth statement is not a household inventory, such as you prepare for a fire insurance claim. It is best to place a dollar value on only those assets which have relatively high value and can be bought and sold.

WHEN TOTALING records, debts are relatively easy to list because you have receipts or charge-account records on hand. However, assets are more easily forgotten. Accumulated savings in three forms — liquid, tangible and non-tangible — represent assets.

Mrs. Bubar explains that liquid assets are savings that can be turned into cash relatively easily. Such assets are savings accounts, United States Savings Bonds, stock certificates, the cash value of life insurance policies and retirement or pension plans.

TANGIBLE ASSETS are given a dollar value by determining the current amount of money for which you could sell them. This group includes items such as land, car, house and furnishings.

The third form of assets, intangibles, are not usually included on a family's net worth statement because they do not represent articles that can be easily bought and sold. Examples of items in this group are education and good health.

Arriving at our family's net worth statement is not a complicated task. It simply involves listing high value assets and debts. The debts are then subtracted from the assets to find the family's net worth.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Now that you are out of your cast, this is too late for you, but it might help any number of ill-starred skiers this winter. I'm mending from a broken kneecap and wore a full-leg cast for six weeks.

I solved the bath problem with a plastic garbage bag tucked into the top of the cast after being put on over the cast. Put a few rubber bands on so that the bag would hold tight around the cast. I sat on a stool in the tub with my leg "parked" on the edge and used a "European shower," the kind with a flexible hose and telephone-type spray head which attaches to the regular shower head.

This cost $25, but it's worth it because you can direct the spray any way you want and will be great for shampoo rinses when the leg is fully mended.—Miss Minette Ebers, R.N.

Dear Dorothy: Trouble! Painted the inside of a cabinet with some old paint. It was in good condition so thought it would be okay — but, oh, the odor. Any way I can get rid of it?—Mrs. Myrtle V.

This came up once before and the mail brought urgings to use a dish of vanilla and even just plain water. The wife of a painter then entered the lists and recommended using a container filled with water in which was floated half an onion, cut side up. She said it would take out any paint odor and leave none of its own. Never heard a word of contradiction so it's probably the best idea around.

Dear Dorothy: I, too, use a wick to water my plants when I'm away on any kind of trip. However, I make sure that the bottom of the container of water with the yarn or cord in it is on a level with the top of the plant. What's more, one ought to have the proper protection under both plant and container as water stain or mildew can result.—B. C. Brown

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006).

'Y' Offers Women A New Figure In The New Year

At the top of the list of 1973 resolutions for those trying to lose weight is "a new year and a new figure."

It may sound like a gloomy project, but it can be fun and entertaining, according to Gerry Moynahan, diet consultant for Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines.

The "Y" is offering women two classes for weight reducing — one on Monday evenings from 7:30 to 10 and another on Wednesday mornings, 9:30 to 11:30. Both begin next week, the Monday class on Jan. 8 and the Wednesday session Jan. 10.

Babysitting service will be available for the morning course.

BOTH ARE planned for women who want to lose weight but feel they need a sound program, professional guidance and the company of others with the same problem.

The program includes low calorie diets with appropriate recipes, exercise, relaxation, posture and walking, skin care and makeup, hair styling and wardrobe planning.

Registration is open now by calling the "Y" at 296-3378.

For letters, there's a better way to fly than first class.

Sending important letters out of town by first class mail instead of Airmail is like sending business executives to important meetings on standby tickets.

What you save in money, you lose in other things; namely, speed and reliability.

Airmail gets sorted and processed before all regular mail (including all first class letters).

This gives your letter all the advantages a person would get from skipping the check-in line.

Airmail always makes the first plane out. If first class mail flies, it flies standby, when there's space on the plane for it.

And since the first plane out is the first plane in, you can rely on Airmail to get there first. Airmail hardly ever takes more than two days to reach cities throughout the continental United States—often only one.

Finally, Airmail commands attention because it looks important. It tells an out-of-town customer that your company values his business enough to write him the quickest, most reliable way.

Your company spends at least $2.96 when you prepare and mail a letter. For three cents more, you can protect that investment with Airmail, the most reliable letter service going.
